Advise Homesteaders to Keep Daily Record

No patent to a homestead is now issued until after the homestead has been examined as to the amount of work, etc., done on it by a field man, the employ of the general land office.

Some excellent advice for homesteaders was given the other day by a field man who is connected with the general land office. He said:

"The man on a homestead should keep a daily diary so he can tell what days he was away from the homestead and what he was doing while away. He should keep a memorandum so when the time comes to prove up his homestead and get a patent for it from the government, he can show where he was during the five years necessary for him to live on the homestead to secure his patent, how long he was away and what he was doing.

"It is difficult for most homesteaders to make a living on the homestead during the period he is required to live on the land, and it becomes necessary for most of them to earn money elsewhere in order to maintain themselves and buy bread and other food supplies, clothing, horses, etc.

"When the time comes to make final proof before securing his patent, a homesteader must have two witnesses to vouch for him. These witnesses are required to answer a long list of questions bearing on the homestead, the amount of work done on it, etc.

"It is quite important that a homesteader keep in touch with his neighbors so they will know what he is doing. It is usually a very difficult thing to find a witness who is able to give satisfactory answers concerning a homestead covering a period of five years.

"It is at once apparent to every homesteader to realize the importance of keeping a diary of his doings and to keep in touch with his neighbors and letting them know from time to time what he is doing.

"The government is more particular now than formerly about a homesteader making his home on his homestead. It is very necessary for him to make his home there and have no other residence.

"As a general thing homesteaders are making an honest effort to acquire homes. In a few instances through ignorance or otherwise, homesteaders fail to come up to the requirements and thus lose the chance of getting a home out of the public domain"—Ex.

TEACHERS TRAINING COURSE.

and three. Special methods of teaching each subject will be given and the practical application of these methods will be illustrated each day by the instructor.

This course also includes work in English, psychology, and one period daily for hand work. All thoughtful teachers realize the great importance of hand work and know that they must introduce this into their schools if they wish their boys and girls to have the best education that can be secured at the present time.

This hand work includes clay-modelling, paper-cutting, folding and weaving, basketry and cardboard construction work.

This course is open to all who have finished eighth grade work or its equivalent. Those who complete this work will be able to command good positions in any of the grades. All who wish to specialize in primary work should enter this year if possible because next year the intermediate and advanced grades will be taken up and the whole time cannot be devoted to the primary work.

Mrs. Wickersham, who is to have charge of this work, is well acquainted with all grades of public school work. She has had experience in the country schools, city schools, and normal schools of this state and has had professional training in both the East and the West.

School opens Monday, September 13, 1909. For further information, address Principal M. B. Hockenberry or Mrs. Emma B. Wickersham.

BEST PRICE FOR BEEF.

Portland that sold in the local market at the unusual price of $4.25 a hundred, 65 cents a hundred above the current top quotation on the sort of stock that has been coming to this market.

There were 29 cows in the lot, and they averaged 1020 pounds in weight. They were all well-bred and well-finished Herefords, a breed that Mr. Gray has been raising for years on his Crook county ranch. The cows were consigned to the Gould Commission Company, of this city, and bought by L. Zimmerman for the S. & S. Company. The price paid for these beefs is said to be the highest ever paid for cows here at this time of the year, and it shows what can be expected in this market if shippers will send in the best.

Aside from this sale of fancy stock there were no developments of importance in the cattle trade. Receipts of cattle, as well as other stock, were fairly large, but there was the usual heavy percentage of medium to common offerings. The best sold readily at the top prices quoted for some time and there was a good general demand for quality beef material.

YOU PROVE IT!

An invitation to all owners of cylinder machines Columbia and others.

We could argue the quality of Columbia Indestructible Cylinder Records until a year from now—but what good would it do if you could not prove it for yourself by coming into our store and seeing and hearing it? We could print a whole newspaper every day about the special and original Columbia processes of manufacture—and get nowhere at all if the Records did not bear the evidence.

COLUMBIA INDESTRUCTIBLE CYLINDER RECORDS

won't break, no matter how roughly they are used, they won't wear out, no matter how often they are played. Moreover, their tone is far purer, clearer, more brilliant than that of any other cylinder record made. Don't merely take our word for it—come inside our store and listen. Cost 35 cents!
