Noted Evangelist Coming Here

Dr. E. J. Bulgin, the noted evangelist, will begin a series of meetings in Prineville December 8.

Rev. Virtes Williams, pastor of the Christian Church, Stillwater, Okla., says: "There are three conspicuous results to be sought in a special union meetings. The conversion of the unconverted, restoring the backsliding and straggling church members and the quickening of the public conscience to demand civic righteousness. When The Ministerial Union of Stillwater was planning for a union revival it was unanimously agreed that the emphasis should be placed upon the straggler and the public conscience. In fact we were sure that if the broken lines of the churches could be restored and the seared public conscience could be treated into normal vigor and sensitiveness the conversion of the unconverted would be sure to follow.

Bro. Bulgin was selected as the evangelist because of his wide experience in Oklahoma. The Union felt that this familiarity with our state conditions would make his efforts more effective in our town.

It is apparent already that the stragglers in the church are pushing up to the front rank. The half shut eyes of the public conscience are beginning to blink and will we believe soon be awake to the moral delinquencies and degrading influences in the community.

Evangelist Bulgin has been emphatic, in fact almost fierce in his denunciation of sin, and in his probing after the infected spots. The treatment is severe, the patients croak and grunt but not one will be permanently hurt, and many we believe will be restored to vigorous spiritual health.

The people have come in great crowds to the services. No sort of enterprise of Stillwater has ever brought together such large audiences as these meetings.

It is the judgement of our strongest and most consecrated business and professional men that the meetings will prove to be a great, permanent blessing to the community."

VIRTES WILLIAMS,
Pastor Christian Church.

A Good Entertainment

The musical entertainment by Warren Glaze, assisted by local talent, was highly appreciated by a fair-sized audience at the M. E. church Tuesday evening. Mr. Glaze is naturally full of music and can play any old thing that comes along, whether it be a piano, ocarina, guitar, banjo, glasses or beer bottles. Miss Conway sang the "Nightengale and the Rose" so pleasantly that she was obliged to respond to a hearty encore. A. H. Kennedy was too modest by far with his violin music. His "Royal Neighbors Serenade," written by Warren Glaze, was loudly applauded but he wouldn't come through with another selection. Mrs. E. C. Coe sang a lullaby so sweetly that she was forced to respond to prolonged applause. Miss Gitchel of the High School faculty, gave a reading that was greatly enjoyed. Her work is both artistic and finished.

During the program Mr. Glaze gave a demonstration of a very acute and highly trained ear. He was blindfolded and led to the middle of the auditorium where he correctly pronounced every key struck on a piano, bottle or glass. Few persons can do this. The proceeds of the entertainment go to the M. W. A. and R. N. of A., building fund.

High School Inter-Society Contest

About forty students of the High School are in training for the annual intersociety declamatory contest. This year there will be three classes represented by two members from each society. The three classes are oratorical, dramatic and humorous. In order to select the contestants, it will be necessary to have two evenings for the try-out. These will be held in the Methodist church Tuesday and Wednesday of next week. Oratorical and dramatic, Tuesday evening. Humorous, Wednesday evening. In order to defray several small expenses connected with the contest a fee of 15 cents will be collected at the door. Everyone is invited. Your presence will cheer the students to do their best.

Turnout and Get Acquainted

The Ladies' Annex wishes to get in touch with all strange ladies in the city and for that purpose has set apart Saturday, December 2, as the time when every member of the Annex is expected to be present sometime between 2 and 4 o'clock and bring a stranger with them should they know of any in the city. The object is, of course, to get acquainted.

The reception committee is composed of Mesdames Doonar, Edwards, Wigle and C. M. Elkins. Refreshments—Mesdames Brink, Gray, C. Smith and D. Stewart. Decoration—Mesdames Rosenberg, Hyde, and Misses B. Baldwin and C. Conway.

Notice to the Public.

I am handling express from the railroad for three different stage lines and while their rates are not the same I will be obliged to hold any and all expressage until it is paid for even if it didn't come by the stage line as directed.
Yours truly, ALBERT NOBLE. 11-16-11

Physical Director at Commercial Club

Arrangements are about to be completed by which Mr. Louis C. Langdell is to be engaged as physical director for the Prineville Commercial club and to be placed by the club in full charge of all branches of athletics and gymnastics, and devoting all his time to the work.

The club is very fortunate in obtaining Mr. Langdell in this department and when the arrangements have been consummated will have a man whose previous training and experience has well fitted him for the work he is about to undertake. He is an alumnus of Dartmouth college, having finished that institution in 1910, with a class noted for its prowess in athletics. He is both a wrestler and boxer as well as an adept at baseball, football, basketball, handball and tennis. He has played professional baseball with some of the fastest leagues in the business. During the winter of 1910 and 1911 Mr. Langdell took a post-graduate course in forestry at the University of Michigan thereby receiving valuable training in athletics.

It is his plan to organize a class among the business and professional men of the city, as well as among the high school and younger men and boys. He will organize classes at the public school and there will be classes for women and girls. In fact, it is the plan to operate the athletic department exactly as the Young Men's Christian associations and athletic clubs operate in all the larger cities. The class for the business and professional men will be conducted at a convenient hour twice each week. The classes for children and women will also be conducted at hours convenient for their members.

Before actual instruction can begin, however, some improvements will have to be made at the club. The shower baths will have to be again installed and suitable lockers and other apparatus provided from time to time. This can be done, however, at a small expense as compared with the additional use to which the club rooms will be put as the result of the new arrangement.

If this arrangement can be made practicable its benefits to the community can hardly be measured. Mr. Langdell is highly recommended as a gentleman as well as an athlete and agreed to undertake the work upon the solicitation of prominent business men of the city and members of the club
