

COUNTING BY MILLIONS

On the 15th day of December, at 1:55 p. m., in the year 1915, the Ford Motor Company cast the one-millionth Ford Model T motor, the famous power plant of the famous Ford car. It marked a great achievement when 1,000,000 motors had been cast consecutively, without a hair's breadth of change from the original design.

On April 8, at 1:30 p. m., in the year 1919, the Ford Motor Co. cast the three millionth Model T motor, and it was identically the same in every detail, without a change of a hair's breadth in any particular, as the first Ford Model T motor that was cast. 3,000,000 of one piece of mechanism cast, one after the other, without a change, is certainly about as strong evidence of perfection as it would be possible to conceive. Already more than 3,000,000 Ford cars in daily service, and more than 3,000,000 alone carrying this famous Model T power plant.

A further pressing fact is that there has not been a day in the past three years when the Ford Motor Company has not been more than 100,000 behind orders for immediate delivery, and the output at the present time is in excess of 3,000 cars per day.

An unusually good crop of wool was recently clipped from the experimental sheep on the United States Department of Agriculture's Morgan Horse Farm at Middlebury, Vt. Seventeen yearling registered Southdown rams sheared on an average of 8 1/2 pounds of wool each, and 22 yearling registered ewes of the same breed sheared on an average of 8 1/2 pounds each. This, the department sheep specialists say, is a good performance for this breed. About 200 sheep, 50 of which are pure bred, are maintained on the Morgan Horse Farm for experimental purposes. G. M. Rommel and F. R. Marshall of the Department of Agriculture, have gone to Du Bois, Idaho, to witness the shearing of 1,500 breeding ewes kept on the United States Sheep Experiment Station located there.

SPECIAL NOTICE

I wish to thank the firms of Robinson & Clifton, Jordan & Hyde, and also any other firm who took the same stand as did they in regards to exhibiting the photographic samples of one who pays no taxes nor in any manner helps to support the City of Prineville financially and his only desire is to sell his products at an exorbitant price.

The above mentioned firms were offered a paltry sum if they would allow these samples displayed in their show windows and promptly refused. These merchants practice the golden rule and believe in patronizing and protecting those who live in and pay taxes to the support of the city. They not only preach against the catalogue house and traveling fakirs, but refuse to give them aid by not allowing their wares shown in their show windows and this is much to their credit and it is deserving of the trading public's attention.

Some merchants while pretending to discourage mail order business or trading with traveling salesmen who pay no support to the city, will stoop so low as to assist this class when a paltry sum or fee is offered, even knowing that it is a discrepancy toward their fellow business men.

Such has been the case here in town the past week and I would like to ask those who trade here in town to remember those who believe in the golden rule and practice what they preach. We believe in "doing unto others as we would they would do unto us."
