CROOK COUNTY ANNUAL FAIR

Closed Saturday, October 14.

GOOD AGRICULTURAL DISPLAY

The Exhibit of Horses, Sheep and Hogs Better Than Usual.

The Crook County Fair, which closed Saturday, is now a matter of history.

While some of its departments were not up to standard, yet taken as a whole, it showed progress all along the line.

In the horse division there were a good many entries in almost every class. The stalls of the draft stock were all filled and competition in the draft stallion class was keen. First honors were carried off by S. J. Clemens' Shire horse.

The exhibition of sheep and hogs was better than usual. Competition in the latter class was lively. C. M. Elkins' sheep exhibit was worth the price of admission. His Hampshire lambs were fine specimens of this handsome blackfaced variety. Jack Summers had quite a bunch of sheep, filling several pens.

The cattle exhibit was poor, with one notable exception—M. R. Biggs' display of Shorthorns. This bunch would take ribbons at any fair.

The poultry exhibit was not very creditable to Crook county, but we suppose climatic conditions this fall were largely responsible for the poor showing made. The fowls were moulting later than usual, and then again the fair was held a week earlier so that our chicken fanciers could not get their exhibits in shape to contend for the prizes. There were some good coops of early spring chickens that partly redeemed the county in this department.

The display of agricultural products was fully up to standard. While the number of exhibits was not as large as usual, the showing was fine. Every inch of available space was taken. We noted the absence of Tillman Reuter's collection. He is now in the employ of the Great Northern Railway and too busy with the land shows to bother with a county fair.

Boegli was there with a grand display. He had 39 varieties of apples. Among them were Wolfe Rivers, Striped Pippins, Johnathans, Baldwins, Northern Spy, King, Pound Pippins, Ganos, Arkansas Blacks, Winter Bellflower, Red Cheeked Pippins, and Delaware Reds. He had four varieties of Solway peaches, and good samples of Lemon Cling and Favorites. His pears were equal to his peaches. He had four varieties—Fall Butter, Keiffer, Idaho and Winter Nellis. Four varieties of grapes—White Sweetwater, Concord, Thompson Seedless and Eaton. Two varieties of prunes—Italian and Silver. He had also exhibits of English Walnuts, Chestnuts, and Filberts grown to perfection. Mrs. Boegli was not a whit behind her husband with her display of canned fruit. She took first prize on several individual jars.

Ed Slayton had an exhibit that was good to look upon. It also looked good to the judges, for they gave him first prize on the best individual exhibit. He took first that United States Senator Isaac Stephenson of Wisconsin obtained his seat in that body by the improper use of money. The Italian torpedo flotilla, under the command of the Duke of the Abruzzi, was active in the taking of Tripoli. Admiral Borea d'Olimo was made governor of the town. Francisco I. Madero, Jr., was elected president of Mexico, and there were rumors that General Reyes would start an insurrection.

on White Victor and Burbank potatoes, second on Uncle Sam potatoes, first on spring oats, second on Scotch flie, second on beardless barley, first on rye, first on sweet corn, second on cabbage, second on yellow flint corn, first on barley in stock, first on wheat in stock, first on oats, first on honey, etc.

While Slayton took first for best industrial exhibit, W. H. Kinder captured the first prize for the best general exhibit of farm products. We noticed blue ribbons on Spanish radish, Silver King onions, Yellow Denver onions, squash, cauliflower, cabbage, ground cherries, kale, beets, turnips—cowhorn and table, carrots—long and half-long, wonderberry, second on Tom Thumb corn, sugar pumpkins, Black Spanish radish, White Spanish radish, squash, etc. A detailed list of all these prizes will appear in the agricultural premium department.

J. L. Windom of Culver had an exhibit that surprised his friends. He got first prize on Crabapples, first on Northern Spys, second on peaches, first on Yellow Bellflower, first on Baldwins, first on Spitzenburgs, second on Silver prunes, etc. Mr. Windom took second prize on best general display for the county.

