ASSOCIATION IS STRONG

Threshermen Represent Nearly Six Million Dollars Invested Capital.

Portland.—"The threshermen of Oregon have a stronger organization than any other association in the United States. They represent nearly $6,000,000 of invested capital. They have a membership of more than 1200. They have immense power in the development of this state and they are using it. I am proud of the Oregon State Threshermen's Association," said Philip S. Bates, secretary of the organization, last speaker at the annual banquet in the Commercial Club.

With the end of the banquet the threshermen adjourned to meet again in Salem, December 7-8. They voted this year's meeting one of the most successful they have ever held. Votes of appreciation for hospitality were also unanimous. The association went on record as endorsing the good roads movement as reorganized in Oregon, and made plans for materially assisting the movement to get satisfactory highway legislation.

STATE BOOKS DELAYED

Usual Distribution Postponed as the Printer is Rushed.

Salem.—Secretary Oleott has announced that the laws on fish and game, mining and roads, as compiled in pamphlet form, will not be ready for distribution until June 25. While the copy was ready by April 10, they have been held up for more important matter in the hands of the printer. The new directory, or "Blue Book," of the state will be ready probably in a few weeks. It is now in the hands of the printer. While this has been ready for several weeks, it was delayed on request of Governor West, so that the names of the new appointees, made after the new laws went into effect, might be included.

Brownsville Scene of Big Meeting.

The assembly was the outgrowth of a suggestion made at a recent meeting of the Brownsville Commercial Club, which has taken deep interest in better and more fruitgrowing.

GETTING SHAPE IN STOCKINGS.

THREE WAYS: 1 Sew the shape in with a seam, which probably rips and is always uncomfortable. 2 Stretch the hose over a shaping board and press the shape in. Such shape washes away—is not permanent. 3 The third way—The Burson Way—is to knit the shape in, build up the shape round by round, inch by inch. In such shape there is always permanency and comfort. Why not try Burson Hosiery?
