Your Money's Worth or Your Money Back

That's the proposition we make to every customer of our store, and our word is our bond. Do you know of a safer investment or a safer place to trade. We have repeatedly stated that we do not consider a transaction closed until you are satisfied, and we stand ready to make this good at any time. We want you to tell us when anything goes wrong with goods you buy here. Do you suppose that we would make such an offer unless we knew our goods were dependable. We also carry a full line of General Merchandise.

The Vale Oil Fields.

Oil in Commercial Quantities an Assured Fact.

That crude oil in commercial quantities will be found in the Vale oil fields in Malheur county within the next few weeks, is the positive statement of J. P. Wilbur, a woolen manufacturer and banker of Union, Oregon, who, with Mrs. Wilbur, are guests at Hotel Prineville.

Mr. Wilbur is touring Central Oregon looking for a suitable location for a large woolen mill and in a conversation with a representative of the Journal stated that he was a heavy investor in the Vale fields and believed in a short time there would be developments in the crude oil in Malheur county that will add a great and growing industry to this section of Oregon. He has backed his judgment with capital and is very sanguine as to the result. He will stay in Prineville a week looking over this section of the interior.

Ketchum-Hodges Wedding

A very pretty wedding took place Wednesday evening at 8 p. m. when Randolph D. Ketchum and Miss Gertrude Hodges were married at the home of the bride's father in this city. The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. P. Bailey. Harold L. Hobbs was best man and Miss Edna Estes was bride's maid. A ring ceremony was used, which was short but pretty. Refreshments were served after the ceremony. Many beautiful and useful gifts were received by the young people. Mr. and Mrs. Ketchum will make their home in this city, for a time at least.

LOCAL MENTION

J. Davidson of Bend, was in Prineville yesterday.

Frank Hensley of Redmond, was in the county seat Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Wilbur of Union, Oregon, arrived Tuesday, overland in a Franklin car.

Memorial day was fittingly observed in Prineville. The three cemeteries were visited by many people.

John Mattson was in from his ranch north of Prineville Monday. Mr. Mattson reports all crops looking well and says fall grain of all kinds is looking fine, and will be ready for harvest three or four weeks earlier than usual.

On Friday June 10, at 8 p. m., in the M. E. church, the Junior League will give a graduating exercise. The Juniors are preparing a program for that evening, a part of which will be the presentation of certificates to all who have passed in the year's work. All are welcome.

Presbyterian Church, Sunday June 5, 1910. Bible School at 10 a. m. Preaching at 11 a. m. Subject, "Who is my Neighbor?" Evening Twilight Service, commencing at 7:30 and dismissing promptly at 8:30. Come and you will be made welcome. (Claremont C. Babbidge, minister.)

Harmon Cook, chairman of the committee of arrangements for Flag Day at Laidlaw, June 14, writes the Journal to announce that old soldiers of Crook county are invited to be present to help form an Old Veterans' Association. Soldiers of the Crook county Indian, Mexican, Civil or Spanish wars are eligible. Any visiting comrades will also be made welcome. A good program is promised on that day at Laidlaw.

At the first Methodist church for Sunday June 5, the subject for the morning service will be, "The Second Coming of Christ." The one for the evening, "The Autobiography of a Boy." This subject is treated in a very practical way and is of special interest to the young man. It deals with those experiences through which we pass on the road from boyhood to manhood, and which have in them the possibility of success or failure. It is also of special interest to the parent because it endeavors to unfold some of the mysteries of that life stream as it flows out to the ocean of life. A welcome for strangers. The church is two blocks east of the Prineville Hotel. J. D. Lewellen, pastor.

Trains Into Central Oregon This Year

It is now indicated that by the end of the year 1910 trains will be running into Central Oregon over the Deschutes Railroad and Oregon Trunk Line, says the Oregonian.

Tracklaying on the Oregon Trunk Line, it is said at the general offices of the road, will probably begin about August 1, and it is expected by that time the grade will be in condition so that the tracklaying can continue without interruption to Madras and possibly to Crooked river. Rails will be laid at the rate of about two miles a day, so there is a good prospect that the Oregon Trunk will also be ready to operate trains to the interior by November 1. It is said, however, by an officer of the road, that until the Columbia River bridge at Celilo is completed, trains operated will probably be mixed. Transfer to the North Bank will be made by ferry. The Celilo bridge will probably not be completed before next summer.

There are employed at present on Porter Brothers' portion of the Oregon Trunk contract about 4100 men. H. C. Henry, who has the contract for grading the road from Madras south, is engaged in getting his outfits on the ground.

Eastern Oregon's Assets

Thousands of people are watching with keen interest the progress being made in the strenuous race for the liquid wealth underlying 30 square miles of Malheur county now being made by the various companies now boring for oil near Vale, Or.

The ponderous drills, working day and night, are slowly but surely cutting their way deep down over 1600 feet into the bowels of the earth to turn loose the stream of liquid wealth imprisoned there for perhaps centuries.

Logs taken of the shale and oil sands strata of the Columbia and Mammoth wells as compared with the producing wells in the famous Coalinga field in California prove that any day now and hour may develop a gusher that will mean millions to the fortunate investors who have acquired holdings either in land or in stocks of these companies, or in the field. Out of 76,000 acres withdrawn from entry last June by the United States government and set aside as oil land, less than 12,000 acres remain available in 30 days' time, so rapidly is the land being acquired by location, that not an acre will be available.

A few hundred dollars invested now may mean a fortune in a short time.

The acquisition of thousands of acres in the field by the James J. Hill interests speaks in no uncertain tones of the future of what is considered by no less an authority than the government oil geologist, C. M. Washburn, as the largest undeveloped oil field in the United States.

Some day in the near future Eastern Oregon will wake up to find herself in the midst of a wild scramble for oil lands such as was witnessed in California only a few years ago, and last year the oil output of that state measured in dollars exceeded by $4,000,000 the combined wealth of all the other minerals combined in the entire state. All of this means much to Oregon and her people.
