

A Fly In the Milk May Mean A Baby In the Grave

Houseflies Feeding on Nipple of Nursing Bottle.

Millions of germs of summer complaint are transmitted by flies. Keep them away from the child and his food.

REMEMBER - NO FILTH - NO FLIES.

Screen Doors and Windows. Screen the doors and windows of your home, especially those of the kitchen, dining room and partry. If you cannot do this, at least screen the food itself, especially the milk, in which germs multiply with more than ordinary rapidity.

A FLY CATECHISM

The following questions and answers were prepared by the Indiana state board of health and have been widely copied. The school board of Asheville, N. C. caused them to be pasted in the spelling books used in the graded schools of the city:

Where is the fly born? In manure and filth.

Where does the fly live? In every kind of filth.

Is anything too filthy for the fly to eat? No.

Where does he go when he leaves the surface of food and the manure pile and the spittoon? Into the kitchen and dining room.

What does he do there? He walks on the bread, fruit and vegetables. He wipes his feet on the butter and bathes in the milk.

Does the fly visit the patient sick with typhoid fever, consumption and cholera infantum? He does, and he may call on you next.

Is the fly dangerous? He is man's worst pest and more dangerous than wild beasts or rattlesnakes.

What disease does the fly carry? He carries typhoid fever, consumption and summer complaint. How? On his wings and hairy feet. What is his correct name? Typhoid fly.

Did he ever kill any one? He killed more American soldiers during the Spanish-American war than did the bullets of the Spaniards.

Where are the greatest number of cases of typhoid fever, consumption and summer complaint? Where there are the most flies.

Where are the most flies? Where there is the most filth.

Why should we kill the fly? Because he may kill us.

When shall we kill the fly? Kill him before he gets wings. Kill him when he is a maggot in the manure pile. Kill him while he is in the egg state.

How? Keep the stables dry and clean and don't allow any manure to stay on the premises longer than one week. Have all other filth and trash accumulating on your premises removed or burned at least once a week.

If your neighbor fails to comply with these rules and allows flies to breed on his premises to visit you, screen your doors and windows and keep them out.

BEGIN EARLY TO TRAIN THE COLT

The training of the colt should begin soon after he is foaled if we mean to achieve the best results. If the mare is got up at night, begin by petting him and letting him know that you are his friend, writes C. L. Smith in Furrow Journal.

After he is a month or so old begin to accustom him to the halter. After he has had it on a few times take a long whip or stick and, standing in front of him, gently pull on the halter stall. If he does not respond, and he probably will not, reach around and tap him on the hips or hind feet enough to start him, at the same time calling him to come. Usually, after a few jumps and plunges, he will give up and follow.

After a colt is once halter broken his harness education can rest for a while, but don't cease to keep on making friends with him.

After he is three years old it is well to teach the colt the use of the harness. I usually put on the bridle, the pad and the breeching and let him go a few times. After he is a little accustomed to these straps put on the check and reins, running them through the thill lugs, and drive him around until he learns to obey the bit. Teach him to back as well. I like to hitch a young colt with a good safe horse first. If possible, not an "old plug," but a good sensible horse that will lead right along and mind his own business. If you are breaking the colt for a roadster, don't let him dawdle on the road. Give him plenty to do to keep up, and he won't have time to concoct any mischief.

In America the price of good, weighty draft horses never was better than at present, nor does the supply equal the demand. The outlook for breeders is good, and those who raise big horses with quality, whatever the breed, will be well rewarded for their trouble. It is not for us to say which is best. That is largely a matter of taste. If a popular vote were taken the Percheron would probably stand first. The Percheron shown herewith is a fine specimen of the draft.

Don't drive him more than a couple of miles a day the first few times, and after he has gone a mile or so get out and unback him and let him rest his neck a few minutes. If at any time when driving him he shows any signs of his neck being tired stop him and let it rest.

I think a great many colts are driven. Having once begun driving a colt, use him every day. More colts are spoiled by being hitched up only once a week than in any other way. In my opinion, when a colt is once started don't take your eyes off him. Watch him every minute. Keep your lines tight enough to catch him in an instant, and you will save yourself a whole lot of trouble and many times a spoiled colt.

Many times when a colt starts to kick or balk a sharp pull of the lines and a word will stop him, but when he once does it it is likely to spoil him. If a colt is inclined to be vicious or to balk and you see he is going to, stop him. Don't wait until he does it himself.

