CONCRETE COOLING VAT.

Homemade Iceless Refrigerator For Country Use.

Many country homes which cannot have ice must depend on other means for keeping milk, butter and farm products cool, says the American Cultivator. Nothing is better and cleaner than a concrete vat sunk in the ground in the milk house and fed by a spring or with water from the well on its way to the stock watering tanks. The size of the vat is dependent on the needs. For a farm with a small dairy sufficient space is to be had in a tank four feet two inches by seven feet two inches in the clear, by twenty-three inches deep and with five inch walls and bottom. This vat will hold eight regulation shipping cans spaced six inches apart.

In a corner of the milk house dig the pit for the vat five feet wide, eight feet long and twenty-two inches deep. If the water is to be fed and removed by iron pipes, these should be laid at once with their ends provided with screw or sleeve couplings five inches above the earth bottom of the pit.

Build a box form without top or bottom four feet two inches wide by seven feet two inches long, outside measurements, and twenty-three inches deep. Mix the concrete mushy wet of one bag of portland cement, two cubic feet of sand and four cubic feet of screened gravel or crushed rock, or one part cement to four parts pit gravel. Place a cork in the ends of the pipes and lay the five inch bottom with a strip of woven wire fencing in the concrete within two inches of the top. Quickly finish the bottom smooth with a wooden float and a steel trowel and at once set the box form in the pit so as to leave a space of five inches on all sides. Fill this space with concrete. Around the corners of the tank, near the top and bottom, embed an old iron rod. Bring the outside walls to full height above floor level by using a width of board along the side and end. Round the edges and finish the top of the walls with a trowel.

When the tank is two days old carefully remove the forms. Rub down the walls with a soft brick and paint them with a creamy mixture of cement and water. Five days later the vat may be used. In the coupling of the outlet pipe place a section of overflow pipe nineteen inches long, which will draw off the warm water at the top of the tank. The overflow pipe should be at least one-half inch greater in diameter than the inlet pipe so as to remove all danger of flooding the milk and the dairy house. Make a grating of one inch slats or gas pipe to place on the bottom of the vat to provide a circulation of cool water under the milk cans. As an aid in lifting the cans fix a hand rail at a convenient height above the tank.

For this vat there will be required one and one-half yards of crushed rock or screened gravel, three-quarters yard of sand and ten bags of cement at a total cost of about $6. Two men can build it in one day. Larger cooling tanks should have walls six inches thick. Filled with cool water from the spring or well, such a vat will keep the cream sweet and will in many other ways take the place of an ice refrigerator.

The Porter Couldn't Fool Pete Hinkle

A good story is told on "Pete" Hinkle. It seems that "Pete" was unable to sleep on the car while on his way to take his examinations at Portland and entertained himself by looking through the curtains in front of his berth. Soon he discovered the porter gathering up the footwear and immediately took a lively interest in the job. When he got to "Pete's" shoes he bawled out: "Let them shoes alone. If you can't get a bunch to fit you out of the others you can get some off the next train. I am dead onto you."

THE SWINEHERD.

Never kill a pig for market or home consumption until it is ripe for it.

The cause of unthrifty pigs can often be traced to a filthy swill barrel.

Prepare to keep the young pigs growing from the hour they enter the world.

Hogs are among the most cleanly animals if they are given a fair chance.

A lot of hogs in a hog lot well grown with clover will convey a lot of money to their owner's pocket.

Be sure that the hog herd, large or small, has an abundance of fresh, clean water to drink all the time.

The hog that is fed on one thing all the time makes slow growth and little pork.

PESSIMISM.

We are but as the leaves which appear with the flowers of spring.—Homer.

"Tis best for mortals not to have been born or to look upon the light of the sun. No mortal is happy all his days.—Bacchylides.

Evolution.

"Father," said little Rollo, "what is evolution?"

"Evolution, my son, is a sort of apology which man has invented for displaying so many of the traits of the lower animals."—Washington Star.
