

The Redmond Potato Show

The Redmond Potato Show last week was a great success from every view point. There was a great display of potatoes and a big crowd to admire them.

Alex Brown took the Great Northern silver cup for size. Thirty-six tubers weighed 79 pounds. S. D. Mustard of Powell Butte won the Oregon Trunk silver cup for the best bushel, any variety.

A blue ribbon was captured by W. E. Mustard of Powell Butte for the best bushel of Burbanks.

The Hanks potato pig was a good advertisement for that enterprising farmer. And Hanks can raise other things than spuds. He had 55 entries in his exhibit.

We cannot begin to enumerate a tithe of the good things that were on display. The exhibit can be seen at Prineville and from here it goes to Portland for exhibition purposes.

The show was the best advertisement our neighbor could have of its resources and enterprise. It is bound to help the country.

School Children's Matinee

Arrangements have been made by the management of the Lyric to show the "Coming of Columbus" pictures to school children at a special matinee Friday morning, and parents should see that their children are enabled to take advantage of the opportunity to see this truly wonderful educational picture. The school children will be charged only ten cents admission at the matinee; all other persons are quite welcome to attend the matinee also, but will be charged the regular evening prices, which are advanced slightly on account of the considerable cost of securing this picture. The "Columbus" picture is in three reels, and a fourth reel, a John Bunny comedy, will also be shown. All should cooperate in making this matinee the success of which the effort is deserving.

Suffrage Meeting Last Tuesday Night

A large crowd was present at Club Hall Tuesday evening to hear Dr. Morrison of Portland and Wm. Hanley speak on equal suffrage.

Mrs. Coe opened the meeting with a pleasing address, and then introduced Dr. Morrison.

Dr. Morrison is an entertaining speaker, and had his audience interested and in sympathy with him from the start to the close of his address. He made many logical and convincing arguments, and his address was worthy of careful and intelligent consideration.

At the close of his remarks Mrs. Coe, assisted by others, rendered an appropriate and pleasing song.

Wm. Hanley was then introduced to the audience and for one-half hour or more entertained the assemblage. He spoke with simplicity, earnestness and sincerity which at once appealed to and impressed his hearers.

The large audience present enjoyed, seemingly, every minute of the meeting. The ladies who had the affair in charge are to be congratulated on its successful termination.

He Got There.

A New England bishop was on his way one winter day to fill an episcopal appointment in the lumber country when he ran into a old-fashioned Maine blizzard. He had a dozen miles before him when it burst, and he was traveling in an old-fashioned mountain stage drawn by two wiry horses. They fought about six miles bravely, and then it began to look hopeless. The driver and the bishop were wondering how they and the horses would live through the night when there came a whoop. In a few moments six husky lumberjacks mounted on six northern Maine horses came up to them through the swirl.

"Well, bishop," said the leader, "we was bound you should get through to that meeting if we could help you."

The good bishop was deeply touched at this show of religious zeal and tribute to him and his cause and so expressed himself.

"Yes," replied the man, "we'll get you through. You see, we was paid yesterday, and the boys has made up a thunderin' big pool on whether or not you'd git there. We boys has got a whole month's pay on your end. You'll git there."

He did, and he got half the pool for new schoolhouse.

What Did He Mean?

At a supper party shortly before the production at the Duke of York's theater in London of Henry Arthur Jones' play, "The Princess' Nose," some one said to the late Sir W. S. Gilbert across the table:

"What do you think of Jones' new title, Gilbert?"

"Don't know what it is," growled Sir William.

"It is quaint to say the least," was the reply. "He calls his piece 'The Princess' Nose.'"

"H'm," grunted Gilbert meditatively; "hope it will run."

OLD GLORY OR THE RED FLAG

Nightly on the Streets of Portland loud-mouth agitators blaspheme the name of the Lord and curse the Star Spangled Banner. They are reaching out into the smaller communities and it may be your turn next to contend with them. Read and vote No. 370 in Voters Pamphlet.

Assaulting the Dignity of Labor

High salaried agitators are constantly assaulting and maiming the honest laboring men of Portland who are unwilling to divide their earnings with these leaches on the decent labor element. Read and vote No. 368 and prohibit boycotting and picketing. Your son is not safe in Portland if he refused to support these crime instigators.
