

DARREL WILHOIT INJURED

Five Year Old Son of B. F. Wilhoit Has Narrow Escape.

The five year old son of B. F. Wilhoit was painfully injured last Thursday evening at their ranch on Crooked River, when the wagon in which the farm hands were hauling hay, struck him on the back of the neck.

The boy was standing near the wagon where he could not be seen and when the driver started the team, the brake hit him and rendered him unconscious for several hours.

It was feared at first that he had received internal injuries but the last report was that he was resting easy and would probably recover.

SOME CASES TRANSFERRED TO DESCHUTES COUNTY

Circuit Court closed Saturday evening after a two weeks' term.

A few of the cases were transferred to Deschutes County where they will be tried, some were dismissed and others continued for the term.

The grand jury was held for further duty and are subject to the call of Judge Duffy as needs arise.

This plan enabled him to have all the work of the grand jury disposed of this term before the trial jury was called and business of the court was handled with much less expense to the county than under the old plan of procedure.
