ELEVEN WARSHIPS LOST BY GERMANS

Four Cruisers, Seven Torpedo-boats Sunk in Sea Fight in Gulf of Riga.

London.—A dispatch to the Central News from Petrograd says: "The president of the duma has announced that the Germans had lost the battle cruiser Molke, three cruisers and seven torpedo-boats in the Riga battle."

The announcement of the president of the duma as sent was as follows: "In the Riga battle the Germans lost one battle cruiser, the Molke, three cruisers and seven torpedo-boats."

"The German fleet has withdrawn from Riga bay."

"The Germans tried to make a descent near Pernypin (Pernig), on the east shore of the gulf of Riga, some 35 miles north of Riga. Four barges crammed with soldiers took part in the descent. They were repulsed by the Russian troops, without the co-operation of artillery, the Germans being exterminated and the barges captured."

"Petrograd indulged in pardonable rejoicings. The desperate efforts of the Germans to upset our military plans by creating a diversion on the Estonian coast has signally failed. According to the news received they sustained heavy losses during the operations connected with the forcing of the gulf of Riga."

"Aided by British submarines we were able from the shelter of the great and little towns to harass and cripple and finally to drive the enemy out of the gulf."

WAR DECLARED ON TURKEY BY ITALY

London.—Italy has declared war against Turkey, and the Italian ambassador has left Constantinople.

Marquis di Garroni, Italian ambassador to Turkey, handed to the porte a note declaring Italy considered herself in a state of war with Turkey, and demanded his passports, according to an official telegram.

The reasons given in the note for Italy's declaration of war were the support given by Turkey to the revolt in Libya and the prevention of the departure of Italian residents from Syria.

Although Italy declared war on Austria on May 24 there has never been a declaration of war between Italy and Germany, the ally of Austria, while until now Italy and Turkey, the ally of the central powers, nominally have been at peace.

INQUIRY REPORTS FILED

Investigators Agree on Inheritance Tax; Differ on Other Points.

Chicago.—Summaries of the reports, three in number, of the United States commission on industrial relations as to findings and recommendations for the information of congress, were made public here.

The commission, which ceased to exist Monday, was composed of three representatives each of the employers, the employed and the general public. The reports agree on a federal inheritance tax and on the general plan for its use. The Manly report disagrees in recommending practically the single tax and other things.

The Manly summary finds that the causes of industrial unrest group themselves almost without exception under four main sources which include all the others. They are: Unequal distribution of wealth and income; unemployment and denial of opportunity to earn a living; denial of justice in the creation, in the adjudication and in the administration of the law; denial of the right and opportunity to form effective organizations.

FALL FERTILIZERS FOR LAWN.

Applications Should Be Made After Frosts Have Come.

(Prepared by United States department of agriculture.) To stimulate the growth of a lawn and to improve its appearance for the following spring no better treatment can be recommended than the application of properly rotted manure in the late fall, according to the United States department of agriculture's specialist. This application should not be made until after the frosts have stopped the growth of the grass. Ten to twenty-two horse loads should be applied to the acre, according as the soil is more or less rich.

It is most important that the manure should be thoroughly rotted before application, so that all weed seeds are killed; otherwise damage done by weeds will more than offset the fertilizing value of the application. Manure really needs careful handling before it is suited for spreading over the lawn. Unless it is properly "composted" it may have most of its valuable constituents destroyed by improper handling. To "compost" manure properly it should be treated as follows: Pile all manure in heaps with alternate layers of sod or other litter. Keep it wet enough so it will not burn. Let it stand a whole year through summer and winter, forking it over two or three times during the year. It will then be ready for use on the lawns, and danger from weed seeds will be minimized.

Many people object to the use of manure at all, not only because of the danger from weed seeds, but because of its unsightly and insanitary appearance. These will undoubtedly prefer to use something else, and the most economical substitute is finely ground bone or bone meal. This should be applied at the rate of from 600 pounds to one ton per acre, according as the ground is more or less rich. It should cost between $25 and $30 a ton.

With the bonemeal it is desirable to use double the quantity of wood ashes. These ashes contain considerable lime in a very desirable form, as well as other valuable elements. However, they are apt to be more or less costly.

Ordinarily muriate of potash would be found more economical than wood ashes, although the potash does not contain the lime which the other fertilizer imparts to the soil. On account of the European war the potash may prove more difficult to obtain than the wood ashes. Only one-tenth the quantity of potash should be used as of bonemeal.

The potash may be sown separately or mixed with the bonemeal, as desired. The same is true of wood ashes if these are used instead of potash. All applications should be made before the ground freezes permanently for the winter, as otherwise the fertilizer may be largely washed from the soil before it has a chance to become incorporated with it.

In regions where cottonseed meal may be obtained at a price not over $25 per ton it may be used satisfactorily in the place of the ground bone. Tankage and fish scraps are even richer in important elements than ground bone, but are frequently in bad mechanical condition for handling—that is, they contain hair or other foreign coarse matter. Their bad odor also makes them objectionable.

Prepared sheep manure is an excellent dressing. As it has been sterilized by drying and rendered odorless, there are not the objections to it that there might be to ordinary manure. It is one drawback is expensiveness.

To Protect Worn Places.—If there are any parts of the lawn which will be tramped over when they are not frozen, and especially when snow is melting there, these parts should be protected to prevent persons from cutting across. Trampling on the turf when it is covered by slush or snow is as destructive to a lawn as almost anything else.

It is hardly necessary to say that nothing will be gained by scattering grass seed on the lawn at this season.

Feed Box For Stock.

A good large sized store box, fitted with a lid and hasp, is very handy to have in the barn for holding ground feed, stock feed, etc. The box can be filled up at stated intervals and will save many trips to the granary. If the box is set where animals may get to it should they happen to get loose it should be provided with good hinges and a hasp that cannot be easily rubbed open.

Tip the Raspberry Plants.

The late fall is the time for tipping black raspberry plants if you want to raise new plants. As the new growth buds over the ground each tip should be buried in the soil a few inches and held in place by piling up a little earth upon it. Next spring the tips will have roots, when the plants can be cut off from the parent bushes and planted wherever they are wanted.

Storage of Fodder.

The ideal way to store fodder is to shred; then it is more easily stored in less space and is much more handy for feeding. Fodder should be very dry when stored; otherwise if large amounts are packed in one room it will sweat and mold.
