

FOR YOUNG FOLKS

Coasting Is One of Winter's Most Enjoyable Sports.

AN EXPERT ON HER FLIER.

When Old Boreas Brings the Snow Along All Children Are Happy—Curious and Interesting Tales—Games and Puzzles.

Nearly every healthy youngster shouts with glee when the north wind comes howling and growling, bringing with it a mighty fall of snow. Sleds that have lain idle for many months and the new ones that Santa Claus brought are quickly put to work, and the hills resound with merry shouts and chatter. The swift glide down a long hill is a glorious sensation, and climbing up to the top again for another whirl fills young lungs with fresh air and brings roses to round cheeks. Surely no other sport is quite so much fun as coasting. In large cities little folks don't have so free a fling as do those in the country, but they enjoy the snow just the same.

Central park is a famous coasting place for young New Yorkers, and when there is snow they make the most of it. This young lady standing on her flier is a New Yorker, and her photo was snapped in Central park. Her name is Virginia Wright.

Grandmother's Cat.

This is a good table game and should be played with counters and a pool. Beans or bits of paper will answer for counters and some candies for the pool. Every child must have twenty-six counters—one for every letter in the alphabet. Each player has to find a different adjective to describe "grandmother's cat" all through the alphabet. For example, A begins, "Grandmother's cat is an aristocrat or antiquated cat." B—Grandmother's cat is a beautiful or benevolent cat. C—Grandmother's cat is a cautious cat or cataleptic cat. And so on through the alphabet.

Each letter must go the round of the table, and no one must repeat an adjective used before. If he or she does so one counter must be given up, and when a player's counters are exhausted he is out of the game. A counter is forfeited also if the word used is not an adjective or if the player fails to think of a word within a given time.

Riddles.

When should you avoid the edge of a river? When the hedges are shooting and the bulrushes out.

Which is the heavier, a half or a full moon? The half, because the full moon is as light again.

What is the difference between a pillow covering and a quack doctor? One is a pillow sham, the other a sham pillow.

What is the difference between an ambassador and a bear hunter? One bears dispatches, the other dispatches bears.

What contradiction is true of an unpleasant person? The more you think of him the less you think of him.

A Geographical Game.

Procure a large map of America with the states outlined on it. Cut out each state separately and with these as patterns cut from white cardboard two patterns of each state. Divide the company into sides, providing each captain with a set of the states and floor space on which to make the map. The side putting the map together correctly first scores highest.

A Happy Moment.

When grandma says to me, "Stand up against the wall," I know she's going to see how many feet I'm tall. She measures up and down while I stand very straight. And, with a smiley frown, she tries to calculate.

She says: "H'm! Let me see—He's four years old." And then she whispers, "Forty-three." Or is it "Three feet ten?" I scarcely breathe at all. Till she says, measuring more, "This boy is just as tall. As his father was at four!" —Youth's Companion.

A HOBBY PARTY.

Merry Entertainment For the Jolly Church Sociable.

We all have hobbies, whether we ride the "horse" hard or not. There is always just some one thing we like to do or to have better than anything else, so to enliven a church social the entertainment committee asked each guest to wear an article to represent his or her favorite fad. There was the boy who had the stamp collecting fever at its height. He appeared with a stamp for a scarfpin, another glued on to a huge ring as a setting and four or five glued to his coat lapel in lieu of a boutonnet.

The silk quilt worker had her frock plentifully patched with silk squares of the patterns she was making or desired to make, and the would be artist had water color and pen and ink sketches on her dress, with a peaked hat made of water color paper, which had marine scenes upon it.

The airship fiend had a miniature flying machine (found at the toy counter) worn around his neck and a golf suit. The sailor boy was in white duck, with a "middy" cap, and the young miss who was learning to cook carried a ring and chain, from which dangled spoons, egg beater, flour sifter, etc. It is needless to say that this was the merriest kind of a party, far different from the average church social.

There was no lack of animated conversation, and to make things more interesting, when all sat down to refreshments, which were served at small tables, each one was asked to tell in two minutes the merits of his especial hobby.

This meeting turned out to be quite an exchange not only of ideas, but of materials, for every one found out what the other fellow was interested in, and some saved stamps and others silk pieces, and others gave cherished recipes, and all found that even those whom they thought dull and stupid were most interesting when led to talk upon what was uppermost in their minds.

DANCING FROCKS.

Girls of Ten or Twelve Wear Exquisite Net Models.

Little net dresses are especially pretty and dainty as dancing school frocks for girls of ten or twelve. They are generally mounted over a colored silk slip, and very often the ribbon tracery is applied to the slip, the net veiling this ribbon or flower trimming. One particularly effective dress of white net was mounted over a lining of net, and the wreaths of pink rosebuds and forget-me-nots were attached at irregular intervals to the net lining. A bolero was simulated by bands of insertion, partially veiling the sash of pink chiffon, which was knotted at one side of the front and its ends twisted into rosettes with flower centers. The frock pictured is of white accordion plaited net, with a black satin vest introduced on the waist.

