It Pleases the Chef

City Meat Market

The Name Over the Door

When you buy merchandise of any sort—jewels, clothing or household goods—are you not led to patronize some particular store in each line because of the stability of that house, the character of their goods and their reputation for square dealing; or, on the other hand, do you buy as cheaply as possible, irrespective of quality or the reputation of the dealer?

To no purchase that you make should more thought, more care and more consideration be given than the buying of you piano, because under the beauties of the finely finished veneers of a piano lies a delicate mechanism, a constructive principle, which if properly and carefully made of good materials, assembled by highly skilled workmen, will last and give satisfaction for an average lifetime. If, on the other hand, the finely finished case covers what is termed a commercial piano—well, how are you to know?

THE NAME OVER THE DOOR is the best guarantee of the merchandise in the house. Our name has stood for more than 30 years for the highest—the most approved method of piano selling. That name is an unlimited guarantee as to price and quality—an insurance policy as it were, that the instrument bought will prove satisfactory in every sense: that in finish, durability and musical quality it is the best possible at the price paid, and that price is identically the same, save for the addition of eastern freight, as the instrument would cost on the floors of its manufacturers in Chicago, New York or Boston.

Consult your own best interests when buying, and buy not hastily, but after full deliberation. We gladly explain our easy payment plan and welcome investigation.
