WILSON MARCHES IN BIG LIBERTY PARADE

New York.—President Wilson, commander-in-chief of the American army and navy, marched at the head of the American forces in the Columbus Liberty day parade, one of the most impressive and inspiring spectacles New York has ever seen.

Under a canopy formed by the flags of the 22 nations arrayed against autocracy and with squadrons of American airplanes hovering overhead, the president strode with 25,000 fighting men from five continents and islands in every sea over the entire three-mile line of march along the "Avenue of the Allies."

At the head of the line were detachments of fighting men representing 22 nationalities. They came from countries that are fighting to retain their freedom and they came from races that are fighting to be free.

Behind the foreign divisions marched women war workers, Red Cross nurses, ambulance drivers, munition makers, police women and "farmettes."

Next in line were the American military and naval forces, led by the commander-in-chief of more than 3,000,000 bayonets, for, although it was expected that the president would take his place at the very head of the column, it seemed that he preferred to march directly in front of his own nation's fighting men.

SINKING ROUSES ENGLAND

Leinster Incident Regarded as a Blow to Peace Reconciliation.

London.—The sinking of the steamer Leinster gave a stunning blow to whatever feeling existed in England for a peace of reconciliation. The affair caused more indignation than any submarine exploit since the sinking of the Lusitania.

The contrast between Prince Max's benevolent utterances and Germany's day-by-day military and naval policies is the text for the newspaper sermons on the situation. Not only the slaughter of women and children on the Leinster, but the German refusal to exchange prisoners and the stories coming from the front of needless devastation are working together to dampen sentiment of leniency toward the central powers.

It appears plain that the German proposals are regarded with more disfavor here than they were a week ago.

Influenza Increases at Camp Lewis.

Camp Lewis, Wash.—There were 437 new cases of influenza here last week, as opposed to only 128 cases the previous week, according to the weekly health report. The number of deaths, despite this increase in influenza, decreased.

FOREST SERVICE TO RAISE ITS OWN HAY

WITHIN THE NEXT YEAR 75 PER CENT TO BE GROWN

INSPECTION JUST COMPLETED

Work On New Road Near Ochoco Ranger Station Progressing Satisfactorily

Assistant District Forester E. N. Kavanaugh recently spent a week on the Ochoco during which time interesting stock meetings were held with both Maury and Beaver Creek Associations.

On account of general demand for hay because of the great number of range stock in this section of the State the Forest Service has deemed it advisable to improve, as far as it is consistently possible, several of the ranger stations for the purpose of producing enough hay for the Forest officers occupying such stations. It seems probable that within another year perhaps 75 per cent of the hay required for use on the Ochoco Forest will be produced by the Service at these various stations.

Mr. J. L. Patterson of the Portland office of Grazing together with Grazing Examiner D. C. Ingram have just returned from an inspection trip over a number of cattle ranges on the Ochoco and Malheur forests.

Work on the new road near the Ochoco Ranger Station is progressing satisfactorily and it is very probable that the section between the Henry Koch ranch and Ochoco Ranger Station will be in such shape within a short time that travel will pass that way. When this section of the road is completed one of the worst portions of the old road will be eliminated. Final survey has just been completed. The Good Roads Office of another link of the Prineville-Mitchell road near the Beaver Ranger Station in Wheeler County and unless labor conditions become so acute as to make it impracticable, work on this section will be undertaken either late this fall or as early in the spring as weather conditions will permit.

Recent heavy rains over this part of the state have worked wonders toward improving ranch conditions and stockmen generally are wearing a smile that cannot be taken from them.

Now that the fire danger has passed, brush burning on the various timber sales on this forest has been taken up.

On account of the great demand for freight cars to handle the government transportation at this time the local Forest Office has been requested to gather data from sheepmen in both Crook and Wheeler counties with reference to the number of sheep they will have to ship during the next two months and the probable date of shipment. This will enable the car service section of the U. S. Railway administration to contemplate the number of cars that will probably be required to meet the need.

A LETTER FROM "BUB"

Same Old Place, Sept. 2, '18

Arrived home on the 21st from my furlough to Aix-les-Bains. It was one grand time from the day we left. Spent a day and night in Paris going, and a day and night coming home.

