GREAT LAW MUST BE OBEYED

Mankind Helpless Before the Irresistible March of Progress Known as Evolution.

The old sailing packet crawled along, tacking and trimming, that its sails of unfurled canvas might catch the freshening winds. The skipper, his leathern face seamed with the heavy lines put there by years of buffeting struggle with wind and wave, watched the great engine-driven liner race past him.

A dark bitterness welled up in the old sailing skipper's heart. For that engine-driven liner represented a relentless progress that would not be stayed or delayed. It had driven most of his kind from the face of the waters; it had made cargoes for the few of his kind remaining difficult to obtain and obtainable only at rates that meant at best only a pittance.

On the bridge of the steam-driven liner the captain, as he gazed at the crawling old sailing packet, caught the hum of a mighty motor overhead. His glance turned from the miserable old packet to the swiftly approaching outlines of a giant aircraft. It came from behind and it passed the racing liner even as the liner had passed the packet. And in the heart of the liner's captain welled a dark bitterness. For he understood. The workings of the Great Law were written clearly in the air and sea before him. Even as the day of the skipper of the sailing packet had ended so his own day was nearing its end. A progress that would not be stayed or delayed was overtaking him and his kind.

There is a sadness like unto no other for they who watch and give way before the changing eras, for they represent life's helpless discard.

PUZZLE FOR LEARNED MEN

Figures of White Horses, Cut in English Cliffs Have Never Been Satisfactorily Explained.

Every now and then, naturally enough, a life wave of popular interest eddies around the mysterious white horses cut in the hillsides in various parts of southern England. Sometimes, owing to the encroaching habits of the brush, the chalk which constitutes the lines of the animals fades from low and almost from memory. The process had well-nigh happened to the Westbury White Horse at Baffan, Wiltshire, when the clearing of the bushes laid it bare, and revived inquiries as to its origin, and solicited for its preservation, as well as for the upkeep of its various counterparts elsewhere.

Well-known authorities have it that the horse was cut out to commemorate the victory of King Alfred over the Danes at Etondune, the site of which is not far distant. Uffington, however, has a better specimen as white horses go, though abnormally lean and scraggy in proportions. In size it is nearly 350 ft in length and the same in breadth. It is mentioned in the records of 571 and was long the scene of annual festivities known as the "seourk" festival. The existence of these at the other white horses with which may be included the Cerne Abbas Gie and the Long Man at Wilmington have been the object of much legend and largely unfruitful discussion.

Pro! That Seeds Breathe.

It is easy to demonstrate that germinating seeds take in oxygen and give out carbon dioxide, according to the following experiment described in the Scientific American:

A score or so of peas are placed in a close-fitting jar with a small amount of moisture. After a while the peas start to germinate, but soon they cease all development, because the oxygen in the jar is exhausted. A single pea in a jar of the same size, however, will develop and grow up into a little plant. There is evidently oxygen enough for the needs of the single specimen.

To prove conclusively that there is no oxygen left in the jar in which the number of seeds germinated it is only needful to plunge in a burning match. This instantly goes out. The presence of carbon dioxide in this jar is clearly shown by pouring into it lime water, and the shaking. The lime water becomes milky in appearance. This would not happen in a jar in which there had been no germinating seeds.

Soot to End Civil War.

On the 8th of July, in 1864, Horace Greeley, one of the most famous of the Abolitionists, received a letter from Gage Saunders of Kentucky, suggesting that Clay of Alabama and Holcomb of Virginia, would, with himself, set Greeley and negotiate peace terms for the ending of the Civil war. Greeley was commissioned by Lincoln to take the matter up, but the negotiations came to nothing, as the Confederate delegates did not have the backing of their government, and the war lasted nine months longer. Greeley was a rabid anti-slavery man, but he was not in accord with Lincoln. He was always of the opinion that the slaves could be liberated by reimbursing the southern states their value.

The Main Thing.

"My peevan," said the sympathetic prison warden, "Do let me send you some cake."
 "Thank you, mum. Dat would suit me fine."
 "What k would you prefer?"
 "Any kinnum," said the prisoner, lowering his eye to a whisper. "Just so it's got the in it."—Birmingham Age-Herald

MAMMOTH CAVE LONG FAMOUS

Has Been Acknowledged One of the World's Wonders, Practically Since the Year 1809.

The most famous cavern in America is Mammoth cave, in Kentucky, writes "Niksah" in the Chicago Daily News. Mammoth cave was an old Indian refuge, and the story of redskin adventures is written plain in the skeletons, tomahawks and reed torches that have been found in the cavern depths. Then, in 1809, a white man, a pioneer hunter, followed a wounded bear into the mouth of the great cave, and from that time on Mammoth cave became in American estimation the eighth wonder of the world.

Almost as soon as the white man discovered the cavern he began to make practical use of it. Long before the era of Indian possession bats had inhabited the cavern halls and in the course of time their skeletons had accumulated on the floor, especially near the entrance. These skeletons, containing nitrate, played an important part in the war of 1812, for nitrate, so needed for making explosives, was scarce in the colonies and the Mammoth cave became the main source of supply.

When the country settled down to a period of comfortable prosperity, Mammoth cave became, even more than it is today, a great show place of America. The cave's history is told in the names of the various rooms and galleries. Jenny Lind and other artists visited the cave and sang or played the airs that had made them famous in "Ole Bull's Concert Hall" or other cavern corridors. In a room since named "Booth's Amphitheater," Edwin Booth was inspired to declaim some of the lines of Hamlet before a small and select audience.

IMPROVE ROADS FOR TRUCKS

Bureau of Markets Arrives at Conclusion Motor Vehicles Have Passed Experimental Stage.

Inadequate highways are one of the penalties with which the user of highway transportation must contend, says Bulletin No. 770, recently issued by the bureau of markets. The department arrives at the conclusion that the motor truck has passed the experimental stage, but says that before it can attain its fullest usefulness the highways must be improved.

Good Drainage Necessary.

The most necessary requirement of a good road is a solid, bone-dry foundation. This means good drainage first, last and all the time.

Trees Along Highways.

Trees at a distance of 50 or 60 feet apart along the highway add to its comfort and pleasing appearance.

Makes Hauling Easy.

Easy to town, and easy to ride. Make a farmer's hauling and loads fairly glide.
