Will Extend Beyond Bend

Encouraged by the business conditions in Oregon, James J. Hill, the railroad builder, announced the eventual extension of the Oregon Trunk Line from the present proposed terminus at Bend.

"We will extend the line beyond Bend," said Mr. Hill, as fast as the country develops and justifies us in the expenditure. Whether we will build directly south or whether we will strike out in another direction depends largely upon the future development of that portion of the state.

"It is certain that we will extend our lines and we hope to be able to do this within a short time. We would not have gone to all the expense of pushing our road through the Deschutes valley if we did not calculate to do considerable work in Central Oregon. It is difficult, though, to do a lot of work if there is no chance to see some business return from it.

"We are trying to call attention to Central Oregon and to help build up the country. We have brought in a great many people in the last few years and expect to bring in more. All of this will help the business of the railroads and will enable us to do the improvement work that we count upon doing. Thus far we have been encouraged with the success that has followed our efforts to exploit Oregon.

"There is much work to be done in Oregon, and if the state continues to develop within the next few years as it has in the past few years we will be able to push our development work quite rapidly." As to whether the east-and-west road through Oregon will be built, Mr. Hill said also depends largely upon conditions of the future. He included that project in his statements with reference to all the future improvements beyond Bend. He talked very optimistically of all the country through which the great Hill system operates, however.

"Oregon has a good outlook," he

Department of the Interior, United States Land Office, The Dalles, Oregon, November 25, 1910. A sufficient contest affidavit, having been filed in this office by Ada E. Morse, contestant, against homestead entry, No. 1471, made May 25, 1908, for S.W. Section 2, Township 15, S., Range 14, E., Willamette Meridian, by John M. Stewart, deceased, Contestee, in which it is alleged that said John M. Stewart died on or about March 13, 1908; that since said date, his heirs, Alice S. Johnson, John M. Stewart, Mary S. Anderson, William W. Stewart and Ruth Bloom have failed to reside upon or cultivate said tract as required by law; that said contest was not due to final payment in the army or marine corps of the United States in time of war. Said parties are hereby notified to appear, respond, and offer evidence touching said allegation at 10 o'clock a. m. on January 13, 1911, before T. E. J. Duffy, a notary public at his office in Prineville, Oregon, and that final hearing will be held at 10 o'clock a. m. on January 24, 1911, before the Register and Receiver at the United States Land Office in The Dalles, Oregon. The said contestant having, in a proper affidavit, filed November 22, 1910, set forth facts which show that after due diligence personal service of this notice can not be made, it is hereby ordered and directed that such notice be given by due and proper publication. 12-8 C. W. MOORE, Register.

Clifton & Cornett's Big Department Store

It is not the simplest thing in the world to dress smartly, even though the clothes you wear are smartly styled.

It is not always the chap with the most expensive clothes who looks most classy.

It is not the pattern nor the style of a suit which makes that suit good and true.

These are old truths which we cannot dispute.

We have made it our special business to help you dress smartly, even though you sometimes feel that you will never appear as well dressed as the other fellow.

It is not necessarily the most expensive clothes that lend the most grace to a fellow's figure. Becoming style in a satisfactory quality will do as well if not better.

When you look at clothes seek Style, Fabric and Fit. Take a careful look at "Modern Clothes," designed and made by Brandegee, Kincaid & Co. You are sure to find in them many things you have wanted but have not been able to obtain.
