Brummer Saw Service In The Dardanelles In April, 1915 And Writes Of Experience

Editor Crook County Journal:
As I formerly lived in your city I thought you would like to get something of this sort and as I have been "over there" I thought I would write a few lines for your paper.
I will try to tell just as it happened at the beginning of the war. I was in England and nothing would content until I enlisted. I was sent to Cork Island for training, remaining there for about two weeks. I was sent to Aldershot, England for divisional training, and the instruction we received there benefitted us more than any other which we received. The brigade I belonged to was under the command of Brigadier General Nichols and the division was commanded by Sir Ian B. Maun. After three months there was a call for volunteer regiments to open the Dardanelles Peninsula and my regiment volunteered to a man.

We were sent to Davenport, England, and from there were loaded on a transport and were on our way to that hell at Suvlar Bay, just below Cape Hellas. The transport arrived off Lemnos, Greece, on the 17th of April, 1915, and we were told there that we were in for an awful time. So we were ordered to be ready at a moments notice to leave the transport. On the 19th of April, 1915, as we were sailing up the straits of the Dardanelles, our ship was fired on by a battery of Turkish artillery. But did no more damage than scare us almost to death. At 12:35 on the same day we were ordered to the boats and before we were half way to land, the Turks opened up in dead earnest. The shrapnel fell around us like hail stones and about half our regiment never reached the shore. The water was full of barbed wire entanglements and some of the boats being overturned in the water, the fellows were obliged to swim, with rifle and pack, that weighs about 65 pounds. You can imagine what it was like.

On reaching the shore we deployed and went forward on the run to the shelter of that famous hill, called Acha Baba, on the top of which the Turks had their batteries. After arriving safely at the bottom of the hill, a roll was called, and out of 3200 men, only 247 answered, as their name was called.
It was enough to make anyone heart sick to see those fine healthy men go down never to rise again, men you had been with three or four months, have their arms, legs and perhaps their eyes put out by those pieces of shrapnel from the Turkish batteries. I distinctly remember one poor fellow who had been hit eighteen times in the right side of his body. I bound up his wounds the best I knew how and sent him to the rear to be fixed up by the doctor. I have seen as many as twenty stretchers lined up in front of the hospital tent, waiting for their turn for Sir Saw Bones, as we called him over there. You know that everybody has to wait his turn in a place like that.

I remember the first night after the fight I thought I would look in the looking glass I carried in my pocket, and my face was as black as any negro that ever came from Africa. One of my best friends who was a corporal in the same company I was, seemed to go absolutely crazy when he came under fire. He was running up the beach singing "you made me love you" at the top of his voice.
After a man is discharged from the British service for some injury he has received in action, he is soon forgotten. Those men who have lost eyes, ears, legs, arms and some of them both, I think should be looked upon as heroes, but they are not in that country, and I hope that when the boys come back from France they won't be treated like the boys are from England. Trench life is much different than most people in this country think. This much I know, because I've been there.

ACCIDENT SUNDAY NEAR POWELL BUTTE

MIRACULOUS ESCAPE FROM VERY SERIOUS INJURY

OCCUPANTS DROP 20 FEET

Mrs. R. N. Doty And Children And Mr. And Mrs. A. J. Stanford And Redmond Are In Car At Time

A Ford car driven by Mrs. R. N. Doty of Redmond, plunged off the bridge at the old river bed near Powell Butte Station Sunday morning. A party consisted of Mrs. Doty and two children and Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Stanford and two children had started on a picnic and just as they were going down the grade west of the bridge, the steering gear caught and Mrs. Doty was unable to stop the car. It went through the railing and fell to the rocks twenty feet below. The car seemed to hang on the edge of the bridge for an instant and spilled the occupants out, with the exception of Mrs. Doty. As the car fell it missed hitting them by a short distance. Mrs. Doty was held in the car by the steering gear and received a few cuts and bruises. All of the occupants were bruised and cut but none seriously.

The injured people were returned to Redmond by the people who were attending Sunday school at Community Hall. The last report was that they were all recovering rapidly.

SOMEBODY'S DOLLAR WILL DO IT

I Wonder If It Will Be Yours?

