AN OPPORTUNITY

The success of Oregon in all the war work is an example to the state in industrial development, and as the war is over, everyone is now looking to a better condition throughout the state in a business way.

To this end there is a meeting called for December 12-13-14 in Portland, at which the development of Oregon will be discussed in a new light, and what will eventually terminate in the reclamation of arid lands, logged off lands, and other liabilities of the state, change them to real resources, will no doubt be started.

People of the state at large are looking to the Prineville people, who have succeeded in the building of their own railroad, and are bringing to its completion one of the best irrigation projects in the west, and are pointing to the local community as an example in what can and should be done with team work.

It is true of course that difficulties have been met and overcome, in securing supplies and in financing but the local projects are now well provided for, and the result is worth many times the cost and inconvenience that has been occasioned in the stress of development.

After all, nothing is worth while if it can be secured without effort and without price. The trials and inconveniences that we have met have only taught us our strength, and while Prineville will never be the old Prineville that was experienced twenty years ago, it will be a much bigger and better place, and the community surrounding it, which is far more important than the town itself, the town in every instance being incidental and not the main issue, is experiencing the great development that will force prosperity and expansion in the town proper.

The same rule applies in a broader way to the relationship between Oregon and its metropolis.

The fact is dawning on Portland too, and a start is being made there to get some real development under way that will mean much to the state and incidentally to the city.

There is a real opportunity there, one that will mean a quickening of the pulse of commerce, and the homes for thousands, yes hundreds of thousands of people that are now living in over-crowded cities, and this is the most important thing of all.

Every wide awake community should have a real live representative at Portland for the opening of the development meeting December 12, and most of all Prineville should be there with a man who can and will give the community the representation it justly deserves.

Only by such cooperation can our hands be settled, our country improved, and our town made to grow.

Let's don't overlook this opportunity.

ABOUT PRICES

A call made by Great Britain representatives for 200 car loads or more of first class canned goods, in the open market, means that there will be no slump in prices of those commodities for a time at least.

Conditions in the woolen and cotton trade reflect a very firm demand which will maintain prices in those lines at least.

Relaxation of government control in many lines will cause some advancements, with possibly a few declines in prices. The man who was looking for an immediate drop in prices when fighting stopped is looking yet, and will perhaps continue to do so for two years or until the nations have time to adjust themselves.

FINEST STOCK OF WEST NOW ON EXHIBITION

International Stock Show At Stock Yards Opens With Number Of Thoroughbreds Entered

Probably due to the mildness of the winter on the Pacific Coast this year and last, the finest collection of stock exhibited for years is on display at the Union stockyards in the Pacific International Livestock exposition which opened Monday morning and will continue five days.

Fat cattle, hogs, and sheep from Oregon, Washington and Idaho farms are shown and a larger number of animals than for years comprise an attractive exhibit.

Judging of cattle, hogs and sheep began Monday afternoon at 2:30. Ed. Ward Coles of Haines, Ore., is judge of cattle, and A. R. Bohosky, president of the Northwest Sheep Co. is awarding ribbons on hogs and sheep. Today is Chamber of Commerce day and numerous officials from this organization were in attendance.

"I have never seen any finer collection of stock," said L. R. McGee, secretary of the Portland Union stockyards. "The animals are fat and in fine condition. It is a pleasure to handle them."

FAIR STOCK

SANITARY HOUSES FOR HOGS

Quarters and Immediate Premises Should Be Thoroughly Disinfected Every Month.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Hogs should be provided with clean, dry, well-ventilated quarters. Feeding places should be kept clean and the water supply pure. Hogs should be allowed access only to streams the sources and courses of which are known to be uncontaminated. Wallows should be kept clean and supplied constantly with clean water. The houses and immediate premises should be thoroughly disinfected once a month with air-slaked lime or a 5 per cent solution of crude carbolic acid.

Hogs Kept Under Conditions Here Shown Are More Susceptible to Disease Than Those Kept Under Sanitary Conditions.

Animals that show indications of sickness should be immediately isolated and the premises thoroughly disinfected. New hogs brought to the farm should be isolated or quarantined for several days before they are permitted to run with the herd.

Hogs, and especially young pigs, often suffer much from lice. When numerous, lice are a serious drain on vitality, fattening is prevented by them, and hogs so affected are very much more subject to disease. To eradicate lice, dip, spray, or rub hogs with crude oil, crude-oil emulsion, or kerosene-oil emulsion every ten days for three or four applications.

A very troublesome affliction with hogs, is caused by a mite or parasite that pricks the skin of the hog to get tissue fluid. This injury produces a red spot which finally results in a scale under which mites may be found. The symptoms are itching followed by a loss of hair and thickening and cracking of the skin. Treat mange by applying lime sulphur or nicotine dip once every ten days for three dippings. Hogs should be washed thoroughly with soap, water, and brush before dipping, to remove the scales.

