DWARF APPLES.

They Will De Grown on Account of Their Convenience.

G. T. Pawell of Colombia county, N. Y, has been conducting some lateresting experiments on the value of dwarf apple trees in business orchards. It is what your flower beds and shrubbery the idea of Mr. Powell that trees of a low habit of growth will be required more and more because of the need of convenience for spraying and harvesting. The wide spaces between the rows allow plenty of room for cultivation by horsepower, while the trees in the rows will be thinned out as soon as they become crowded. The dwarf trees give fruit in a few years from planting, and the amount gradually increases. The small dwarf kind lasts six to eight years and the midwarfs for about twenty years. For dwarf trees the Spitzenberg, Jonathan and McIntosh are found success fut. They produce fruit of very fine appearance and quality, suitable for packing in boxes for the choicest trade. The dwarf trees must receive good culture, with plenty of plant food and careful cultivation. The soil is plowed and harrowed in the spring and is kept in a cover crop of clover during the summer. Scale and other insects are easily treated in the dwarf orchards. The idea appears so promising to Mr. Powell that he is pruning his larger trees on the dwarf plan, cutting back the tops of the standard trees in order to cause them to spread out and to remove the high parts of the tree, which make so much difficulty in spraying Advances Made In Apparatus For Shooting Life Lines.

Consul John L. Griffiths of Liverpool reports that the advisory subcommittee appointed by the British government to formulate a report upon the question of British ships compulsorily carrying life line throwing apparatus conducted some most important experiments in Liverpool recently, the results of which are briefly described.

The apparatus submitted comprised kites, buoys and different styles of guns and rockets. The first tests were those of West's drift buoys, which were followed by the much improved Regurk box kite. It was the opinion of those who witnessed the experiments that the kite is a successful invention and will be very serviceable when the wind is blowing on a lee shore. One of the most interesting of the tests was made with a balloon constructed of gold benter's skin in two weights. It carried a line for 1,500 yards. The principal tests, however, were made with rockets, cannon and shoulder cal experts.

standard of efficiency to which it has been brought. A projectile is inserted in the cannon, and the cannon is fired by means of a friction tube which propels the projectile a certain distance, and from that point a rocket is discharged which carries the line to its destination. The gun is portable and easily handled. Another interesting feature is that during the daytime the smoke indicates the direction in which the line is carried, while at night the fire of the rocket denotes the direction. For shore use this gun can be placed on a small bandbarrow, and, as there are no elaborate accessories, it can be readily worked by any person of ordinary intelligence. This gun is claimed to be the most satisfactory apparatus for heavy work, as, for example, from the deck of large liners.-Consular Re-