Don't under any provocation lose your temper and don't whip the colt. On very few occasions it may be well to hit him a blow, but if the colt be big strong, that usually does more harm than good. Don't be afraid of becoming too friendly with your colts. They appreciate kindness as well as human beings and will thrive upon it.

Clover Scent. Blast is easily generally comes as the result of pasturing clover, though it is a fact that in some cases ordinary grass pasture will produce the same result if it is rank when cattle that have not been used to it are turned in. The importance of getting cattle used to clover while it is dry cannot be overemphasized. It may be necessary in some instances to turn them in for an hour or two only during the middle of the day, and continue this for two or three days, so that the sensitive edge for the new savor is taken off their appetites. Tolerant circumstances should they be turned from a dry lot when they are hungry into a clover field.

Scurvy in Calves. Physic give colts with curbs all in milk, then give two or three times daily one to two teaspoonsful of a mixture of sulphate of bismuth, according to age and size of colt and severity of symptoms. Isolate affected calves.

Notice of Contest.

Department of the Interior,
United States Land Office,
The Dalles, Oregon June 25, 1912.
To Victor Snyder, of Prineville, Oregon,
Contestant:
You are hereby notified that Robert Robinson, who gives Roberts, Oregon, as his postoffice address, did on June 8, 1912, file in this office his duly corroborated application to contest and secure the cancellation of your homestead, Entry No. 10000, Serial No. 0785 made June 27, 1910, for 1/4 sec. 24, 25, 26, section 7, township 18, S., range 18, E., Willamette Meridian and as grounds for his contest he alleges that said Victor Snyder has wrongfully alienated said tract of land for over one year and six months last preceding the date of this contest as required by law or at all times making said entry.
You are, therefore, further notified that the said allegations will be taken by this office as having been confessed by you, and your said entry will be canceled thereunder without your further right to be heard thereon, either before this office or on appeal. If you fail to file in this office within twenty days after the PAUETH publication of this notice, as shown below your answer, under oath, specifically setting and responding to these allegations of contest, or if you fail within that time to file in this office due proof that you have served a copy of your answer on the said contestant either in person or by registered mail, if this service is made by the delivery of a copy of your answer to the contestant in person, proof of such service must be either the said contestant's written acknowledgment of his receipt of the copy, showing the date of its receipt, or the affidavit of the person by whom the delivery was made stating when and where the copy was delivered, if made by registered mail, proof of such service must consist of the affidavit of the person by whom the copy was mailed stating when and where the postoffice to which it was mailed, and this affidavit must be accompanied by the postmaster's receipt for the letter. You should state in your answer the name of the postoffice to which you desire future notices to be sent in future.

It's War to the Death on the Fly.

THE FOOT OF DEATH

This is the foot of a housefly greatly enlarged. It places typhoid and other deadly germs in the food of man.

SWAT THE FLY!

The Best Fly Poison.
The most highly recommended fly poison is formula mixed with sweet milk and eaten in the proportion of eight teaspoonfuls of formula to a quart of the mixture. Such a poison is not fatal to human beings. Sweet a small stick in the edge of a bottle's mouth, fill the bottle with the solution and stand it, inverted, in a saucer.

SWAT 'EM!

An American girl is the best woman to fly over the English channel. And speaking of flies, are you a member of the grinning crusade? If not, join. Everybody's doing it. Doing what? Swatting flies, and if you would live to be healthy, wealthy and wise you'd better get into the ranks.

If some one told you that that delicious apple pie was inoculated with typhoid germs, how quickly you would kick it away to fear and disgust, and yet you nonchalantly shove off the surly fly that is crawling around its crust and consume it with relish. There's danger in that pie. There's death in that fly. Swat 'em!

Wash your hands. But the unnecessary rubbish and waste as soon as possible. Keep scrupulously clean. Don't dump dirt, dross or any other cleaning truck. One of the easiest ways to start the children washing. Offer the one who kills the creature a number of the pieces a little reward at the end of the summer, and you won't need to buy any sticky paper or poison stuff.

Flies are prolific. Each one has six millions the death of its hundreds of descendants. You'd better handle things to prevent disease. Why not take this in hand early in the season and not run any risk? Begin your swatting now.—Lester Woodman Wall in Our County Democrat.

Best Drops Needed.
Be sure that all drops and chemicals used in killing flies are fresh and pure; otherwise results may not be satisfactory.
