

10,000,000 MEN ARE SUBJECT TO DRAFT

Washington.—In a statement issued by the director of the census, he estimates that there are 10,000,000 men in the United States of conscription age.

The conferees appointed by the senate and house to adjust the differences between the conscription bills passed by the respective houses submitted their formal agreement. The senate bill fixed the maximum age at 27 years, the house bill at 46 years. The compromise determined upon is 30 years.

But in order that men under 21 and over 30 might serve their country if they so desired, the conferees measure provides for the acceptance of volunteers of over 18 years and under 40 years.

The proposed law gives authority to the president to draft as many men as he deems necessary to fill up the regular army, the national guard and the conscription force of 1,000,000 men.

CENSORSHIP IS DEFEATED

Measure to Muzzle Press Rejected by Vote of 39 to 38.

Washington.—By a majority of one, the senate struck from the espionage bill the censorship provision that would authorize autocratic power to curb the press in any and all criticism of the government's conduct of the war and the administration's international policies.

The vote was 39 to 38. Fifteen democrats lined up with 24 republicans to defeat the provision, which has caused a storm of criticism from all over the country and on the floor of both houses of congress. This action, if permitted to stand, leaves the house on record in favor of the censorship and the senate against it.
