THE CHADICK CHARM
 Married, by fraud, to a man she hated—persecuted by unwelcome attentions—Wilma Wharton turns for aid to "Go Get 'Em Garringer." That she does not appeal in vain is the making of a fine Western melo-drama by John B. Clymer, a Pathe Program feature, which will be shown at the Lyric theater on Nov. 17-18. The principal parts are played by Helen Chadwick, who recently became Douglas Fairbanks' leading lady, and Franklyn Farnum, who is popular both here and abroad as a dashing screen hero.

ing. If you like Westerns, here is on rich in incident and action with the element of charm from one of the most attractive and appealing young actresses on the screen.

FROM SIMPLE LIFE TO WEALTH

There is no woman whose activities on screen and stage have earned her more sincere praise or given her a greater popularity than Evelyn Nesbit. As a result the announcement of the presentation at the Lyric theater on Sunday of "Her Mistake," her latest and no doubt her greatest success, should be warmly welcomed by all local film patrons. Miss Nesbit's commanding beauty and her unusual acting ability, both are displayed to their greatest possible advantage in this new picture. And the extraordinary interest which its coming might be expected to arouse will be even more greatly enhanced

That's Good

A Metro Comedy Gem
WED. & THURS., NOV. 19-20

It is no discouragement to say that this is a "wild and woolly Western melodrama," keyed up to high speed and abundant in thrills and suspense; but, in the hands of such a capable cast, especially selected for this purpose, the story with all of its primitive realism, becomes a perfect offer-

Values of Precious Stones.
 Emeralds ranked with rubies and sapphires as the most costly gems of the ancient world. Then diamonds were worn in a rough state. The art of cutting the precious white stone was not discovered until the fifteenth century, when the flashing brilliance of the diamond was brought to light. Emeralds are still fashionable. They are rare, and good ones are becoming rarer. Carat for carat they are as valuable as diamonds.

Soldiers' Hat Cords.
 The colors of the cords on the hats of soldiers stand for distinctly branches of the army. Blue is for infantry; yellow, for cavalry; red, for artillery; red and white, for engineers; salmon and white, signal corps; maroon, medical corps; black and red, ordnance corps; buff, quartermaster corps; gold and black, commissaries' officer.

Trolley Dirigible.
 Trolley dirigible system, electric motor driven, is proposed for the carrying of mails, particularly for over sparsely settled territory. The pipe from car to gas bag carries electrically heated air for regulating the buoyancy. The trolley cable is wound on a drum, allowing adjustment of altitude.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Yes, if It's Mint Covered.
 Goldfish probably make their home near the banks of the river.—Cartoons Magazine.

Work Makes Them Immune.
 Men who toil in lampblack works are—owing, it is said, to the large amount of carbon they inhale—immune from the white plague, and many sufferers in the early stages of phthisis make considerable sacrifices to obtain employment of this kind. These grimy workers further resemble colliers in that they are remarkably free from diseases of the nervous system, observes a writer in London Tit-Bits.

How Much You Should Weigh.
 A simple way to ascertain one's ideal weight was told recently by Dr. Harvey G. Heck of the University of Maryland, in an address before the Los Angeles County Medical association at Los Angeles, Cal. First, put down 110. Then multiply by 3/4 the number of inches by which one's height exceeds five feet. Add the result of the multiplication to the original 110 and the sum is one's "ideal weight."—Popular Science Monthly.

The Thoughtless Son.
 The old-fashioned genius who used to have to get up at nights and jot down his brilliant thoughts now has a son who can sleep ten hours straight without any difficulty.

Willing to Fall.
 Freddy (who has eaten his apple)—"Let's play at Adam and Eve." Milie—"How do we do that?" Freddy—"You tempt me to eat your apple and I give way."

Lois Meredith, Charles Welleley and Eugene Strong are a few of the many other eminent players included in the supporting company.

RUSSELL THAW SHOWS TALENT
 Little Russell Thaw, who appears with his mother, Evelyn Nesbit, in her latest and greatest photodramatic success, "Her Mistake," gives every promise of soon becoming a film star in his own right. Directors who have watched him act declare that not in several years has a juvenile actor with more real talent been seen on the screen and that it will be almost impossible to prevent his becoming an individually featured player—always assuming, of course, that his mother has not made other unalterable plans for his future. "Her Mistake" will be shown at the Lyric Sunday.

This play, which will be featured at the Lyric theater on Wednesday and Thursday, shows the cabaret in full swing—there are dancing girls, singing girls, girls on bicycles and in fact, all the varied and unusual entertainments seen on this noted roof.
