Powell Butte.

Lee Hoobs delivered 40 head of hogs to the Redmond Produce Co., at Redmond, Wednesday.

A bunch of the Houston sheep from Prineville arrived at A. H. Rhode's place Wednesday, where they are to be fed for the winter.

Geo. Eisler is back from a short visit at the valley metropolis.

N. P. Alley is finishing two upstairs sleeping rooms, building a chimney and otherwise improving his house.

Two car loads of fat hogs passed through this section Friday enroute to Portland via Redmond. They were from the Russell ranch near Prineville.

G. C. Truesdale was a Prineville visitor Friday. So also was Geo. Hobbs, the latter returning home Saturday.

N. P. Alley and Mr. Houston pulled off a livestock trade last week, the latter trading a bunch of sheep for the Alley cattle.

A special meeting of the Sorosis was held at the home of Mrs. E. L. Iverson Friday afternoon. Business matters claimed the attention of the ladies for the entire session, Mrs. Iverson serving refreshments prior to adjournment.

Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Smith entertained at a dinner party Sunday. Rev. and Mrs. Byar, of Redmond, and Mrs. Ida Morse and daughter Ada, were their guests.

The government thermometer in charge of Earl Saunders registered three degrees below zero Sunday night, making the majority of us hunt blankets.

It is reported that some of the grain on the dry lands was blown out during the recent high winds.

name the officers of the county and also select a temporary county seat, it being provided that a permanent county seat shall be decided upon by the voters at the next general election. For the temporary county seat, the towns of Madras, Metolius and Culver are rivals, and each had put forth slates of officers for the board to the Executive.

In making the appointments the Executive issued a statement in which he said:

"The governor's office is not interested in the county seat fight, only in getting competent officials. As the lists of candidates submitted by the different contestants were made up of splendid men, we simply took one from each list and have left the county seat question to be settled at home."

The slates were as follows: Madras—County Judge, S. K. King, Metolius; Commissioners, Roscoe Gard, Gateway; L. M. Thomas, Lamonta.

Metolius—County Judge, J. M. King, Opal City; Commissioners, H. J. Chenoweth, Grandview; S. S. Black, Ashwood.

Culver—County Judge, William Boegli, Culver; Commissioners, D. E. Blanchard, Lamonta; H. L. Priddy, Cross Keys.

Artesian Water on the Noble Place

Wagner & Reynolds, the well-drillers, struck an artesian flow of water at the Andrew Noble ranch, just north of town. They went down 215 feet. At 9 feet surface water was found, then went through 100 feet of sand. The rest of the way was through blue clay. Just before the water was found the clay assumed a greenish tint. The water is nice and soft. Similar in character to the Wondrously flow. Mr. Noble intends to pipe it into the house.