Combs Flat section was placed on record as a productive section by the exhibits of Hugh Gee and Wm. Adams. Mr. Gee's dry land potato display was a good one. People began to look around for Reuter's display to see how many dry farming ribbons he had lost. In the fruit line Mr. Adams took first on Silver prunes, second on Italian and second on crabapples. The Malagast and Egyptian curios exhibited by Mrs. Tregelles Fox excited a good deal of interest. The Malagast weaving, we learn, was all done on handmade looms. The Egyptian brasses were several thousand years old.

The baby show attracted a good deal of attention. This is one of Crook county's most valued products and one that we will pit against the world. Mrs. Dale Jones' baby took first prize for babies under 6 months old, Dorris Milliorn second, Eugene L. Ketchum third.

For babies over 6 months—Tom LaFollette Jr. first, Ila Sharp second, Wilma Helen Buckley third. The races attracted the usual crowds. Everything was pulled off as advertised.

The service rendered by the Baptist folks was much appreciated by the public. First-class meals were served at second-class prices.

The bursting of the huge dam of the Bayless paper mill at Austin, Pa., wiped out the towns of Austin and Costello. A number of persons were killed, and many more are still missing. The wreck has devastated the towns to such an extent that it is not thought probable that any attempt to rebuild them will be made. Rear Admiral Winfield Scott Schley, retired, the hero of the battle of Santiago of the Spanish-American war, dropped dead in a New York street. Investigation was begun into the charge that United States Senator Isaac Stephenson of Wisconsin obtained his seat in that body by the improper use of money. The Italian torpedo flotilla, under the command of the Duke of the Abruzzi, was active in the taking of Tripoli. Admiral Borea d'Olimo was made governor of the town. Francisco I. Madero, Jr., was elected president of Mexico, and there were rumors that General Reyes would start an insurrection.

Cornelius Thompson Found Dead

Cornelius Thompson of Haystack was found dead in his cabin Tuesday.

County Physician Belknap and Coroner Hyde were notified and Tuesday evening made an investigation. It was found that the old man died from natural causes. He was 68 years old. It was also found out that he had been dead eight or ten days before his neighbors missed him. The old gentleman was living on his homestead a mile from G. Springer's place. The county authorities are trying to get in touch with a brother, the only known relative, who lives somewhere in the Wallamette valley. Valley papers, please copy.

I. J. Wilkinson was indicted by the grand jury for cutting a water ditch belonging to the Central Oregon Irrigation Company. He has not yet been arraigned.

Walter Armedon, indicted for selling a cow to T. H. Brennan of Paulina, forfeited $150 bail bond. A bench warrant has been issued for his arrest.

The grand jury found not a true bill against Claude C. Williams, the deputy sheriff, who killed Thos. Miller.

Not a true bill was found against H. D. Latham for negligently allowing a fire to escape in the forest.

Not a true bill against John Wolfer.
Not a true bill against Joe Matheny.
Not true bills against the four bawdy houses from Bend.
The State vs J. W. McCallum of Ashwood, charged with selling liquor without a license. Jury is out.

CROOK COUNTY SCHOOL DISPLAY

Country Districts Show Big Improvement.

SUPT. FORD WELL PLEASED

Paulina and Powell Butte Made Good Industrial and Agricultural Exhibits.

The school exhibit at the Crook County Fair has grown to be one of its most helpful as well as interesting features. By this means both teachers and parents can better judge of the work that is being done in the different parts of the county and measure their own efforts with the best. These annual exhibits also serve as a good incentive to pupils to strive for the best that is in them and stimulates them to higher achievements.

This year the space allotted to the schools was well filled as several of the country districts entered their work for the first time.

As a whole the exhibits from the town schools did not measure up to last year's, but since the work from the country schools was better than usual the general average for all the county schools was good.

The general industrial exhibit along school lines was not up to standard. Paulina had more blue ribbons for its industrial work than any other school. It also carried off first honors on several other things. The railroad officials saw part of this exhibit when they passed through Paulina and asked to have it sent East to be exhibited at the land shows. Miss Hartley is the teacher.

The school exhibit from Powell Butte deserves honorable mention. It also received many blue ribbons. Every pupil in this school took part in the school parade and made a fine showing. Mrs. Mary V. Charlton is the teacher.

Bend had a good exhibit but took it home Friday noon so that many were deprived the privilege of viewing it.

The Prineville public schools were not as well prepared as usual, due to the fact that it had but two days of school before the fair opened.
