

Blow-Resisting Paper Caps.

Antoniashingly strong paper caps, capable of withstanding powerful blows, though extremely light in weight, have been invented by a shipyard employee, and are intended to be worn by workmen whose duties expose them to danger from falling objects. The process by which the novel headgear is produced has not been divulged, says Popular Mechanics, but it is known that chemicals are employed to harden the material, without adding to its weight. Several styles have been made, the lightest weighing about seven ounces, and others only slightly more. In a recent test, a one-pound bolt was dropped on one of them from a height of 40 feet, with the result that a barely perceptible dent was made in the paper. The novel head coverings are proof against water and acids, and are poor conductors of electricity.

Make Your Speech Short.

It's a mark of business ability to say much in few words. It saves time. The man at the other end of the wire doesn't want a sermon from you. He called you for facts, not entertainment. If that were on his mind he would go to the theater and get the real thing. Neither does your correspondent want to read a page to learn that you want six sectional cases, quartered oak, dark finish, size 124, grade 290, shipped by express. He wants your order in the fewest words. It saves him time and it will save yours, too. It's a good thing to aim at the greatest conciseness and exactness of expression. You are apt to make fewer mistakes when you can make few words tell your whole story. You will rise in the business world as you are able to do it.

Diet and Energy

The Salvation Army acquires new merit, just as we thought all had been said, when we learn that half of a doughnut will provide lifting power to carry a man to the top of the Washington monument (a climb of 555 feet), and six walnuts will do the same, while three medium-sized olives will see you comfortably half a mile on your way. A single caramel, says a discouraging article in the American Journal of Medicine, supplies energy for a mile's constitutional. Think of the mistaken picnic luncheons that have been laboriously carried in the past. Reflect that six olives and six caramels are all you need to supply steam for a seven-mile walk, and think how casually these men can be eaten sitting over a supper table.

A Fair Guess.

Famous Russian Crown.

Probably the most valuable and interesting of all the Russian crowns was the one made in 1702 for Catherine II by Baurle, a celebrated jeweler of the day. Since the time of Catherine this crown has been used at the coronation of all the rulers of Russia.

Early Paper Making.

Papyrus from which the word paper is derived, is not paper at all, and the beginnings of the paper industry are not traced back to it, but to the genuine paper made by the Chinese from whom it spread to other races and then to Europe in the twelfth century. About the year 1150 a paper mill was started at Fabriano, Italy which became the principal center for paper making, continuing to the present day. From Italy the art spread to France and Germany and somewhat later to England.

Denby!

Motor Trucks

The growing cost of labor, the general improvement in roads everywhere, the increase in construction work, and the growth of long distance cartage, are increasing the necessity for motor trucks of heavy tonnage. Where capacity loads can be maintained, the large truck gives the largest output per man and the lowest ton-mile cost.

The Denby 4-ton truck is designed and built to give the greatest possible results—to make it pay the owner maximum dividends. Nothing has been left undone that would increase its reliability, its road-ability and its economy in fuel, upkeep and maintenance.

Two of these trucks are running 24 hours every day, hauling lumber for Redford Brothers, into Redmond to the Tum-A-Lum yards there. The second of these was delivered last week after the first had been in use a year.

All Denby supplies and parts are now secured immediately from the factory branch, 19th and Davis Streets, Portland, Oregon.

Call on or write us about these trucks, one of the four tons capacity.
