December Term District Court Next Week

Circuit court convenes next week. County Attorney Wirtz reports the criminal docket as a short one. The civil calendar is as long as usual. The following cases will be presented to the grand jury:

W. D. Kersey of Bend, bad check artist, who was caught in Missoula, Montana, will head the list of those who are to be tried at this term. Kersey will also be tried on a charge giving a chattel mortgage to property he did not own.

Silva Parrish and Chas. Mason of Bend will have a hearing before the grand jury on a gambling charge. They could not resist the fascinations of a game of draw poker so must take the consequences.

Myers & Wilkie, saloonmen of Bend, will be tried on a charge of permitting gambling in their place of business.

John Moore, an auto driver, and Florence Moyer, a married woman, both of Bend, will have to face the grand jury on a charge of lewd cohabitation. They are out on $250 bonds each.

B. Strouble and Mrs. W. R. Gay of Bend were bound over to the grand jury on a charge of adultery. Their case will be investigated at this term.

E. R. Huntington and Wm. Booth of Madras will be tried for stealing sheep, or rather a sheep, from the railroad company at Madras. The boys—both are under 20—thought it would be fun to snipe a fat ewe and have some fresh mutton. The railroad company thought otherwise and had them arrested. The young men work on the section out of Madras.

John Sweeten of Madras, the section boss under whom Huntington and Booth worked, was arrested charged with receiving stolen property. He helped the boys hide the stolen animal. Mutton comes high if you get it from a railroad company.

Bert Welch, another rash individual from Madras, is in jail charged with breaking into the Oregon Trunk depot at Madras. He broke through a window but had no sooner got his feet good and firm on the floor when the baggageman, who was sleeping right there, had him covered with a good sized cannon, or something that looked as big. Welch was marched down town and locked up in the city jail. The following comprises the civil docket:

The Last of Dickinson-Hall Shooting Scrape

James B. Dickinson, the Hampton Butte homesteader who was shot by Alec Hall on the night of the 14th of November, is now thought to be out of all danger. Nothing further has been heard of Hall.

While Sheriff Elkins was at Bend the other day Dickinson requested him to drop all proceedings against Hall. When he gets well Dickinson informed the sheriff that he intended to leave the country. He will return to his old home at Elma, Wash.

Good Road to Old River Bed--Keep On

Road Supervisor Glenn Hendrickson was ordered by the county court to pick the rocks out of the road from the foot of the west side grade to the old river grade. Heavy traffic made this work imperative. Ed Hodson, in order to help the work along, placed an automobile at the disposal of the road supervisor.

The good work should not stop at the river bed. The road should be cleaned right into Redmond. With the rocks removed and the surface leveled the heavy traffic would be greatly benefitted and its cost very much reduced. Freighters and automobile owners are willing to do the hauling free of charge which is no small item where a crew of men are moved from place to place. Road Supervisor Hendrickson claimed that the Hodson car saved about half time in moving his crew to and from work and from place to place. Redmond will no doubt take up the work at that end of the road and see that it is made passable for the winter.

Additional Members of Honorary List

Last week we omitted the names of Horigan & Reinke, C. W. Elkins, Mrs. McDowell and A. H. Lippman from the list of those that either furnished cars or made contributions to the work of fixing the grade on the Prineville-Lakeview inter-state highway. This was a public spirited act on the part of all concerned and deserves the gratitude of the entire community.

City Election Dec. 15 Lively Time Anticipated

The city election is right on our heels again. A mayor, three councilmen, a recorder, treasurer and marshal are to be chosen December 15.

The retiring councilmen are Messrs. Gray, Shipp and Cooper, all good men and true that have labored faithfully in the interest of Prineville. The holdovers are Councilmen Ward, Lafollette and Zevely.

Mayor Clifton seems to have no opposition for a second term. From the way things look he will simply have to serve again.

Quite a number are mentioned for the aldermanic job. The friends of the retiring councilmen want them to stand for re-election. W. F. King is prominently mentioned, so is W. A. Booth, G. W. Noble, Dale Jones and Wm. Pancake. The only man who has registered for the job is A. W. White.

Recorder Bowman seems to have no opposition. Not so for the office of city treasurer. At this writing there is good prospect of a hot three-corner fight for the job of handling the city cash. Joe Gerardo is the present incumbent and his friends think he is entitled to at least a full term. Mrs. Prince Glaze has shied her bonnet into the ring and will make things lively until after the ballots are counted. Attorney Bechtel has many young friends that are going to work for him so the race for the money bags is full of uncertainty.

Tom Coon and ex-Sheriff Balfour are the only ones mentioned so far for city marshal. Of course its a little early and there may be some surprises in the course of a week or two.

Another matter that voters will have to decide December 15 is whether or not it will be possible for the city to issue bonds up to within 10 per cent of the assessed valuation of property. At present the city can issue only to 6 per cent. If we ever have a sewer system it will be necessary to raise the amount from 6 to 10 per cent.

Ashwood Wants to Know a Few Things About County Roads

Ashwood's vote on the bond issue was almost unanimous against it. In fact, the vote stood 40 to 1. Are the people of the Trout creek hills non-believers in the much-talked-of good roads movement?

No, most assuredly not, but they would like to see some of the good roads come their way. Most residents of Crook county hardly know where Ashwood is and in fact the dwellers in that fertile and hilly little district are nearly as isolated from the rest of the county as was poor old Robinson Crusoe from his fellow men.

By looking at a county map you will see lines drawn to represent two county roads into Ashwood. They look good on the map, nice level, straight roads. One running almost due north from Prineville crosses over a spur of the Blue mountains, but has lost all appearance of being a road before it reaches these mountains. If one is handy in the woods and can follow a blazed trail, he can possibly find his way across the mountains but even at that he must cut and lift a few logs from across the road and drive around many others on the McKay side, as whoever is road supervisor on that side believes only in building road as far as his own home.

I spoke of two roads—the other is from Haycreek and is just about as bad, except that it has no tree blazes to follow and has a dozen or more barbed gates to be opened and closed.

These are county roads, or at least are called such. These are the only roads some two hundred families have to travel over. Because of this, much settlement is being held back, development by present settlers retarded, and many of the necessities of civilization are wanting. With good roads we would soon have rural free-delivery and more postoffices, more telephones, more merchants to sell and more people to buy.

A county road has been surveyed from the Axe Handle country to
