Roland McCallister Shot While Hunting

Roland McCallister, who has been attending the Oregon Agricultural College, had a part of his left arm torn away by a charge of shot while out hunting near Pratum, Thanksgiving day. He is now critically ill at the Salem Hospital. He lost a quantity of blood before getting medical attendance, and got so weak that it is feared he may not survive. His parents were notified by wire of his serious condition. McCallister was wounded while carrying the gun on his knees in a boat.

A. McE. Ball Loses His Case

Judge Bradshaw last week handed down a decision in favor of Crook county in the case brought by A. McE. Ball, expert accountant, who sued the county for a balance due for services.

The county was represented in the action by District Attorney Willard H. Wirtz and Mr. Ball by Attorney N. G. Wallage, of Prineville, and B. E. Haney, of Portland.

Ball was employed last winter to expert the county books and tax rolls. He was discharged for alleged unsatisfactory work and a portion of his claim was turned down by the county commissioners as being excessive and not earned. A later examination of the books by the state insurance commissioner showed up Ball's work.

New Film Service at the Lyric Theater

L. C. Morgan went to Portland Sunday, returning Wednesday. While there he made arrangements to exhibit independent pictures at the Lyric, both Universal and Mutual programs to be represented. Universal pictures will be shown every Saturday, Sunday and Monday, while Mutual pictures will be shown the four remaining days each week—Tuesday to Friday inclusive.

The "Universal Weekly," containing the famous Hy. Mayer cartoons, will be shown each Sunday and Monday, while on Thursdays and Fridays the Mutual Weekly will be shown. Both contain news events and many war scenes. Mr. Morgan wishes patrons to frankly tell him whether or not they like the new programs which begin this Saturday.

Car Load of Field Peas for Crook County

Having found that there are a large number of farmers expecting to plant field peas in this section next season the County Agriculturist, A. S. Lovett, is sending the following letter to farmers he has met during the summer. Any one receiving the letter from him may fill out the blank below, and their name will be added to the list. A mistake was made in the article published last week as to the amount of seed to be planted per acre.

Dear Sir:—There are a large number of farmers in the county who expect to plant field peas next season.

Those who buy seed can save money if they club together. If you buy by the 100 pounds, they will cost you at least $3.75. If you will club with the other farmers of the county in buying and can order by the ton or the carload, they will cost only about 3 cents per pound.

I am trying to help the farmers to save money. If you expect to plant field peas in the spring will you order with the others? If so, please fill in space below and return to me.

On dry land plant 75 pounds per acre; on irrigated land, 100 to 120 pounds. Where summer fallow has been plowed in the fall, peas may be grown on summer fallow.

A. E. LOVETT,
County Agriculturist and Agent
U. S. Dept. of Agri.
