

MAY PASS BILLS OVER TAFT'S VETO

Leaders of House Democrats Believe They Have Necessary Strength.

Washington.—The impression prevails generally among members of both houses that President Taft will veto the various tariff revision bills, and there is much speculation as to whether or not the necessary two-thirds can be secured to pass the bills over the president's veto. Democratic leaders in the House of Representatives believe they have enough votes to pass the wool tariff revision over President Taft's veto if necessary. There are at present 289 members of the House and two vacancies. Of the members 226 are Democrats, 161 Republicans of whom 129 are classed as regulars, one independent and one Socialist. Two-thirds of the total membership would be 259, leaving the regular Republicans shy by two votes of the one-third they needed in case the total membership was present when the bill was reconsidered.

Attention Centers on Tariff Bill.
Legislation centers on the tariff revision bills that are expected to emerge from conference and committee. The free list bill and the wool tariff are in the hands of Senator La Follette and Representative Underwood, La Follette representing the Republican "progressives" in the Senate, and Underwood the Democratic party in control of the House. Both the Senate and House leaders express confidence that an agreement will be reached on both the wool and the free list bills.

The House practically has completed its program and is awaiting action on the tariff revision bills it has sent over to the Senate. The House ways and means committee has already begun work on the iron and steel tariff, which is the schedule on which W. J. Bryan attacked Mr. Underwood and on which Mr. Underwood replied, with the unanimous support of the House Democrats. The committee has taken no affirmative action toward preparing new tariff rates, but Chairman Underwood has put experts to work compiling data.

The cotton tariff revision bill, which was passed by the House, was sent to the Senate finance committee, by a resolution of the Senate, which requires an early report on the measure.

More Members for Coast.
The passage of the congressional reapportionment bill by the Senate assures increased representation in the next Congress from all northwest-ern states. At the congressional election next year Oregon will elect three representatives instead of two; Washington will elect five instead of three, and Idaho two instead of one.

The reapportionment bill, as passed by the Senate, bears an initiative and referendum feature to safeguard against gerrymandering in a number of states. The initiative and referendum provision provides that in case of an increase of representation of any state, the redistricting, instead of being done by the State Legislature as provided in the House bill should be "in the manner provided by the laws" of the state, thus leaving the redistricting subject to the initiative and referendum laws wherever they have been placed on a state's statute books.

Taft Will Take Spellbinding Trip.
The most important trip that President Taft has planned since he has been in the White House, in the view of the Republican leaders, a trip on which he is expected to open the 1912 presidential campaign for his party, will begin September 16. It will last at least four weeks and should it later be decided to extend the outing to the Pacific Coast, it will be stretched into six weeks, so that the president will not get back to Beverly or Washington until November.

Taft Welcomes Admiral Togo.
That Admiral Togo brought a personal message from the emperor of Japan, expressing a desire to open a discussion between the United States and Japan looking to an arbitration treaty, was the belief expressed by those who heard President Taft's greeting to the famous Japanese sea fighter, at the formal state dinner at the White House.

The president said:
"I entertain the hope, with confidence, that the time may not be far distant when Japan will see fit to join in the movement so auspiciously inaugurated."

This statement came after the president had expressed his warm appreciation of the "generosity" of the Japanese emperor in consenting to a modification of the Anglo-Japanese alliance, in order that Great Britain might sign the Anglo-American peace

ROOSEVELT SAYS HE PREVENTED PANIC

Tells Committee He Approved Steel Merger to Save Country.

New York.—Accepting full responsibility for his approval of the gobbling up of the Tennessee Coal & Iron Company by the steel trust during the panic of 1907, Colonel Theodore Roosevelt told the Stanley steel investigation committee that the merger was "necessary to save the country from financial calamity."

The former president asserted that E. H. Gary and Henry C. Frick, who visited the White House to secure permission to absorb the Tennessee company, told him that it was the only way to stop the panic. With "old-time vigor and emphasis, Roosevelt reviewed the panic. He declared his one object was to prevent disaster.

For two hours the members of the committee bombarded him with questions. In summarizing the testimony at the close of the investigation Roosevelt declared:

"All the information I had at that time and all the information I have received since leads me to believe that not only was my action justified but that I would have been criminal, in my position as representative of the people of the United States, had I failed to take such action."

The ex-president's action in appearing voluntarily and submitting to a congressional review of his own administration was almost unprecedented in the history of the United States, and was thoroughly Rooseveltian.

AMERICAN SECRETS SOUGHT

Army Private Said to Be Austrian Count and Spy.

Indianapolis.—Because of an affidavit furnished by Miss Anita Dyer, formerly of Philpot, Ky., Captain James Watson, in charge of the local army recruiting office, has asked the War Department to arrest Private George Peters, said to be of the 135th Coast Artillery, stationed at Fort Totten, New York, charging him with being a spy in the employ of the Austrian government.

The alleged exposure of Peters, who, according to the informants, is Count Windsch-Graetz, of Prague, Bohemia, was made by Miss Pearl Dyer, while trying to obtain his release from the artillery corps through the local recruiting station. Miss Dyer says she and Peters are engaged.

$45,000 Fine Paid.

New York.—The succession of fines which has marked the progress of the government's successful campaign against wire manufacturers recently indicted for forming pools in alleged violation of the anti-trust laws, reached a climax when Edwin E. Jackson, Jr., the New York attorney whom the federal attorney termed the "head and brains of the trust," was sentenced to pay $45,000.

COURT ORDER ENDS DES MOINES STRIKE

Des Moines.—The Des Moines city street car strike, with 500 men out, followed by riot lasting all day, came to an abrupt end when District Judge Degraff issued a mandatory writ of injunction at the request of the city of Des Moines, directing General Manager J. R. Harrigan of the company to at once reinstate Conductor Hiatt, whose discharge started the strike, and also ordering members of the street car men's union to return to work.

The strike of the Des Moines street car men was directed against General Manager Harrigan of the car company, who refused to arbitrate an agreement of three years ago and discharged Conductor Hiatt for insubordination.

International Organizer Fay of the Carmen's Union announced that the union would obey the mandate issued by Judge Degraff and the men have returned to work.
