Land Fraud Cases

Oregon State Senate in 1901, and when the Legislature met in January, 1903, he voted for Charles W. Fulton. Williamson was re-elected to Congress in 1904, but never served his term, because of the land-fraud agitation and his indictment.

After Judge Bellinger died, Judge Dehaven of San Francisco, was sent to Portland, and took up the land fraud trials. He excluded some of Heney's evidence. The story is told that Heney went to Judge Dehaven in chambers for a private conference, and was told to make any statements he desired in open court. Heney, it is said, then secured the transfer to Portland of Judge Hunt. A peculiar circumstance in this connection is that the evidence which Judge Dehaven excluded, but which Judge Hunt admitted, is the evidence upon which the Williamson case was reversed in the Supreme Court.

Mr. Fulton was asked last night whether he had anything to do with the opposition to Judge Hunt's confirmation, which was taken before the Judiciary Committee of the United States Senate. He denied that he was in any way connected with it, but said he was frank to say that he does not think Hunt should be appointed. It will be remembered that Heney attacked Fulton in a public address when Fulton was running a second time for the United States Senate, and that Fulton was defeated.—Oregonian.

Big Gathering of Sheep Men

The 13th annual convention of the Oregon Wool Growers' Association will be held at Portland Oregon, January 3, 1911, just one day before the opening of the great 47th annual convention of the National Association and Midwinter Sheep Show.

Portland and her commercial Club are making elaborate preparation to give the wool growers bounteous and sumptuous entertainment. These two conventions coming together promise to be a great and most significant gathering of sheepmen. It is up to us to show our appreciation to Portland by accepting her invitation in person next month and help welcome our brother sheepmen.

It will be a business session discussing tariff, forest reserves, quarantine and speed limit laws.

predatory animals, wool sales, appointment of advisory boards and other subjects especially important and vital to the industry. The most important and expert men in America on these subjects have places on the program of the national convention.

The Forest Reserve officials in charge of grazing on Oregon National Forests have agreed to consult and listen to regular appointed Advisory Boards of the various Forest Reserve. All general questions and charges regarding grazing on Forest Reserves will be taken up with the Advisory Boards that have been duly recognized. In this way we hope to cure many evils that now exist and have the right of the users maintained. However, before the Advisory Board of stockmen of any association will be recognized, an application must be filed with the Forest Service, together with a list of membership which shows that a majority of the users belong to the Association making the application.

This Association will, without question, ask for recognition and also select at Portland, Oregon, January 3rd, 1911, at the 13th Annual Convention, an Advisory Board for the coming year for most of the Forest Reserves in Eastern Oregon. You should have a voice in selecting the Advisory Board for your Reserve.

Before you can participate in this selection you must be a member of the Association in good standing. It is therefore very important that you join at once, pay your dues and assessments, and attend the Portland meeting or have someone there to represent you. You are urged to protect your allotment rights by having a capable and honest Advisory Board to deal with the Forest officials on matters pertaining to your reserve. Join at once if not a member and come to Portland and help select your Advisory Board. Remem-
