WOOL MARKET QUIET

The leading wool buyers in the Northwest have withdrawn from the market for the time being. The strong position maintained by the growers has made it difficult to transact business in this state, and the check given to the advance in the Eastern markets, has had the effect of stopping speculative buying at this end. Boston wires received yesterday said that market was firm, but trade was quiet, with less wool moving.

As has been stated before an unusually small portion of the Oregon clip has passed out of growers' control. Not much wool remains in the country, but there is a large stock in storage here, and most of this belongs to growers. It is reported that the storage holdings of one local warehouse company amount to no less than 11,000,000 pounds, the larger portion of it Oregon wool.

It has been for years the desire of wool men to make Portland the wool center of the Northwest, and market conditions this season have made possible the carrying out of their plans. When the local and Eastern buyers get ready to operate again, or growers make up their minds to sell, Portland will be the market place where they will meet. Oregonian—July 17.

DESCHUTES CLAIMS VICTIM

Young Man Falls In River At "Dutch John" Bridge

Edward R. Moore, of Parma, Idaho, fell from the bridge at the "Dutch John" place, on Deschutes, Monday afternoon and soon drowned in the treacherous waters.

Three companions were unable to reach him. The body was recovered late in the evening by Sheriff Roberts and assistants.

This is near the place where two young men lost their lives about a year ago.

LOAD OF TIES DAMAGE SERVICE

Five-Ton Truck Collides With Power Line Pole

A five-ton motor truck, coming at rapid pace, loaded with railway ties for the Prineville railroad, hit a power line pole, of the Deschutes Power company, between Prineville and McKay, about noon yesterday.

The pole was broken in such a way as to damage the service for some time before the location of the trouble was discovered.

The truck, which was driven by H. G. Ferris, was not injured.

GROCERIES

We have the pleasure of announcing that we have a large stock of fresh groceries, a portion of which was bought considerably under the market and which we are selling under the market today. To our satisfaction we have stopped thousands of dollars from going to the Portland mail order houses during the past two years and the only business we have not stopped is the business that was not presented to us for quotations.

We invite the public to price their own orders from any Portland catalog of most recent issue and mail or deliver to us and we will fill the orders with freight charges added.
