Will Develop the Lower Deschutes

The first large effort to use the immense power of the lower Deschutes river was announced last week, in the organization of the Deschutes River Rimrock Power Company, with ex-Congressman M. A. Moody of The Dalles as president and principal stockholder, and Le Roy Park, president of the state immigration commission, secretary and treasurer.

The capitalization is $1,000,000. Articles of incorporation were filed Tuesday of last week. A London syndicate, Mr. Parks said at the time, has underwritten $9,000,000 in bonds for the big company. The names of the financiers who constitute this syndicate are for the present withheld.

Two power plants will be built. Work of construction will be commenced within 90 days. All rights have been secured from the government, it is announced, and the land on the banks of the Deschutes for a distance of several miles is largely in ownership of the new power company.

The two power plants together will develop 80,000 horsepower, which will be used in pumping water on a tract of 25,000 acres near the mouth of the Deschutes which will be irrigated in this way, and later cut up into smaller tracts.

The first of the two plants will be built at the mouth of the river and will develop 15,000 horsepower. The second plant will be a mile upstream and will develop 65,000 horsepower.

What will be the additional uses for the immense amount of power generated by the two big plants is not announced.

"The agents and experts of the London syndicate have been on the ground and have approved the immense power possibilities that we shall realize with the Deschutes River Electric Rim-rock Power Company," said Mr. Park.

"The company is well financed and it is assured of success from the very beginning. The best electrical engineers and constructing experts in the United States will be employed to attend to the building of the plants and their operation and maintenance when completed."

For many years the power possibilities of the Deschutes, thousands of horsepower going to waste every minute, has been the subject of many essays and attempts to get the power rights. When the railroads were under construction up the Deschutes canyon, greatest care and supervision were exercised by the government to see that the construction work interfered not in the least with the potential power development. The announcement of the new company with its heavy backing comes as the fruit of this long discussion, and for the first time in history the powerful Deschutes is to be harnessed and used in the permanent development of the country round about.

Delegates Caught in a Snowstorm

A dispatch from Burns says that the delegation from Portland and Crook county was halted Sunday night in the mountains of Crook county by a snow storm and members put up for the night at comfortable places en route. They came on Monday, arriving at 2 o'clock and found pleasant sunshine in Harney valley. Several autos were sent out by the Burns Commercial Club to meet the party and give any relief needed in case of disabled machines. On their arrival here the members met a rousing welcome from the local people and the delegation from Lakeview.
