manner in which the election and the polling was conducted, so the following is being published:

"The election to be held next Saturday," says Mr. Wirtz, "is to be conducted like all other general elections and the general election laws apply so far as possible. The polls should be under the direct supervision of the election officials and they should see that the laws are complied with.

"No electioneering is permitted on the election day under penalty of the law. Persons not voting should remain entirely away from the polls and no one should be allowed in the polling booth with the voter, unless the voter requests instruction as to the manner of voting and then the election judges only should give the necessary instructions without endeavoring to influence the voter's choice.

"Prosecutions will follow for all violations of the election laws." He added, "It is against the law to furnish conveyances to the polls, if the intention is to influence the voter thereby."

COUNTY FAIR TO BE SOLD TO COUNTY

About forty people were present at the luncheon given Friday by the ladies of the Methodist church. A typical church dinner was served including everything from chicken pie down the list.

The committee which had charge of the arrangements for the sale of the fair grounds to the county reported progress and the members were urged to assist in this work by using their influence with stockholders and members of the court. The idea is not a new one, many of the fairs of the Northwest being owned and operated by the counties in which they are located and are conducted as an educational and advertising feature.
