ANDERSON AT BAKER

In order that he may qualify to meet Ted Thye in competition for the world's middleweight championship, Roy Anderson, manager of the Prineville Athletic club, has come to Baker to arrange if possible a match with Ad Gustavo, who he must eliminate before Thye will consider his challenge. Anderson, who arrived in Baker yesterday says he weighs 165 pounds. He was instructor of wrestling at Camp Taylor, Kentucky, and has a good reputation among lovers of clean wrestling. Anderson expects to meet Thye at some place in eastern Oregon. He had previously challenged the winner of the Gustavo-Norgard bout, which was postponed because of the injury to Norgard's hand.—Baker Herald, April 22.

"Qualified by technical training." Vote for RHEA LUPER, Republican nomination for Public Service Commissioner. Paid Adv.

LAKIN SAYS, "LOOK OVER YOUR TUBES"

"Now that the spring season is opening up and people are beginning to get their cars into action, it is a pretty good stunt to go over your equipment thoroughly before starting on a trip of any distance," said H. R. Lakin, local Firestone dealer yesterday, as he deftly scratched away the surface of a blown out tube and closed it artistically with a "hold fast patch."

"Tubes that have stood idle and empty over winter," he continued, "will bear pretty close inspection, and, especially at the beginning of the season, it is well to have at least a couple of extra ones in your kit when you start out. A little forethought of this kind would save some fellows a long walk every now and then."

The Journal does modern printing in short notice.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH

The meetings at the Christian Church will close Friday night. M. L. Petelle and C. H. Phillips have held a very successful meeting and have found a warm place in the hearts of the people of Prineville. The services will be in the usual order on Sunday. Sunday School at 10 A. ### DOROTHY GISH HAS DELIGHTFUL COMEDY IN "I'LL GET HIM YET"

After the production of a straight drama and a melo-drama, Dorothy Gish has again returned to the field of pure Comedy. In "I'll get him yet" her current picture which will be shown at the Lyric Theatre next week there will be no difficulty on the part of the audience to work out the problems of the play.

"It's giggles we want" said Miss Gish, but in the previews the giggles grew to roars.

"Situations and Dorothy Gish are all that is required to satisfy any audience as long as the film runs," says one critic, "and it is a matter of choice as to whether or not you need the situations."

The picture deals with a girl who has in her own right an entire street railway and interurban system. She marries a newspaper reporter who is in love with her, but almost insane on the "marring money" subject. In order to complete the ceremony she tells him she will never accept another penny from her father, but does not inform him that she is worth several millions in her own name.

The complications that arise when she has to meet the persons who are in charge of her estates, give her the best opportunity for comedy of any picture she has appeared in since "Hearts of the World."

Miss Gish is supported by an exceptionally strong company of players. Richard Barthelmess is her leading man, while George Fawcett, the famous actor appears as her crusty father. The comedy is thoroughly up-to-date, and the situations are highly diverting, all affording Miss Gish delightful opportunities for the display of her manifold talents.

STAR AND DRAMATIST TOO IS THE GREAT NAZIMOVA

Nazimova, the phenomenal Russian artiste, in her latest scenic production, "The Brat" will be the attraction par excellence at the Lyric Theatre on Friday and Saturday next. In "The Brat" Nazimova will be presented in the dual guise of star and dramatist, for it was she, in collaboration with Charles Bryant, who adapted Maude Fullers sensational stage success for her own use in the same role. June Mathis wrote the scenario and Herbert Blache directed the production under the personal supervision of Maxwell Karger, director general.

NAZIMOVA in "THE BRAT"

"The Brat" will show Nazimova, for the first time in her career in the part of an American girl. Latia and other foreign types had been considered Nazimova's meter; but she is said to amaze even her warmest admirers by her remarkable impersonation of the nameless waif of the streets around whom the dramatic action of "The Brat" revolves.

The vicissitudes and final triumph of "The Brat" a child-woman, who's life has been one charitable institution after another until she lands in the chorus, form the theme of Nazimova's version of Maude Fullerton's play. How the brat loses her job because she is too shabby to compete with the other girls; how she is later insulted and taken to the Night Court on a trumped up charge; and how she is noticed by an author who takes her home to study her type for his new novel, are the beginnings of a romance that has a distinctly original flavor and is pungent with wit and satire.

Charles Bryant, who has been Nazimova's leading man in every one of her great scenic vehicles save "The Red Lantern" again plays opposite the brilliant Russian star in the role of Mac Millian Forrester, the author. Others in the splendid cast are Frank Currier, Henry Kolker, Darrell Foss, Amy Veness, Bonnie Hill, Millie Davenport and Ethelbert Knott.

Among the spectacular and unusual settings provided for the production of the Night Court in New York and a fashionable theatre, which was built on the stage at the Nazimova studios especially for the picturization of "The Brat."
