

Erickson Acquitted of Horse Stealing Charge

After making a round trip of some 300 miles and spending a full week on the road, after doing a large amount of detective work as well as performing the functions of his office in a creditable way, and locating and arresting the two defendants near Harrisburg, west of the mountains, Sheriff Elkins yesterday saw his efforts go to naught for lack of evidence in the case against Charles H. Erickson and Oliver Erickson, father and son, who were charged with horse stealing by Horace Biggs, the complainant. The men were brought back in the custody of the sheriff and John Edwards of Gist, placed on preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace Sharp, and discharged after a short hearing in the office of Prosecuting Attorney W. A. Bell Wednesday morning.

The Ericksons, who live in the Bear creek country, took their arrest and the long trip back to Crook county as a matter of course and upon their acquittal the younger merely remarked:

"Well, we had good company back."

"So did I," replied the sheriff, sotto voce.

The horses alleged to have been stolen belonged to Biggs and were branded S bar. The Ericksons pastured twelve head of horses in Edwards' fields at Gist, and the latter was one of the witnesses. Edwards said that none of the horses he saw either at Gist or Harrisburg bore the brand mentioned by Biggs. The Ericksons took 22 head with them to the valley recently and Sheriff Elkins went over there to intercept the stock alleged to be stolen.

Jack May, Pioneer Dies at 78 Years

Jack May, an old pioneer in Crook county, died early Wednesday morning of paralysis, aged 78 years. He was buried here this morning by the county.

Rather pathetic is the life story of this old man, who, perverse though he may have been in his declining years, yet was without aid or comfort from his only son, William May, who lives at Scio. William May, it is currently reported, is well fixed financially, yet he would do nothing toward paying the old gentleman's funeral expenses, it is said, when notified of the old man's death yesterday by telephone.

For many years the son had wanted the father to live with him west of the mountains, but Jack May preferred to live here. A year or so ago he visited his son at Scio, but did not stay long, returning to the country he loved best in Crook county. Then, because of advanced years, he became a county charge, and now after a long life goes to a pauper's grave.

Must Pay Up.

All bills outstanding for 60 days or more must be settled on or before the 1st of October.

Ackerman To Attend Teachers' Institute

The Teachers' Institute of Crook county will be held at Prineville September 30 and October 1st and 2d. State Superintendent Ackerman, R. C. French, president of the Weston State Normal, Prof. Alderman of the University of Oregon and Charles H. Jones of Salem, editor of the Oregon Teachers' Monthly, will be present during the entire session.

No public school in the county will be in session during the three days of the institute. Every teacher of the public schools is required and earnestly urged to attend every session.

We are anticipating a profitable and interesting time. All persons interested in the great cause of education, and especially the various boards of directors are cordially invited to attend these meetings.

Apart from the work of the departments there will be evening programs, including a lecture by either Supt. Ackerman, President French or Prof. Alderman. Begin now to plan to attend. Programs will be sent out as soon as possible.

Sincerely yours,
R. A. FORD, Co. Supt.

Scotch Fife Beats

"Alaska" Wheat

All the recent talk about Alaska wheat, Durum wheat and other varieties of the staple recommended for culture in the arid regions of the United States are discounted by 54 bushels of pure Scotch Fife wheat which Jess Windom raised from only half a bushel of seed on his place in the Haystack country, near Culver. This 108-fold yield is remarkable in itself, but when it is considered that the wheat was raised for seed purposes only the profit of the grower in a year or two will more than repay him for his trouble.

Mr. Windom came to Prineville Tuesday with several bushels of this pure Scotch Fife, which is the purest hard wheat seen in many a day, scarcely a grain of any other kind being admixed. Although the top price for wheat at the Stewart mill stands at 55c, Mr. Windom received 60c for his product, and figures as well as facts and actions invariably speak louder than words.

The grower two years ago picked over a lot of wheat of badly mixed varieties and flailed it out on his barn floor, carefully selecting the half bushel of Scotch Fife which now has increased to 54 bushels. The wheat was raised on a "dry" ranch, where irrigation is never resorted to, and exemplifies better than mere talk the potentialities and possibilities of the supposedly arid but exceedingly fertile soil of Crook county. In other words, not an acre hardly of this rich interior country but will grow exceptional crops when the right kind of grain is sown.

The moving picture show is getting better week by week. Not only have the appointments of the little amusement place been improved, in the shape of a piano and rearrangement of the chairs, but the pictures are distinctly better, also. The screen pantomimes are certainly the next thing to a "flesh and blood" show, and the continuing large audiences attest the real amount of interest the populace take in them.

LOCAL MENTION

Miss Beatrice Johnson, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Columbus Johnson of this city, celebrated her thirteenth birthday anniversary Monday night with a pretty and enjoyable party given by her parents in her honor to a number of her young friends. The usual games and good time were enjoyed by all, refreshments being served by the hostess.
