Wanted Her Money's Worth.
A few years ago Miss Schumann-Heink was to appear for the first time in the city of Newark, O. During that week Mrs. A. called on Mrs. B. In the course of the conversation Mrs. B. asked Mrs. A., "Are you going to hear Schumann-Heink on Wednesday evening?"

Now, Mrs. A. had evidently never heard of the great prima donna, for she replied: "No, indeed. When I pay such a price I want to read the book first."—National Monthly.

Jenkins' Ear.
There was a war known as the war of Jenkins' ear. It came about in the following way: In the year 1731 an English merchant vessel was boarded by a Spanish guardship, and the captain, one Robert Jenkins, was most cruelly used, one of his ears being torn off in the scrimmage. Obtaining no redress by appealing to his government, he appeared before parliament in 1738, when the convention of the Pardo was so excitedly discussed that war followed. Jenkins' story was verified by the admiralty records so recently as 1899.—Exchange.

Gagging the Orator.
The Swiss understood the art of public dinners. In the eyes of some persons there is, however, one drawback—the after dinner speeches are interminably long. In bygone days the people of Bern seem to have awakened to a sense of the infliction of long after dinner speeches, and they hit upon a plan, which is observed to this day, for the purpose of cutting orators short when they become too long. A man wearing a bear's skin stands near the speaker, and if the latter becomes prosy and wandering and drawn out in his remarks then the bear advances very gravely and just lays its claws upon the orator's mouth. This method has never failed so far.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Portugal's Decline.
Portugal has not always been the small affair that it is today. The little country once meant a great deal more than it does at present. To Portugal belongs the honor of having been the leader in fifteenth century exploration and discovery. Her great prince, known as "Henry the Navigator," may well be called the father of deep sea navigation. It was owing to his zeal that the voyages began which were to end in the circumnavigation of Africa and the finding of the way to India. Until well into the sixteenth century Portugal was rich in colonial possessions and was not without great weight in the diplomacy of Europe, but by the close of the century her decline began.

Appreciated at Home.
In Denver are a couple of sisters who are trying to make a living as artists. Their father, who lives in another town, is fairly well to do, and not a month goes by but what the girls have to write home for money with which to pay expenses. Recently one of the girls saw a little story in a magazine and thought it funny. In it one man asks another how his son is getting along in the city. "Very well indeed," replied the other. "He's progressing. Now he's spending only $10 a week more than he earns." The girl cut the story out and sent it to her father. It hadn't been mailed an hour when she received a clipping from him. It was the same story.—Denver Times.

Main Points in Buddhism.
Self conquest and universal charity are the fundamental thoughts, the very web and woof, of the religion known as Buddhism. From the start Buddhism arrayed itself against caste and against ceremonialism and, proclaiming the doctrine of worldwide brotherhood and the all sufficiency of kindness, went forth to proclaim the teachings of its revered founder. It is today the most extensive faith on earth in point of numbers, and, although much older than Christianity, is still full of life and vigor. There are Buddhist missionaries even in America and England, and they will tell you that they have great faith in the future of their creed.—New York American.

His Easy Task.
In his autobiography Seymour Hicks tells a good story of Granville Barker's care in stage managing and the amount of meaning he wants his actors to convey without spoken words. "I want you," said Barker, "to go up the stage and, opening a book, lean over the back of that chair and convey by your expression that you have a brother who is a shipowner in Sunderland." Another story is Comyns Carr's ready interruption of Herman Merivale, who was on the verge of insanity. In a public dining room he knelt down and began to recite the Lord's Prayer. Any ordinary check, it was known, might have made him violent. Carr simply said, "Look out, Merivale; the author's present."

LIFE'S PURPOSES.
Life's purposes are the attainment of personal perfection and to help in the whole life of the world. Men are given their lives and the possibility of dying natural deaths only on condition that they serve the life of the whole world, whereas the suicide exploits life as long as it is agreeable and refuses to serve the life of the world as soon as it becomes unpleasant, ignoring the likely fact that his service began only at that moment when his life became burdensome. Every work is at first unpleasant.—Tolstoy.

DAIRY WISDOM.
Get the best cows; they are none too good.
A separator in the dairy business is almost equal to the thrasher in wheat growing.
Separator milk contains less cream than milk skimmed by hand; hence there is less fat in it for the calves.
The cleaner the milking and the sooner the milk is strained and cooled the longer it will keep sweet.
The man who expects to make dairying pay cannot afford to use scrubs or the so called milking strains of beef cattle.
Cows giving milk are voracious eaters. It is from their food and drink that their milk is made.

Sir Colin Campbell's Commission.
When the Duke of Wellington was in India he "discovered" the soldier who afterward became Sir Colin Campbell. That dashing warrior was in the commissariat service and had volunteered for an assault on a hill fort. The duke saw a little round man run up a ladder and, receiving a pike thrust at the top, roll down like a ball to the bottom. He was, however, up again in an instant and, running up like a squirrel, was the first or among the first in the place. The duke laughed, inquired about him and procured him a commission.

Getting Down into the Corners.
"One sure sign of the sort of stuff a boy has in him," said the boss, "is found in the way he washes windows. If he not only washes the window clean, but gets down into corners and washes clean—in other words, if he not only makes a good, but a thoroughly good, job of it—why, there you've got a boy that will bear nursing and that is bound to amount to something. If he does one thing thoroughly you can generally count on his doing everything that way. I like people that get down into the corners."—New York Sun.

THE LAST DEBT.
You must pay at last your own debt. If you are wise you will dread a prosperity which only loads you with more. Benefit is the end of nature. But for every benefit which you receive a tax is levied. He is great who confers the most benefits. He is base—and that is the one base thing in the universe—to receive favors and render none.—Emerson.