PREVENTING RUNTS IN FALL

Problem Confronts Every Producer of Pork—Scrapers Should Be With Big Pigs.

Preventing runts in fall litters of pigs is a problem that confronts every producer of pork. Establishing pens for pigs of the same size, not more than twenty to the pen, is necessary. Pronounced scrapers should be penned with larger pigs. It is also desirable that all the pigs should be eating well at weaning time. Grain, one pound of middlings to ten pounds of milk, placed in a trough easily reached, will teach them to eat naturally. More grain is added until the weaning time ration is one pound middlings to three pounds milk. At two weeks after

No Runts in This Bunch.

Weaning they should be eating about five pounds for each hundred of live weight, when, if pasture is good, no further increase is necessary. The animals should be kept free from lice and worms. If this practice is followed few or no runts will occur.

Clean Wallow Hole Important.

A clean wallow hole is very important. Hogs may use the muddy wallow if no other is available, but if clean water is provided in a concrete wallow they will prefer it to the mud-hole.

Protection From Flies.

Horses, mules and cows should be protected from flies as much as possible. Some of the prepared sprays on the market greatly help in doing this.

HENRY WHITE

Henry White, former ambassador to France, who was named one of the American delegates to the peace conference.

AGREEMENT BEFORE CHRISTMAS EXPECTED

Paris.—December 16 has been definitely set as the date on which the preliminary conferences will begin between President Wilson and Premiers Lloyd George, Clemenceau and Orlando.

The program thus far developed warrants belief that the four nations represented by these men will agree upon the main points of peace before Christmas. The smaller nations are then expected to be consulted as to details.

Germany will not be called on before late in January, it is believed, and then only to hear the results of the allied-American deliberations, and to suggest modifications.

The general feeling here is that once the allies and America have agreed on the main points, they will impose the peace terms upon Germany with little discussion.

YANKS CONTINUE ADVANCE

Karpagorskol Is Taken After a Fight With Bolsheviks.

Archangel.—The Russo-American forces, continuing their advance up the Pinega river over ice and snow-covered roads, have captured the town of Karpagorskol, 120 miles from the town of Pinega, after a fight with the Bolsheviks. This place since the organization of the new government of Archangel, was a Russo-allied provision depot, but it was raided and captured by the Bolsheviks and since then had been the scene of much partisan fighting.

A patrol of 70 Americans scouting along the Vago river south of Shekursk, encountered a ten-fold superior force of Bolsheviks, including cavalry and infantry with many machine guns. The Americans were surrounded, but fought their way out, losing a lieutenant and 12 men killed.

ARMY'S COST IS ENORMOUS

More Than Five Billion Dollars Expended in Year.

Washington.—It cost $5,645,000,000 to run the American army during the year ending June 30 last; $1,368,000,000 for the navy, and $1,516,000,000 for the civil government proper. The shipping board spent $82,000,000, and $181,000,000 was paid out in pensions.

These figures are shown by the annual report of John Burke, treasurer of the United States, to Secretary McAdoo. The report showed the public debt on June 30 was $12,396,000,000.

All Training Corps to Be Demobilized.

Washington.—The complete demobilization of the student officers' training corps comprising units in hundreds of institutions throughout the country has been decided upon by the war department.

Portland, Or.—Lumber manufacturers of western Oregon and western Washington are determined to maintain the wages of their employes at the standard which has prevailed during the war, despite the industrial uncertainty of the immediate future.

This is the substance of one of the principal resolutions adopted at a meeting of representative lumbermen and loggers of the two states held here Saturday. Reduction of wages "even should lumber fall in value," is opposed by the operators.

Continuation of the Loyal Legion of Loggers and Lumbermen was urged as an absolutely necessary part of the organization of the lumber industry, in resolutions adopted. The meeting was conducted under the auspices of the West Coast Lumbermen's association, and was largely attended. Leaders of the industry from all parts of the northwest were present.

INFLUENZA TOLL IS HUGE

Deaths From Epidemic Exceed Casualties of Yankees in War.

Washington.—The recent epidemic of influenza in the United States has caused more deaths than occurred among the American expeditionary forces from all causes from the time the first unit landed in France until hostilities ceased. This announcement by the census bureau was based on unofficial estimates of the total casualties among the overseas forces and reports from 46 cities having a combined population of 23,000,000, which showed 82,306 deaths from influenza and pneumonia from September 9 to November 9.

"Total casualties in the American expeditionary forces," said the announcement, "have recently been officially estimated at 100,000."

The Truth of It.

"Well, Nettie, did you know that we had all come for Thanksgiving?" asked Uncle John, as he chuckled his little niece under the chin.

"I expected you," she said, sweetly. "Mother said that the whole family was coming, and it was a dreadful bore, but that Thanksgiving only comes once a year."
