THE ELKINS STORE

Crooked River News

S. S. Stearns and family are through haying on their Crooked river ranch and are to leave Friday for La Pine to put up their hay. They are taking teams, wagons and crew from here. They will have two four-horse teams, a single horse and buggy, several saddle horses and the auto. They will have about five weeks of haying at La Pine and then will come back here for the second crop. Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Hawthorn will run the ranch here during their absence.

Killed a Big Rattler.

Mrs. Elmer Hawthorn and Miss Lora Stearns were out for a horse-back ride between the Stearns ranch and Frank Hoffman's place on Crooked river last Tuesday when a big rattlesnake struck at one of the horses just missing him a few inches. Mr. Snake then crawled back into a big bush but kept rattling, so the girls located him again and beat him to death with big clubs. He was about three feet long. In killing him they broke his rattles until they couldn't tell the exact number, but judging from his size they thought about nine.

Waterspout at Hoffman Ranch.

There was a waterspout at Frank Hoffman's ranch on Crooked river during our last rain which filled his irrigating ditches with sand and rocks till it will take several days to clear it out. He was just in the midst of irrigating for his second crop.

Alfalfa Growing

an Inch a Day

J. F. Blanchard has a field of alfalfa that is growing to beat the band, he says. He cut his first crop July 8, and fifteen days afterwards his second crop averaged fifteen inches in height--just one inch a day. He says the weather conditions were ideal for growing.

Good Roads Barbecue at La Pine

There will be a good roads barbecue at La Pine August 9. Among the speakers announced for the meeting are Col. C. W. Thatcher, the famous "good roads apostle," County Judge Worden of Klamath, W. A. Lynch and W. F. King of Prineville. An old-fashioned barbecue will be given by the people of La Pine. Everybody invited.

Teeth and Wisdom.

"I shall be dreadfully stupid now," said the wife, who had just returned from the dentist's.

"Why so, my dear?" asked her husband.

"I have had all my wisdom teeth pulled out," she replied.

"Of course, my love," said her husband, with the best intention in the world, "you know it is nothing but a superstitious idea that wisdom teeth have anything to do with wisdom. If you were to have every tooth in your head drawn it couldn't make you any more stupid, you know."

He succeeded after awhile in smoothing matters out, but it was a narrow escape.--Philadelphia Ledger.

A Debt of Honor.

Richard Brinsley Sheridan, the famous dramatist and orator, was always in pecuniary straits and constantly besieged by his creditors. A creditor came into Sheridan's room one day and found him seated before a table strewn with gold and notes.

"There is no use in looking at that, my good fellow," said he to the visitor. "That is all bespoken for debts of honor."

"Very well," replied the tradesman, tearing up his security and throwing it into the fire; "now mine is a debt of honor too."

"So it is and must be paid at once," said Sheridan, and he handed him the money.

WELCOME WORK.

The beauty of work depends upon the way we meet it, whether we arm ourselves each morning to attack it as an enemy that must be vanquished before night comes or whether we open our eyes with the sunrise to welcome it as an approaching friend who will make us feel at evening that the day was well worth its fatigues.

The "Story of the Cadillac," is one of that mechanical and commercial advancement which makes for permanency. The Cadillac Company has never yielded to clamor by producing that which catered merely to fancy, nor that which took advantage of the uninformed. On the contrary it has produced only that which it knew would give to the purchaser "value received" in abundant measure. The Cadillac Company has never been obliged to resort to exaggeration and over-drawn claims to dispose of all the cars that it could make--and more. Its policy has ever been to under-claim rather than over-claim. It is gratified that the public accepts its representations at their full worth; because the public has never been misled and because the public could always expect and has always received more than was offered.
