WHAT ARE YOU GOING TO DO

Get in and Drill or be an Onlooker?

WAKE UP, SAYS RICHARDSON

Some Pertinent Pointers—Let Them Soak In and then Get Busy.

Tom Richardson of the Portland Commercial Club said some good things last Thursday that we were not able to publish at the time owing to lack of space. Today we give you a few in the hope that you will ponder them and then act. Do something, if nothing more than join the club. Mr. Richardson said:

"To come to Prineville is an interesting visit; in fact it interests every resident of this country, because you are right in the heart of a section of Oregon in which there is going to be greater development within the next three years than in any other place in civilization. This is not a statement of a publicity man, but is made because the two greatest financial interests in the world are striving for supremacy in this section—the one popularly known and represented by James J. Hill, in reality the great Pierpont Morgan interests, and the other the Harriman system—in reality the Standard Oil Co. The two greatest combinations on earth are behind this great move for development. All are familiar with development conditions in Texas, Georgia, Colorado, Kansas, California, Washington, British Columbia and Oklahoma, but Oregon is the central portion of this great territory, and the primate is Central Oregon of which you are the metropolis.

I want to say to you that the ery of the world is for land. It is land you have got. In spite of what some men say, the lands are too high, and as they go higher and higher, do not get scared a little bit, because right in the neighboring county I expect to see land worth $5000 an acre.

Let us come back to Prineville. Here's where your interests are. Here's where you are going to make your money. Prineville has many advantages, for the production and distribution of agricultural products and merchandise, and other advantages which you know of yourselves better than I could tell you. Let us have a commercial club that we can be proud of, and let us have a publicity fund to adequately advertise the resources of this section.

Do you know that in Bend a man paid $8000 for a lot 25x50, and if the progress that they are making there is kept up and their advertising programme is continued, you will see lots up there twice as high as that, and you will see twenty times the population that there is there today. They have made up their minds to lead. The Dalles, also, with quite a reputation as a sleepy town, is waking up. Hood River's history you know. These places mean to be worthy of modern Oregon, and you can only do so by raising money, by getting hold, by advertising, and by letting other people know what you are doing. This is an obligation that you ought to fulfill. In some places they have a New-Comers Committee run by the ladies. This committee names some evening in which all the women who have come into the community within a year or so are invited to make acquaintance with one another. Individually you cannot call on them, but why not have a splendid auxiliary of the commercial club to make these new-comers at home.

In other parts of the state there is a very well supported publicity fund in connection with the commercial club, and men are contributing largely. Many banks are contributing $50 a month, others $25 a month. A committee named from among the subscribers handle the work and see that it is properly done. You ought to be able to use and raise a fund of $6000 a year at least.

Do you realize that if we had taken the same old stand in Portland and not adopted new ideas and not co-operated with the rest of the state, we would not be the city we are today. Right here where these great money combines are competing with each other to furnish you with transportation, is the greatest opportunity in the state.

If any of you were making a move, would you move to a self-satisfied town like this? Do you realize that in this audience is represented about $28,000,000, and what a trifle it would be if each were to do his part towards raising a good fund. It would be very easy to make this one of the most active and wide-awake communities in the state.

Why should a single envelope go out of the postoffice without carrying some information about Prineville? Why should not each letter contain a folder brimful of pertinent facts? Why should you not get each young man or young lady in the schools to write to "Aunt Mary" or "Uncle John" down East? The boy or girl of 15 today is taught something and knows what they are taught, and why they are taught, and you left school and did not realize what you had learned until perhaps years afterwards.

One of the fine things about a real live commercial club is that it gets you closer in touch with one another, and very often the more you get acquainted, the more you find that some of the men you always thought grouchy, were not so much to blame as you yourself. Community work makes you feel that you are doing something to help some one else, and you know that the sweetest things that you have done in your lives are the things that you have done for others.

If it were not for the dollars, I would not be here today, because Portland is interested in you, wants you to get right, because—Portland expects to get sixty cents of every dollar that you make.

