JUST BETWEEN US

A second time in the past dozen years, it becomes necessary for me to tell my many good friends adieu, in my editorial capacity on this publication.

It is but fitting that I give an accounting of my conduct and trust, covering the exactly five and a half years of my expiring term as editor of this publication.

In the issue of the Journal dated January 7, 1915, the following editorial was run:

"The prime object of the Journal will be to advocate and stand for the best interests of Prineville and Crook County and the irrigation and development of all parts of interior Oregon.

"Many things are badly needed by Prineville. For example the irrigation of the 30,000 acres of land adjoining the town on the North, etc.

"At the same time the interests of the people living in the great country to the south and east of us will not be overlooked. I feel that the development of the country is of far more importance than municipal improvements and the interests of the farmers and stockmen are of first importance in the development of this town."

As to just how well the paper has fought for the things mentioned above it is for you to judge.

The facts are that the irrigation of the lands mentioned is now accomplished, Prineville has its own railroad which is a great success, business of all kinds is adding momentum every day.

Just what part, if any, the Journal has played in these things it is not our duty to estimate or mention.

In this connection we wish to add however that we are extremely gratified at the existing conditions.

In the future months at least my time will be divided between the development of irrigated land in the district mentioned above, and the publication of the Western Stock Grower, which I expect to edit and with which I hope to make the livestock center of the Northwest at Prineville where it should be logically located.

In passing the management and editorial destinies of the paper to new hands, I feel that no better talent could be found anywhere than that included in the concern which is formulating for that purpose, and that your Journal will be a better paper in the future, because of more people being interested in its publication, and their ability to do the work at hand.

Finally I wish to thank the people who have assisted in the widening of the scope of this publication, which has grown from a small shop to one where seven or more people are employed at times, all busy in the affairs of the plant.

There is almost no limit to the resources and possibilities of this community, and I believe now as I have always believed, the best factor for bringing about the most desirable conditions in the entire community is a strong, vigorous newspaper, and you have that in the Journal.

The destiny of the paper lies largely with the people of the community and the future of the community itself is even more dependent on its newspapers.

GUY LAFOLLETTE.

Electric Ovens.

Electric heat finds its widest use in ovens, which have proved especially valuable in the automobile industry for baking the Japan on car bodies. By this means Japan is baked on 3,000 bodies every day. Other large users of such ovens are telephone and typewriter factories, foundries, makers of iron frames for beds and cots and manufacturers of chemicals. Electric devices of the sort are employed for baking effervescent salts, and for drying a large variety of products requiring well-regulated heat and clean air in the oven itself.

"Electoral College."

Properly speaking, there is no such institution as an electoral college. The electors, who are voted for by the people, meet in their respective states and cast their votes for president and vice president. These are sealed and sent by special messenger to the vice president of the United States, acting as speaker of the senate. He delivers them to the speaker of the house, who in the presence of both houses of congress assembled, opens the vote and declares the result.

J. BRUCE KREMER

J. Bruce Kremer, vice chairman of the Democratic national committee, who called the Democratic convention to order at San Francisco.

DENY PROPOSAL TO CANCEL ALLIED DEBTS

Washington.—No proposal has been made to the United States by the allies for the cancellation of their debts to this government or suggesting that their payment be made contingent upon the payment to them of reparations by Germany. This was reiterated by treasury officials in commenting on cabled reports indicating that the subject had been under discussion at allied conferences.

Regardless of what the views of administration officials might be, congressional action would be required for any action of this nature.

The secretary of the treasury in deferring the interest payments on certain of the allied debts, is acting within limitations under the loan acts of congress beyond which the administration cannot go, whether it so desires or not.

WOMEN'S HATS NECESSITIES

Milliners Subject to Prosecution for Profiteering, Says Official.

Washington.—Women's hats, plain or adorned, are necessities of life under the meaning of that term as used in the Lever act, Howard Figg, special assistant to the attorney-general, has ruled.

Mr. Figg's ruling was in reply to an inquiry to the National Retail Milliners' association as to whether women's hats come within the range of the act under which the department of justice is authorized to prosecute for profiteering in necessities.

Breadstuffs Exports Increase.

Washington.—Breadstuffs exported in May amounted to $99,000,000 or an increase of about $3,000,000 over the same month last year. Exports of meat and dairy products, valued at $51,000,000, showed a decrease of $42,000,000 from May, 1919, it was announced by the department of commerce.

21 Baptist Delegates Injured.

Buffalo, N. Y.—Twenty-one delegates attending the Northern Baptist convention were injured in the collapse of a wooden structure upon which more than 500 persons were standing to have a group photograph taken. None of the injuries is considered serious.
