THE THIRD LOAN

Every true American has a feeling of pride regarding the success of the Third Liberty Loan.

Its tremendous success is due to two things. One is the fact that many boys are now getting into the service of the country from every community, which brings the facts home to everyone, and these boys are soon to see actual service under fire.

The other cause that has contributed a tremendous power to the drive was the thorough organization and publicity campaign.

The shop keeper may have ever so good an article, but if he keeps it in dark corners, and tells no one about it, no individual will insist upon buying it.

The fact that a Liberty Bond is but a green back, plus interest both of which are guaranteed by the government, never dawned upon the public until it was driven home during the recent publicity campaign.

The first two drives were looked upon by the individual who is not in the habit of loaning money, as an opportunity to donate to the government. This time it is different, and we believe the publicity, in which every paper in the nation played its part, is in no small measure responsible for its success.

Do not forget, since the Liberty Loan drive is over, that you can yet buy war stamps at the postoffice and other selling agencies and that they are as good as Liberty Bonds with the only difference in that on them interest is compounded semi-annually. Buy some today and get the habit.

ONE YEAR GONE

The first year of war, in so far as the United States is directly concerned, is now history.

The people are awakened to the fact that the task is a large one, and the greatest victory yet accomplished is the welding together of ideas and issues in this country, all with the single purpose of winning the war.

People accept rulings from the government without a murmur that would have been impossible to execute a year ago.

The universal service law has assured as many men as will be necessary to win the war, and to be called into service under the conscription law only means, in most instances at least, that the party called has been busy with home obligations until he is actually needed, when the response is ready and willing, both as a privilege and the strictest military duty.

The United States is but getting to the point where losses will begin to assume real proportions, in this, the greatest of wars, and in order to win a great victory, as we all expect, we must prepare ourselves for heavy losses.

The drive on the western front has assumed the proportions of the final struggle, and no doubt the issues will be decided there, but not without great losses on both sides.

This fact is imminent, and we must and will face the facts squarely. The results achieved during the year, while not decisive for the allies in any respect, must be viewed with considerable gratification.

The allies have maintained their positions, with the only exceptions of retreats at great cost to the enemy, and the public mind, throughout the allied countries, is set firmly upon the single idea of conquering the Hun, even should it mean a matter of extermination.

FOR DRY AMERICA

Those who were fortunate enough to be at the Prineville churches Sunday, heard an excellent talk concerning the movement to make the United States absolutely dry.

The most striking facts are that no good can be said of the saloon as an institution, that it contributes nothing to our life or our nation, and takes away much that all people should strive for.

The spirit of the Hun ruthlessness is the spirit of the saloon, and in more ways than one they are akin. When our national manhood must be conserved, both for war and peace purposes, when fuel and food must be supplied, of which the breweries and saloons use large quantities, something prompt and decisive should be done. Let's treat the liquor traffic like we will the Prussian and all other posts, dispense with it.

A GREAT SUCCESS

Almost two weeks have gone by since the order to turn all clocks ahead one hour, went into effect. To say that the idea is a wonderful one expresses the facts mildly.

Many good results are already plainly seen, and the gain to the nation is sure to be great.

WHEAT RESTRICTIONS ARE BECOMING STRICT

No miller shall make exchange of flour for wheat without substitutes until he obtains from the customer a written statement that the wheat was grown on the customer's farm and that the flour to be delivered, when added to what the customer already has on hand, will not exceed a thirty-day supply for the customer and his household.

This statement must also say that the customer will not sell, lend or deliver such flour to anyone outside his own household or establishment, or permit such flour to be used for other than human consumption.

The mill, in estimating the quantity that will reasonably meet the requirements of the farmer's household, should figure on 1/2 pound per person per day for those engaged in hard labor and 1 1/2 pounds per week for those engaged in sedentary pursuits.

No wheat or rye can be chopped at any licensed mill, says a positive order from Mr. Ayer.

THE GREAT WAR HAS MADE CIGARETTES A NECESSITY.

"Our boys must have their smokes. Send them cigarettes!" This is a familiar appeal now to all of us.

Among those most in demand is the now famous "toasted" cigarette—LUCKY STRIKE. Thousands of this favorite brand have been shipped to France. There is something homelike and friendly to the boys in the sight of the familiar green packages with the red circle.

This homelike, appetizing quality of the LUCKY STRIKE cigarette is largely due to the fact that the Burley tobacco used in making it has been toasted. "It's toasted" was the "slogan" that made a great success of LUCKY STRIKE in less than a year. Now the American Tobacco Co. is making 15 million LUCKY STRIKE Cigarettes a day.

A good part of this immense production is making its way across the water to cheer our boys. The Red Cross has distributed thousands of LUCKY STRIKE Cigarettes.
