ADVANCING

A week ago the prediction was made that there would be an early advance in livestock. This week the advances were made. All lines were affected by the improved buying call and the small run was a most wonderful aid toward to market to climb out of the rut where it had been stuck for so long a period. Packers stayed out of hog market because they said they could buy them cheaper in the east, but the few arrivals that came were quite readily taken by the trade even though prices were somewhat higher. Top hogs went to $5.25 and $5.50 with sales at both figures. Receipts of hogs for the week totaled a scant 395 head, compared with 524 a year ago, 303 in 1906 and 911 for this same week in 1905.

While the run of cattle showed considerable improvement over the run of last week when but 280 head were received, and even over previous years for this period; arrivals did not come faster than the demand warranted, as witness an advance of 25c in the price during the week. This put top steers up to $4.25 and at that figure the market held firm for selections.

Trade in sheep was firm and active during the week, but it was not until the last day or so that receivers could obtain advanced values. A gain of 25c is shown for the week's price movement.—Portland Journal.
