

J. B. McNAMARA

James B. McNamara, who confessed to dynamiting the Los Angeles Times building, and the jail where he is confined.

Brief News of the Week.

Postoffice clerks are greatly interested in an order issued by the postmaster general calling on all secret organizations of the postal employees to disband. The prohibition national committee met in Chicago Wednesday to select the time and place for holding the party's convention to nominate a candidate for president. The much-discussed report of the tariff board on the wool schedule of the Payne tariff and the wool industry will be in the hands of President Taft not later than December 11. The United States Senate committee which has been investigating charges of corruption in the election of Senator Lorimer of Illinois, resumed its hearings Tuesday in Washington. Advice received indicate that the governors' special, now touring the East for the purpose of advertising the natural resources of the western states, is attracting tremendous attention everywhere. Officials of the forest service are formulating a plan under which western cities deriving their water supply from streams that rise in national forests will have an opportunity to cooperate with the service. The final hearings on the suits brought by the government to dissolve the so-called sugar and steamship trusts, were held Monday in the United States circuit court at New York. As a result of these hearings the case will go direct to the supreme court of the United States. Notable conventions of the week will include the National Rivers and Harbors congress in Washington, the Southern Immigration conference in Baltimore, the National Irrigation congress in Chicago, and the annual convention of the American Public Health Association at Havana, Cuba.

News of Noted Persons.

Mrs. Richard Harding Davis, it is said, will sue her author husband for divorce. Charles S. Francis, proprietor of the Troy, N. Y., Times and late ambassador to Austria-Hungary, is dead. Hugh Jennings, manager of the Detroit American club, was seriously injured in an automobile wreck near Gouldsboro, Pa. Senator Guggenheim, of Colorado, will not be a candidate for reelection and will quit the Senate upon expiration of his term, March 21, 1912. Mrs. Frederic Thompson, known in theatrical circles as Mabel Talbot, has sued her husband, Frederic Thompson, the well-known producer of New York, for divorce. Victor Berger, Socialist member of Congress, says that the McNamara confession was "the greatest blow that has ever come to the Gompers-Hitler school of unionism." A final decree of divorce in favor of Mrs. Elizabeth M. Chester against her husband, George Randolph Chester, author of the "Delish-quick Wallingford", stories, has been entered. New York is still laughing over J. Pierpont Morgan's discomfiture in church when he tripped and falling to the floor spilled a collection plate piled high with money. The banker was uninjured. John C. Stubbs of Chicago, director of traffic of the Harriman railroad system, will go on the pension roll of the Southern Pacific Company this week by the official act of the company's board of pension officers.
