

Redmond Fair

farm and lessons in poultry care and profits or lack of profit.

Besides those who came to see the potatoes, the bed quilts and the bread, this year instead of having the crop of candidates on exhibition (Warren Brown was here, though) we had the cream separator man, the mechanical piano man and their first cousins, the railroad publicity man. Lynch and Roberts served coffee and sandwiches made from Redmond-made flour, spread with Redmond Co-operative Creamery butter and stuffed with Redmond-grown meat.

G. G. Summers also came. G. G. stands for grains and grasses, although his proper name is Jack.

Not the least arduous of the tasks in connection with the Show is the judging and the ladies of the management wish especially to thank Mesdames Stinson, Gray and Phipps of Prineville for the earnest work which they did.

But a list of the awards is now in order.