I will tell you what will happen some night this winter in France. Some night when it's cold and dark. There will be a rustling through the front line trench, where our boys stand guard. And a heavily laden Secretary will make his way along. In his hands will be great steaming pots. In his pockets chocolate and cigarettes.
From one man to another he will go, passing a cup full of hot coffee to hands that tremble with the cold; bringing the comfort of a bit of sweet and a smoke.
Men will hail him cheerily, slapping him on the back and when he has gone things will be a little easier in that trench because he has passed that way.
How much will it cost to make that trip—do you suppose? Counting the pittance that the secretary is paid, and the cost of the chocolate and the cigarettes and all?
Five dollars? Twenty-five dollars? I do not know.
But whether it is five dollars or twenty-five, I'd like to think that it is my five or twenty-five—wouldn't you? That some night when it is cold and lonesome, my money and yours may send a secretary out on that front line trench. Let's make up our minds that we are going to pay for a score of those trips. A score of the nights this winter shall be our nights.
Nights when the boys greet joyously the chocolate and cigarettes that our money provided; and are happier because our representative has passed.

ALLIES WILL NOT STOP DRIVE ON HUN ARMIES

NEWS SAYS BRITISH START ANOTHER BIG OFFENSIVE

PEACE OFFENSIVE FAILS AS YET

Germany Must Surrender And Restore All Destroyed Lands In Order To Satisfy Allies

The drive of the allied armies has not slackened during the week, in fact, it seems to have stiffened instead throughout the west front, and a big offensive is mentioned in the dispatches from the British front today.
The reply of the people to Germany seems to summarize in that the Huns must surrender unconditionally and restore the lands they have devastated during the past four years.
The following paragraphs are taken from the most recent dispatches from the front:
Washington, Oct. 23.—Germany's new note to President Wilson in Official text was delivered to Secretary Lansing at 10 o'clock this morning by Ferderick Oederlin, charge of the Swiss Legation.
It may be stated that there is nothing in the communication to alter the decision of the president that he will not propose an armistice to the allies before the Germans evacuate all occupied territory.
The work on the statement covering the President's action on the note has been completed and will be released tonight at 9 o'clock.

Whereas, our beloved brother, J. H. Crooks, was on the 19th day of October, 1918, by the decree of an overruling providence, called from his earthly suffering to a home where pain and sorrow are unknown, and where the weary find rest—be it therefore:
Resolved, That in the death of brother Crooks, the members of this lodge fully recognize that they have lost one of their number, who was at all times imbued with the pure principles of the order, and whose life and conduct suffer no reproach to be of his character, either as an Odd Fellow, citizen or husband and father.
Resolved, That the sincere and heartfelt sympathies of the members of this lodge be and hereby are extended to the bereaved widow and family of our deceased brother, whose loss we, with them, deeply mourn.

SEND McNARY BACK

"While a want of time precludes any elaboration of the various matters that may engage my endeavors," said Senator McNary at the time of his appointment to the Senatorship, "I advocate and enlist my efforts in behalf of National Equal Suffrage and National Prohibition, as each of these measures has been adopted by the people of the state which I am selected to represent."
"I shall cooperate immediately with any movement which has for its purpose the suppression of gambling and speculation in the necessities of life to the end that the consuming public shall pay a fair profit to the producer only."
On the same day, Oswald West said: "If I pledge he (Senator McNary) has made to the people are kept, and I am sure they will be he will unquestionably be returned to the Senate at the next general election."

Senator McNary has kept his every pledge. He voted for submission of the National prohibition amendment to the Legislatures of the various states. He also voted for National Equal Suffrage and has introduced a bill fixing the prices of many essential commodities. Besides, he has a 100 per cent. record for supporting the President's war program.
Senator McNary should be re-elected for the increased service he will be able to render his state and nation.

A FEW OF THE MANY REASONS WHY GOVERNOR WITHEYCOMBE SHOULD BE REELECTED.

He is loyally, patriotically American.
He has faithfully cooperated with the President in every war time activity.
He was foremost of Governors for preparedness and has earnestly supported a vigorous prosecution of the war.
He has stood for and insisted upon a square deal for both labor and capital. Industrial development of the state and suppression of I. W. W.ism.
He has for more than 20 years earnestly supported and advocated woman suffrage and prohibition and has stood for a better and cleaner state.
He did not assist in organizing the Non-Partisan League in Oregon, neither has he ever worshipped at the shrine of populism and other organizations of doubtful purpose and loyalty.
He has conducted his office patriotically—always has he placed patriotism and efficiency in the public service above party politics.
He has given his earnest consideration and substantial effort in promoting the happiness and comfort of the boys in the service of their country, and, lastly,
He has a record for a sound, business administration and loyal and earnest effort in the nation's present crisis that should command the approval and support of the whole people.
Re-elect Withycombe—why experiment.
