Oregon Trunk to Bridge Columbia

The Oregon Trunk Railway Company, with head offices at Vancouver, Wash., and with $5,000,000 of capital, today declared its intention of doing business in Oregon by filing certain papers with Corporation Clerk Taylor, in the Secretary of State's office. This is the Hill Central Oregon project, and its purposes are set out in the following, which is article 1 of the declaration:

To acquire, construct, equip and operate railroad, telephone and telegraph lines from a point in the state of Washington, on the north bank of the Columbia River, connecting lines of the Spokane, Portland & Seattle company in the vicinity of Celilo, Or., thence crossing the said Columbia River, and by some eligible route to be selected by the board of trustees of the company, up the said Columbia river to the Deschutes river, and up the valley of the Deschutes river, and its tributaries, and in a general southerly direction to a point at or near Klamath Falls, in the state of Oregon, with such branches and extensions as the company may hereafter decide upon.

Rifled U. S. Mail Pouch for $100

United States Postoffice Inspector Durand, assisted by a special United States Marshal, succeeded in unravelling a case of rifling the mails Saturday afternoon at Madras.

About October 20 there disappeared a registered letter en route from Culver postoffice, between the Madras office and Shaniko, which contained a remittance of funds from the Culver postoffice. Other registered matter of less importance was also reported missing at the time but Postmaster Fred Davis of Madras was unable to ascertain the value of any excepting the letter from Culver which, according to reports from that office, contained currency and gold to the amount of something more than $100.

Inspector Durand refused to give out any definite statement when interviewed but it was ascertained that the records of the offices through which the letter passed showed that it went to the Madras office and was dispatched from there in usual form to Shaniko in a through pouch that is not Hariman Road Wins Right of Way.

The General Land Office has approved the Deschutes Railroad map covering section two of its line beginning at a point 40 miles from the Columbia River, this approval being subject to review in the event of the Columbia Trunk Line protest.

Over three-quarters of a mile of this section of the road, the Deschutes right of way conflicts with the right of way of the Oregon Trunk and the latter has the right of protest if so disposed.

About 20 miles of the Deschutes Railway survey is covered by plat map No. 2, extending from a point 40 miles from the mouth of the river to a point 60 miles up the river. The conflict mentioned being at about milepost 41. There the Hariman line crosses the river and from the east side follows the west bank for about one and one-half miles and then recrosses to the east side. The Oregon Trunk Line is located on the west side of the river from the mouth to mile post 73.

The place in conflict is just below Sherar's bridge. On the opposite side of the river is located the survey of the Southern Extensions Company a Harriman company that has surveyed a proposed railway route up the canyon from the Government dam site to Sherar's bridge.

From Medford To Central Oregon

The Pacific & Eastern railroad, the line now building eastward from Medford toward Crater lake will be extended as rapidly as possible to a connection with either the Oregon Trunk line or the Deschutes railroad, says the Journal, whichever reaches southern Oregon first.

John R. Allen of Medford, president of the Pacific & Eastern, is in Portland arranging for details of the work in connection with his railroad and also trying to secure about 500 additional men to rush the work on the new line.

"We have between 300 and 500 men at work now, I believe," said Mr. Allen, "but we want 500 more if we can get them. Our greatest trouble at present is to secure enough men to rush the work along as rapidly as possible.

"It is my hope to have the road completed to a connection with either the Hill or the Harriman Deschutes line within two years. It makes no difference to us which road we connect with—we are just as willing to do business with the Southern Pacific as with the Oregon Trunk. It depends upon which line is built first."

Informal affair and was held for the purpose of listening to the plans of Mr. Springer for getting up an exhibit.

There was a good deal of interest taken in the plans outlined and it was the consensus of opinion that it would be a good thing for the country. The only question raised was the lack of time to get up a good display. This objection was overcome by the members agreeing to busy at once. The time limit given for the receipt of products, school as well as agricultural, was set at Nov. 20. Exhibits left at the Prineville Commercial Club rooms by that date will receive proper attention.

Mr. Springer brought with him the big silver cup and ribbons won at the Billings Dry Farming Congress. The big cup stands 12 1/2 inches high. The engraving states that it was "presented by James J. Hill for the best exhibit of farm products raised in the Deschutes valley in the state of Oregon, under dry farming methods, exhibited at the Dry Farming Congress held at Billings, Montana, October 26, 27 and 28, 1909."

Besides the cup there are two first special prizes, offered by James J. Hill, one second Hill prize, five first international prizes and one second and one third international. The showing made should stimulate the ambition of Crook county people to capture some of the prizes at the Omaha Corn Show. We can do it.