Take the increased value of the little town of Bend. It has increased over $3,000,000 in and around the town within the last 18 months. Do you realize that in Portland the added wealth on increased values was something over $100,000,000 in less than a year after we had become active?

Don't say "I will give it Smith does." It's none of your business what others are giving.

You people are aristocratic off the railroad here. You are going to be in the world soon, and you men who have saved $40,000, have not begun to make money yet. That is nothing to what you will make when the railroad comes if you will but get active. But you won't begin to make any money until you begin to go forward.

Let us have a good commercial club here. Let us finish this building. I know there is work going on downstairs now, and that is encouraging, but let us finish this room up stairs. Let us all belong to the commercial club at a dollar a month. That will support the commercial club and a place to meet in, both for men and women. Start in, then, with some people giving $25, $20 or so per month for a publicity fund.

Now, you have been good to me, and have listened patiently and with interest, and I hope that I have had some converts, and that my visit here will do some good, because down there in the metropolis we think a good deal of this section around Prineville. We believe in you and are talking about you, and you can double and treble this interest by being active yourselves. Everyone will have something nice to say of Prineville, they will want to come to Prineville, and she will retain her leadership as metropolis of this great and growing section of the state. I thank you.

Boegli Plants More Peaches

William Boegli of the Cove Orchard, was in town the first of the week. Mr. Boegli has taken up a desert claim adjoining his orchard and has set out 1020 peach trees on a 6-acre patch. He says the fruit outlook is good, especially for peaches and apricots. He is also setting out his tomatoes that have become too large for the cold frames.

For the benefit of our readers living outside of Crook county, we will state that the Cove Orchard is situated on Crooked river, 1 1/2 miles from its mouth. The orchard is 1000 feet above sea level in a canyon 1000 feet below the level of the surrounding country. It is 15 miles west of Madras and 25 miles northwest of Prineville. He grows apples, pears, plums, prunes, peaches, apricots, nectarines, grapes and cherries. All kinds of berries grow to perfection.

Mr. Boegli has 13 acres in orchard and two in garden, besides the six just planted to peaches. His sales from the 15 acres last year amounted to $7200, and he expects his 1919 crops to exceed this amount.

We do not wish to convey the impression that all kinds of fruit can be grown anywhere in the county. This is not the case. In especially favored localities this is true but generally speaking only the more hardy varieties are grown outside of favored spots.

Died.

On Friday, May 6, Mrs. T. H. McGhee of Lamonta, aged 54 years.

Mrs. McGhee was visiting at the home of Mrs. John F. Morris in Prineville, a life long friend when she was attacked by a stroke of paralysis. It was the third visitation and the end came in a few hours. Her maiden name was Anna McFarland. She was born near Albany, Linn county, February 6, 1866. She was married to T. H. McGhee September 21, 1877. To this union five children were born, four of whom survive her. In the home she was a loving, thoughtful wife and a fond devoted mother.

Card of Thanks.

We desire to express our sincere thanks for the kindness shown us by Christian friends and neighbors during the sickness and death of our wife and mother, Mrs. Anna McGhee. We wish especially to thank Mr. and Mrs. John F. Morris, in whose home she was interred, and who gave so much time and care to the departed and also to the members of the family in their sorrow.

Crop Outlook in Crook County

The outlook for a bumper grain crop in Central Oregon is very bright. Some late-sown winter wheat on poorly prepared land is frozen out in spots, but not badly. The growth and color is all that could be desired. Spring sown grain also looks well, and the recent rains will do it great good.

The acreage in the northern part of Crook county is slightly less than usual on account of the high prices offered for freighting which induces farmers to neglect their crops.

Alfalfa promises an excellent yield this year. The growth is well advanced, the plants being 18 inches high in some fields near Prineville. There is an abundance of water for irrigation. Many farmers now have the water on the second time, and will apply it once or twice more before the first cutting.

Harvest will begin a little earlier than usual—perhaps about the 20th of June. The yield on well set and well-cultivated fields is five tons per acre, secured in two cuttings. The growth after the second cutting is used for pasture.

Some fears are expressed that there will be a scarcity of help in harvest. Wages are sure to be good and it is to be hoped that help will be plentiful.
