

KANSAS CITY'S HOUSECLEANING

Business and Professional Men Don Overalls and Help.

JUNIOR STREET SWEEPERS.

The Enterprise of That City an Object Lesson Well Worth Copying by Our Town—Juvenile League of Fourteen Thousand School Children.

Recently Henry E. Dean, commissioner of parks and public property in Kansas City, Kan., sent letters to business and professional men in the Armistice district asking them to appear at Shawnee park prepared to spend the day in the work of cleaning the district of weeds and trash. That the school children also might be interested they were asked to clean the yards and alleys.

They began to gather as early as 7:30 o'clock in the morning—lawyers, merchants, doctors, preachers, real estate men—armed with shovels, hoes and an abundance of enthusiasm. An hour later the attack began.

The party was divided into three sections—one to work on Osage avenue, another on Kansas avenue and a third on cross streets. Wagons, furnished by the city and by business firms, were on hand to follow the workers and collect the results of their labor.

Up one side of the street and down the other they worked, cleaning the street and parkings of weeds and papers and piling them for the wagons to collect and cart away. And school boys who had not been detained at home to clean the yards followed the shovel and hoe brigade with brooms.

And the women were working too. While their husbands were cleaning the streets they were sweeping the yards,

PRESERVING MEATS.

New Italian Process Eliminates the Use of Ice.

The public is prone to shudder at the statement of our government investigators who declare that meat can not be preserved a year or so in storage without danger of putrefaction, but what will this same public say to the statement of the Italian experts who have discovered a means of mummifying the fresh killed beef or sheep so that not even ice is required to keep the meat in a perfectly normal and luscious condition in a moderate temperature?

The procedure described sends an elaborate that one can scarcely believe it will be feasible for practical purposes. First a simple solution of 100 parts of water, 25 parts of common salt and 4 parts acetic acid is prepared. Then when the beast is killed the vitals are drained of blood, and the solution is injected into the system in its stead.

The original experiments were made at Turin, and the animals experimented upon were hung up in an even temperature of 61 degrees F. and allowed to remain there for two months and a half. Then the creatures were skinned, cut up and prepared for the scientific reveal. When the detectors were that indulged in the repast is not generally known as yet, but all tests showed that the flesh was tender, exceedingly palatable and in every respect as good as fresh meat, if not superior. It is declared that there need be no time limit to the preservative powers of this exceedingly cheap and simple solution.—Chicago Tribune.

HINT FOR THE WORKSHOP.

How to Cut a Right Hand Thread With a Right Hand Tap.

The illustration herewith shows how a left hand thread can be cut with a right hand tap. Two holes are drilled in a very hard piece of wood in such a manner that they cut into each other. The tap is screwed into one and held rigid. The other hole serves as a guide for the rod that is to be threaded, causing the rod to bear against the outside cutting edge of the tap. By turning this rod in a left handed direction a left hand thread will be cut, both the pitch and cutting edge of the tap coming true for this purpose.

TO REPLENISH FORESTS.

Government Has Secured Ten Tons of Tree Seed.

Owing to the immense amount of timber that has been cut from our forests in the past and because the failure to plant new trees has so reduced the supply of certain hard woods the department of agriculture has gathered, through the efforts of its forest rangers and foresters, some ten tons of tree seed, which it is planned to plant in the burned sections of the west and in those sections where certain trees will thrive the best.

When one considers that in one pound of seed there are about 10,000 individual seeds it will be realized how much time and labor were expended to secure ten tons. Out of these 10,000 individual seeds in each pound it is expected that there will mature about 400 plants or young trees. The seed is to be planted where it is desired to have the trees grow, going away with transplanting and thinning out.

In this manner the department of agriculture expects to be able to replenish the now nearly depleted forests and at the same time to bring about relief from a possible wood famine.—Scientific American.

Sugar as a Food.

In a paper on the value of sugar as food as compared with fat M. Auguste Chauveau maintains that its nutritive value is considerably higher than that deduced from its heat of combustion and that the calculation that 0.756 pound of the former is equal to one pound of the latter is in many cases exceeded. The increase in relative nutritive value is due largely to the fact that sugar promotes assimilation of the proteins and reduces dissimilation, and the value of a food must necessarily depend not only on the energy it is capable of supplying, but also on the indirect influence that it is capable of exerting in the renewal and formation of animal tissue. From whatever point of view the matter is regarded, the superiority of sugar over fat as a food, whether for men at rest or at work, is very distinct.

Fish of Canal Zone Waters.

The Flood Museum of Natural History at Chicago announces the intention of that institution to make a study of the fresh water, brackish and salt water shore fish of the canal zone during the coming dry season. The study will be made before the completion of the canal in order that the fish may be taken before they have had a chance to cross the divide and undergo the changes incident to a new environment.
