The Three Hats

"Three Hats" drew a big house last Friday evening. The farcical three-act comedy was brim full of fun. Duncan Macleod as "Sam Selwyn" a married man, was well conceived. He is always good Dr. Davis played "Booco Blithers" to perfection. These two, with "Dibbs," the boy in buttons, by A. B. Roller, were the chief fun makers. Mrs. H. P. Belknap as "Mrs. Selwyn," was all right, but the part was not one that gave her talent much opportunity to display itself. Warren Brown of the Kilkenny Irregulars, made a fine looking soldier but the audience thought his love-making was too cold for a warrior. Of course it wasn't expected that he would break any ribs but there were some healthy Irishmen present who resented Warren's interpretation as a good specimen of old-fashioned Irish love-making. Miss Reed, Mrs. Davis and Miss Brown were caste for minor parts and filled them acceptably.

At Portland, Or., Friday, March 6, Mrs. Emma Stewart, wife of D. F. Stewart, of Prineville.

The news of Mrs. Stewart's death, while not unexpected, caused a feeling of gloom to overspread the community where she has lived so long. She was born in Mercer county, O., March 31, 1858, and was married to D. F. Stewart at Firth, Neb., October 3, 1875. She leaves three children, J. E. Stewart of this place, Mrs. Grace Krebs of Spokane, Wash., and Mrs. Una Carlson of Portland. She was a member of Sunbeam Lodge, Degree of Honor, and had been a member of the Baptist church here for fifteen years. She was not only faithful to her church, but just as faithful in believing that it was her duty as a Christian to do the will of her Master at all times.
