

THE CITY

S. B. Moras was convicted in the justice court before Justice of the Peace Bowman, on Tuesday, for petty larceny. The complaint was lodged against Moras by Mrs. Sarah J. Newsom and the charge consisted of the taking of rails from a line fence between the Newsom place and Morss homestead on the Newsom Creek. The line was recently established by the county surveyor and Morss helped himself to rails from the Newsom fence that lay on his land after the survey and before the Newsoms had an opportunity of taking their property into custody.

Prineville is now showing a spirit of progress and civic pride unequalled in the past. Consistent with these moves would be a new fence inclosing the courthouse lawn on the north side in place of the unsightly boards now nailed from tree to tree. The appropriate and useful thing for the county to do, would be that of placing servicable benches under the trees making a shady and comfortable resting place for visitors and setting an example of community pride for the school children who pass along this street daily.

With the usual regularity and ease the Bend bowling team defeated the Prineville aggregation by a suitable margin last Saturday evening in Bend. However it may be said that the local rollers showed some improvement over past contests, as no fouls were called and more consistent games were played. The doubles between Osborn-Burdon and Astland-Harphmon were the most closely contested, but the ability to pick spares won for the latter couple. Prineville captured one honor, that of high score for the evening, which went to E. J. Wilson with a total of 195 pins.

SHUMIA CLUB HOLDS INTERESTING MEETING

The Shumia Club had a particularly enjoyable afternoon with Mrs. Collins Elkins on April first.

As guests were expected later the business meeting was held first. Upon motion, the secretary was instructed to write a letter of regret to the four teachers who had other plans for next winter, and did not reapply for positions here. We have appreciated their good work with our children, and deeply regret their leaving.

An excellent review of Irving's "Astoria" was given by Mrs. Belknap, and Mrs. Clifton read interesting portions of Miss Tarbell's "Golden Rules of Business" and showed illustrations of improved factory conditions.

Miss Wilde assisted Mrs. Elkins in serving a delicious luncheon at tables beautifully decorated with golden daffodils, sent from Portland for the occasion.

Protect the Baby And Your Food

STORES which sell meat, groceries or fruit should not tolerate flies. Fighting them is difficult, but conscientious attempts should be made to keep these disease bearing insects away from human food, the same conscientious efforts that are made by a mother to keep flies from the baby and its milk bottle. Every possible means should be employed to exclude flies from creameries.

matters that are of a common interest.

He was followed by W. F. King of Prineville, who spoke on co-operation and good roads. Bend and Redmond were asked to assist in getting the State Highway through all three towns. He said that the people must help the county to build the roads.

Vernon A. Forbes called the attention of the meeting to the fact that in addition to the heavy amounts contributed to the Federal Reclamation Fund of which there has been less than 25 per cent already returned to Oregon, there is now a possibility of sixteen million dollars more of Oregon's money going into this fund which in fact belongs to this state from the sales of the O. & C. land grant lands. He thinks that proper influences put to work at once could save this fund for Oregon.

Percy B. Davis from Sisters was the next speaker. He advocated more assistance to the farmers and live stock on every ranch.

Fred N. Wallace followed. He said that the Tumalo project was built by the co-operation of all Central Oregon. The leak in the reservoir is being rapidly repaired and Mr. Wallace feels that he will soon be able to store its maximum capacity of water.

Central Oregon is only in its first stages of development, according to the statements by DeArmond. He said farther, that nothing could stop the development in this part of the state if all the communities worked together. His motto would be "concentrate our energies, amalgamate our ideas, co-operate in our efforts and success greater than the wildest dreams is assured."

M. E. Brink stated that the newspapers were the strongest factors in the development of any community, also that the farmers should organize and work together to get the things to which they are entitled.

Judge Duffy, representing the Prineville Commercial Club, announced that a meeting of like nature will be held in Prineville in about thirty days, on a date to be stated soon.

Other speakers were J. A. Eastes, J. F. Blanchard, R. L. Sehee, Judge Springer, H. J. Overturf, Jay H. Upton, W. H. Wirtz, John Dennis, W. D. Barnes, A. M. Lara, Dr. Rosenberg, M. A. Lynch, R. P. Winter, Rev. VanNuys, A. E. Lovett and Guy E. Dobson.

Music by the Redmond quartette which sang selections composed by them for the occasion, needless to say, brought down the house.

About fifty men were present from Prineville.