Self Irrigating Pans For Plants.

One of the best ideas is the self irrigating basket or pan. This is made up in all styles and has a reservoir of tin, which sets in the basket with a pipe extending up to the height of the basket. This pipe is entirely hidden when the ferns or plants are placed in the basket.

All the watering is done through this pipe, the reservoir holding enough water to last ten days. There are two openings in the reservoir with sponges in them, and the plants absorb the water through those sponges in quantities required. Ferns and plants grow better in these baskets than in the ordinary receptacles for them, as they are never given too much or too little water at a time.

Woven Name Tapes.

For the methodical housewife woven name tapes are a boon. For $2 you can have your name woven in twelve dozen little lengths of white tape. The weaving is in red. These twelve dozen tapes would mark much of your household linen for years to come, doubtless, for, of course, it would not do for table linen. For sheets and pillowcases, towels of all sorts and underwear nothing could be neater or more durable. It takes three or four weeks for the manufacturer to fill each order.

HOW TO SAVE WASTE SPACE IN THE ATTIC.

There are thousands and thousands of homes where attic rooms are "done off," and in almost every instance a lot of space is wasted. This can be overcome in most cases.

Making a room in a top floor or "attic" is generally done by paneling or plastering the walls, and where the roof slopes down to the floor or almost to the floor a large space is cut off by building a short partition down from the roof to the floor.

The partition or "wall" of such a room is generally not high enough for the average bureau or dresser with its swivel mirror. No old fashioned bureau without a mirror is high enough for a chiffonier. And so a small one is generally placed against this wall.

This takes up a lot of space, sticking out into the already small room. This can be avoided if, when the room is done off, instead of cutting off this space back of the short partition a series of drawers is built in.

The bottom drawer would be deep and wide, and the other three or four drawers would taper up, the top one being quite narrow, as the roof is sloping toward this short partition all the time.

With two such built in bureaus or sets of drawers the entire floor space of the room remains for the bed, chairs and table, and yet there are plenty of drawers handy.

FOR THE HOUSEWIFE.

How to Wash Winter Flannel So It Won't Shrink.

To successfully wash flannels take a two gallon pail of cold water and add one-third bar of any good soap except naphtha, dissolved, and one heaping tablespoonful of borax, also dissolved. Stir cold water, dissolved soap and borax well together and put in the flannels. Let stand two or three days and then rub the soiled parts lightly with the hands, rinse twice in cold water, wring, shake and dry quickly.

Flannels washed in this way do not shrink, remain soft and wear longer. Blankets washed in this way never mat, but remain fluffy and soft until worn out. Crocheted or knit shawls, jackets or caps washed in this way and dried on a sheet, not hung up, in a warm place will be like new again.

When necessary to shrink flannels fold the material, place it in a tub, cover with boiling water and allow the goods to remain in it until the water cools. Hang the goods straight on a line and when partly dry press on the wrong side.

To wash an article made of ice wool, or shetland wool, put a tablespoonful of borax in a large basin of warm water, let it dissolve, then make a strong luds of white soap. Wash one article at a time through the suds, rubbing and squeezing gently, but never wringing.

Rinse in warm water, the same temperature as the suds, until free of all soap, then lay lightly upon a clean sheet stretched in the sun and turn it about many times until dry, always keeping it in a loose pile. When quite dry hold for a few minutes in the steam of a boiling kettle. It will come out light and fluffy. By not wringing or hanging, but drying in the pile, there's no fraying or stretching out of shape.

OLD NEWSPAPERS.

How to Convert These Into Kitchen Conveniences.

Use newspapers freely in the kitchen, spreading under pans when washing dishes or a table when peeling fruit or vegetables; also spread them around table, sink and stove when cooking. Crumple them up to wipe off greasy dishes and clean the bottoms of smoky pans. Polish tinware, windows and stoves with them. Make a thick pad of several of them to stand on when ironing. You will truly find them a rest for weary "soles." Dampen them and tear into bits to sprinkle over a dusty carpet. They brighten it wonderfully.

How to Treat New Umbrella.

Before using a new umbrella inject a small quantity of vaseline into the hinge portion of the frame. Vaseline will not spread like other oils and spoil the covering and is a sure preventive against rust. Wet umbrellas should be stood on their handles to dry. This allows the water to run out of them instead of into the part where the silk and ribs meet, thus causing the metal to rust and the silk to rot.

How to Keep Egg Yolks.

When only the whites of eggs are to be used the yolks may be kept fresh for several days by leaving them in the shell (after the whites have run out through a small hole). Wet paper in a little of the white and paste it over the hole. The yolks may thus be boiled hard, as their weight keeps the shell upright in water, or they may be used as desired.

How to Make Machine Work.

When a sewing machine will not work stand it near the fire so that the oil may melt and then clean with pure paraffin, putting it into every oil hole. Work the machine well and then wipe every part with a clean cloth. When perfectly clean lubricate with machine oil.
