THE FOOT THAT CARRIES DEATH

This is the Foot of the Housefly, Otherwise Known as the Typhoid Fly, Because Its Feet Transfer Deadly Germs From Foul Places to Our Food.

The Chautauqua dates are July 3 to 8

Munitions in the Long Ago.
The munition question was a sim- pler matter for our forefathers than for us, but they were acquainted with it. Richard III. obtained that with every ton of certain goods imported into England ten yew bows should be sent. Bowmakers, too, were not al- lowed to use our own yew wastefully, and some standard of skill had to be reached before one could possess a bow of that wood. The novice had to be content with ash or elm.—London Standard.

Not That Kind.
Weary Walker—Lady, could yer help a poor feller a little? I've got a hack- in' cough an' a headache.
Mrs. Kindling—Well, I've got a little wood outside you could hack, and it might cure your headache.
Weary Walker—Much obliged, mum; but, yer see, my headache ain't of the splittin' kind.—London Scraps.

British General Elections.
The British "general election," which can be called an appeal to the people and on which the existing government may be obliged to "go out," is prac- tically a referendum. In case of a dead- lock or disagreement in parliament or cabinet a general election may be called at any time. Although the vote of the people is not taken directly on a question, but on the representatives whose standing on the question is known, the result is the same as if the bill itself were being voted upon.

Nocturnal Tragedy.
It is a dark night. It is also a dark kitchen. The kind hearted man in his stocking feet is after a drink of water for his fretful youngster. He thinks he can find his way in the inky dark- ness. He is mistaken. He turns to the left instead of to the right and falls down cellar.
Another good man gone wrong.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.
