

Prineville Orchards Loaded With Fruit

There never was so much fruit grown in Prineville as now laden the trees. Cherry trees in the C. M. Elkins' orchard are ready to break under the load. Picking has been going on for sometime, but the trees are still heavily loaded. Pear trees are loaded. Apple trees must be thinned or the trees will suffer. Prunes and plums must be looked after to save damage. What is true of the Elkins orchard is applicable to every orchard in town. The record for 1912 in the fruit line will be a top-notch for this city.

Too Much Sand On The Bend-Burns Road

Pratt & Ackley, of White Salmon, Wash., were in Prineville the last of the week, making arrangements to conduct a daily auto truck freight service between this city and Redmond. They have a five-ton truck with them that they attempted to use between Bend and Burns, but gave it up on account of the bad roads. The sand, they say, is a fright. They made part of a trip and that was enough. Pratt & Ackley will be back this fall with a three-ton truck for service between here and the Hub City.

Carpenters are at work on the C. M. Elkins home, widening the verandas and building a large sleeping porch on the second story. Painters will follow the carpenters.

The Harney county fair will be held October 1, 2, 3 and 4; Grant county fair 7, 8, 9 and 10, giving all horsemen an opportunity to attend the Crook County Fair on October 16, 17, 18 and 19. The Dalles fair will be held immediately preceding the fair at Prineville. Purses and stakes to the amount of $2,800 have been hung up here to insure good racing.

"Auld Lang Syne" At the Lyric

You have all heard this song, but you have not seen it in actual life portrayal, with the beauty and grandeur of the "Hielands and the Lowlands of Bonnie Scotland." It will be presented at the Lyric Friday and Saturday evenings.

This is a Vitagraph feature film in two reels, giving all an opportunity of seeing it in its entirety. "Bobbie" Burns, who wrote the poem, immortalized himself in this inspiration, and the Vitagraph has vitalized it in this pretty and impressive production.

One other reel of pictures by the Vitagraph company will also be shown, containing two comedy subjects, "Hypnotizing the Hypnotist," and "A Slight Mistake." You will lose yourself under the spell of the first comedy, and you will make a big mistake if you fail to see "Bunny" in a "Slight Mistake."

It was three o'clock in the afternoon when the blaze was discovered, but not in time to save the building or its contents. The stock in the corral was saved. There was no insurance. The loss will amount to several hundred dollars.
