Creswell, Ore.

Creswell, Oregon.
To the Editor of the Crook County Journal:

You asked me to write you a letter for publication, and although it has been some time since I arrived here I will take this opportunity to write to you.

The crops here this summer were first rate. My crop was better than I expected it to be when I first came. I am selling my haled hay here at the ranch for $11 per ton.

Berries and fruit grow fine. One man here at Creswell has just finished harvesting an immense crop of prunes. Three large dries were kept busy night and day for a month.

We have had just enough rain this fall to prepare the ground good for farming. The fields and pastures are all as green as if it were spring. I have finished my fall seeding and it is all up nicely.

The hunting is good here. During the pleasant season we would go out with our guns and dogs and come back in the evening well loaded with game. Deer hunting is also good in the foothills close to Creswell.

My health is so much better here than it was out there. Now I can work from morning until night as I did years ago. Though we all still have a very warm spot in our hearts for old Crook county, we are well pleased with our change.

I could write this much more in praise of this country but for fear of the waste basket will close. I am, yours very respectfully,
JESSE L. WINDOM.