We left here two weeks ago yesterday on the Paris express, took us some eight hours to go to Paris. We traveled on the "Gare de L'est." God in there early in the afternoon, had that night there and all the next day. Took in the Folies Bergere, that evening. Things are so confounded interesting in Paris. It has New York city beat a thousand ways to spend a day or so in. Of course there are not the marvelous big high buildings we see in New York city, but the buildings are more beautiful. There are so many interesting and historical places to visit. We had a fellow with us who has spent about four months there and knows the town well. He took us around all the day we were there. A person can't commence to see it in the time we had so we did the best we could. Only got to see Fern Hobbs for about 20 minutes. The fellows were all waiting for me and I could not stay longer. We had a nice little chat. Didn't get back to see her as we came home. Paris is not hard to get around in. Everyone you ask is so anxious to help you. Different from New York. There if you ask a policeman where a place is or about anything, about all you get is a growl. In Paris they not only tell you but they will take you and show you. We had lots of fun trying to purely their French. You see, here in camp we have very little opportunity to learn their language. It's just like being in the U. S. and none of us could speak French very well. We always managed to get along though, and get what we wanted.

Directly across the street from our hotel a bomb had struck some time ago. You'd never know there was such a war going on, to be there. They say Paris was a hundred times better before the war. If that is true, believe me, I'm coming back there some day—"aprez la Guerre finis"—We left there on the Gare de Lyon on the P. L. M. considered the fastest railroad in the world being about 6 a. m. Took us about one hour to check in at the Provost Marshal and from that time on to the day we left there we lived like millionaires. Stayed at a wonderful hotel, grand rooms, ate the best possible. The Government paid for all our hotel expenses. The Casino or Grand Circle now the Y. M. C. A., is where we were entertained lots. I spent most of my time playing tennis, swimming and rowing. Met some wonderful little French girls from Paris one morning out at the tennis club. They gave two parties for us at the hotel and we were all four invited to one at another one evening. They are two sisters, there for a month with their mother. Their father is president of the Societe General in Paris, (a large bank). They are very wealthy, both speak very good english, but their mother not a word. They lived at the Hotel de L'Europe, swellest hotel there. The place where Pierpont Morgan used to stay on his yearly visits to Aix. There is a boulevard in Aix named Boulevard Pierpont Morgan. One of the girls won the tennis tournament. It was quite an affair, the French military band played out there every day. Berry (one of the fellows I was with) and I doubled up with them every morning in our games. They sure showed us some grand times. One afternoon we all rowed across the lake to a bath house and back. Went in swimming and had lunch over there. They wouldn't let us pay for a thing. Not even for the rent of the boat. Have some pictures of them I'll send later. At the "Y" there was a French Opera every evening. Was sure interesting to sit there and watch the wonderfully dressed women come in. My, you folks would have enjoyed it. I never saw such a display of jewelry in my life. And say, one evening after the Opera Berry and I drank with the Princess of Roumania. Real live Princess. The minister to France from Roumania was with her and another swell couple. She does quite a bit of entertaining for the American soldiers. We were just going into the American bar when they entered and invited us to their table. At the time we didn't know who she was. We had gotten used to being pranced around by people dressed like a million and we thought nothing of it. She speaks perfect English, is real light, looked to be about 35 years old. Very pleasant. She wore a diamond on a chain which hung around her neck about the size of a ten cent piece. It was the most beautiful jewel I ever saw, one of those tear diamonds cut about 17,000 times finer than usual. We had quite a nice talk. She asked us what we did, where we lived in the U. S. and told us of her experiences in America. She has only been to New York city. After they left the Madam who owns the place told us who she was. We almost swelled out of shape. We sure had it on the rest of the bunch from then on.

Sunday, the 8th.

Saw Warren last night first time since I came back. I found out where Louise Summers is. I am trying to get back to see her this afternoon.

Have a chair here in the office of my own now. Work all the time. Did I tell you L. Orr got hurt. Happened before I left. I didn't want to go then but he insisted. Not very serious. Have another man in his place, a captain, a fine fellow. More soon.

REPORT AT ONCE

By the order of the United States Public Health Service you are directed, in case of the appearance of an outbreak of influenza in your community, to discontinue all public meetings and close all schools and places of amusement. Report immediately any cases appearing.

DR. V. GESNER,
