State Election Returns.

The incomplete election returns for the state indicate that Governor Chamberlain has defeated H. M. Cake as the people's choice for U. S. senator.

The vote on the initiative and referendum measures from returns received is:

To increase the salary of legislators—Lost by about 10,000.

Scattering the state institutions carried by about 4500.

The bill to increase the number of supreme judges was defeated by 3600.

The amendment changing the regular general biennial elections from June to the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November carried by a majority of 12,000.

The act providing that the sheriff shall have the custody of prisoners and that said prisoners shall be worked as county court may direct carried by over 9000 votes.

The act requiring railroads and other common carriers to transport state officers free was defeated by a majority of over 5000.

The armory appropriation bill carried by a small majority.

The woman's suffrage bill was lost by a decisive majority.

The wheelmen's fish bill and the gillnetters' fish bill both carried.

The university appropriation bill went through with a good big majority.

The open town bill was defeated by about 400 votes.

The single tax amendment was defeated by nearly 4000 votes.

The recall amendment was lost by a 2 to 1 vote.

The bill instructing members of the legislature to vote for and elect the candidate for United States senator who receives the highest number of votes carried by over 12,000 majority.

The proportional representation measure carried by over 4000.

The corrupt practices act carried by a 2 to 1 vote.

The jury indictment bill carried by over 4000.

The Hood River county bill got there with both feet. The majority for the bill was over 7500.

The above figures were tabulated from the returns of about half of the counties in the state.

Fred Wilson Wins by 1000

In the district attorney contest Wilson led in his home county by nearly 700 votes and in Crook by some 300, making a total of about 1000 majority for the Republican candidate.

Low Prices for Wool

Shaniko, June 2.—A special dispatch to the Oregonian says: The first of the season's sealed-bid wool sales came off today according to schedule.

Twenty-five lots, aggregating 800,000 pounds, were offered and sold at prices ranging from 9 to 14 cents, the bulk of the clips selling from 12½ to 13½ cents. Compared with last year's prices, the difference on the various lots runs from 6 to 10 cents lower per pound, or an average depreciation of 7½ cents which is equivalent to a 35 per cent reduction.

The fact that not a single lot offered was withdrawn is conclusive evidence that the growers have concluded to accept the present market situation, even though the prices realized are less than the cost of production.

Among the largest lots sold were Ewen McLennon, 155,000; Farquar McRae, 53,000 pounds; D. Chisholm, 30,000; T. Connelly, 47,000 pounds; M. Maxwell, 27,000 pounds; Potgen Bros., 32,000 pounds; F. Bregan, 75,000 pounds; Malone estate, 26,000 pounds; A. W. Forghen, 30,000 pounds; M. J. Finlayson, 51,000 pounds; W. R. Mascall, 58,000 pounds. The last lot brought 14 cents, the highest price for the day.

The second sale for this station is set for June 16, when it is estimated that something over a million pounds will be offered. The third and last sales here will be held on July 6, instead of the 5th, as previously published.

The large clips grown by the Baldwin Sheep & Land Company, Charles Hilton, R. R. Hinton and the Prineville Companies were not offered.

The wools of this section that have been famous for their character and quality are very disappointing this season to both buyers and sellers. The open winter, followed by a long dry and unusually cold and windy spring, are undoubtedly responsible for this condition.

The Rose Festival

Portland June 2.—Three miles of parading column threaded its way through three miles of banked-in humanity, last night. The "Spirit of the Golden West" parade exemplified its name, not only in the panoramic story of the rise of a great new country, as told by the floats, but in the enthusiasm of the populace.

Second only to the great concourse of people that greeted the opening pageant of the Lewis and Clark exposition was the multitude which stood patiently for two hours last night while the illuminated procession went by. And yet the crowd cannot be commended for its patience, for there was no strain on the patience. Something that appealed to the interest and imagination of all was passing every moment of the time.

In India the carpenters have an almost universal objection to sharpening their tools. They never set their saws, and when they get a grindstone they cut it into pieces and use the fragments for anything except to put an edge on either a chisel or ax.—London Standard.

Mrs. Vick-Senn's eyes flashed.

"Johnny doesn't get that weak chin of his from my side of the house!" she exclaimed.

"No, my dear," meekly responded her husband. "Johnny has my chin, but he inherits his mother's tireless capacity for keeping it in motion."

Plison—Are you going to take part in that guessing contest?

Dilson—Oh, no; they'd rule me out as a professional!

Plison—As a professional?

Dilson—Yes; you know I am connected with the weather bureau.—Exchange.

White begins in a tight roof that keeps the rain and wind out; in a good pump that yields you plenty of sweet water; in two suits of clothes, so as to change your dress when you are out; in dry sticks to burn; in a good double wick lamp and in three meals.—Emerson.

Emma—Charley asked me to marry him last evening, and I had to refuse him, the dear fellow.

Ella—How did it happen?

Emma—Of course I like Charley, but as to marrying him—

Ella—I mean how did it happen that he asked you?

Glove silver was the strange name given to a custom which prevailed in England during the middle ages—namely, the granting of a certain sum of money to servants to buy gloves with on Lammass day, or, as it is called now, bank holiday.—London Saturday Review.

Wilfer—These are hard times. Why, I heard of a man the other day who couldn't raise money even on government bonds.

Slimwit—Indeed! What on earth was the reason?

Wilfer—Well, you see, he didn't have the bonds.

"When will your heart soften toward me enough to let me marry your daughter?"

"I don't think with my heart, but with my brains."

"Then tell me, please, when can I expect you to get softening of the brain?"—Boelan.

"Sir," began Lord Brokeleigh pompously, "I've called to request your daughter's hand in marriage."

"That is entirely out of the question, my dear man," replied old Roxley.

"However, I don't want to seem altogether uncharitable, so here's $5 for you."—Philadelphia Press.

The head has seventy-seven muscles—eight for the eyes and eyelids, one for the nose, eight for the lips, eight for the jaw, eleven for the tongue, eleven for the larynx, eleven for the ear, seventeen for motions of the head and neck, one to move the hairy scalp and one for the eyebrows.

If plates that have been used for fish are soaked in cold water for a time after being rinsed off and then are washed in hot water in which a tablespoonful of ammonia has been dissolved there will be no danger of being mortified at the next meal by a "fishy taste" when no fish are on hand.

An old couple from the country were in town on a holiday, and on going along one of the streets they saw above one of the stair doors "James Simpson, Ground Flat," when the old woman was heard to remark: "Sic a death. Surely he's been run over w' a stean roller."—London Mail.
