The Stock Men

In the personnel of its membership, the state association of cattle and horse raisers presents some of the most able men, not only in these lines, but in all other lines of industry.

The president and father of the organization is Wm. Pollman of Baker City. Mr. Pollman is president of the First National Bank of Baker, on the board of directors of the Baker Loan & Trust Co., interested in other banks in Pendleton, The Dalles and Portland; is first vice-president of the Oregon Life Insurance Company, and has large land holdings besides the cattle interests in which he is interested.

Mr. Doby of Baker, treasurer of the Association, is manager of the Baker Packing Company, who own five meat markets where retail business is carried on besides the wholesale packing interests of the company which are extensive.

Wm. Daughtry, second vice-president of the Association is president of the Portland Union Stock Yards, besides having large numbers of cattle on the ranges of Malheur county.

S. O. Correll, secretary, has an extensive law business in Baker, where he has been located for the past 24 years. Besides acting as secretary for the Association, Mr. Correll is depended upon for legal advice, and to his efforts much of the success of the organization is due.

The Truth About Rabies

The address of Calvin S. White, of the state board of health, which is quite fully treated in this issue, is the most valuable information obtainable on rabies.

One should consider that Dr. White is perhaps as well versed in this matter as anyone can be, and his opinion on the various features of the situation here cannot be questioned.

He says that the situation here in Crook County will be ever so much worse before it is any better and that every possible precaution should be taken to check the disease.

Keep this copy of the Journal for future reference and if there are any matters you do not understand, telephone this office. Dr. White has promised a supply of bulletins that will cover every possible feature of the situation, and this information is yours for the asking.

Farmers' Meeting at Redmond

A meeting of the farmers of Crook County has been arranged for at Redmond to take place at one o'clock, Saturday afternoon, February 13. At this meeting Mr. C. M. McAlister, special representative of the Portland Union Stock Yards Co., will give a talk relative to the hog problem which confronts the farmers today, and we believe that he will have a great many helpful suggestions to offer. Mr. McAlister has had a great deal of experience in both the raising and selling of stock, and thoroughly understands the general conditions. The hog question is one which we know is puzzling a great many of our farmers at the present time, and we believe that a talk from a man of Mr. McAlister's experience will be of great benefit.

Mr. A. E. Lovett, our County Agriculturist, will also give a talk covering the cooperative purchase of farm seeds and farmers' organizations. Mr. Lovett has already been of great assistance to a large number of the farmers in this county along this line, and through proper organization, expects to be able to save the farmers thousands of dollars during the coming year. By combining so as to be able to order in carload lots, a great saving can be effected to the farmers and also they can secure varieties of seeds which they need and which are not always carried by the local dealers. Those who have heard Mr. Lovett know that he always has something good to offer, and we know this instance will be no exception to the rule.

At the same meeting we will hear from Mr. Harold Crawford, of Walla Walla, Wash., a man who has had considerable experience in the use of silos and their construction, and who will deliver a talk along these lines. There is a fine field for silos in this section, and we trust that all who are able will get in to hear this talk.

After the talk by these men, it is hoped to organize for the purpose of buying seeds and anything else which may seem to be of benefit to the farmers. Also the question of a farmers' cooperative warehouse will probably be discussed at this time to see if any feasible method can be adopted whereby the warehouse can be rebuilt. Since the burning of the farmers' warehouse its value to the community has been impressed upon the farmers more strongly every month and it is hoped that some definite plan can be proposed for its reconstruction. The meeting will be held at Ehret's hall and a large attendance is expected.
