Is Your Money Supporting the Government?

At this critical period in our history our manufacturers are offering their mills and our young men are offering their services to the United States government. Would you like to do your share and help, by putting your money where it will support the new Federal Reserve Banking System, which the government has established to stand back of our commerce, industry and agriculture?

You can do this by opening an account with us as part of every dollar so deposited goes directly into the new system, where it will always be ready for you when wanted.

Last Big Block of the Canadian Pacific Reserved Farm Lands

THIS announces the offering of the last big block of the Canadian Pacific Reserved Farm Lands. Until this block is disposed of, you can secure at low cost a farm home in Western Canada that will make you rich and independent. The country is ideal for mixed farming as well as grain growing. Later, the same lands can be bought only from private owners—and naturally, prices will be higher. Never again on the North American Continent will farm lands be offered at prices so low.

Your Last Big Opportunity

This block contains both fertile open prairie and park lands in the Lloydminster and Bedford Districts of Central Alberta and Saskatchewan. You can buy farm lands on the rich prairie of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta at prices averaging about $25 an acre. Or land in Southern Alberta under an irrigation system of unending water from 800 an acre and up.

20 Years to Earn and to Pay

The Canadian Pacific offers you this land under a plan of long term, easy payments that is remarkable in the history of farm investments. You pay down 10%. Then you have no payment on the principal until the end of the fourth year, then fifteen annual payments. Interest is 5%. In Central Saskatchewan, sugar wheat grows the world's prize wheat. World's prize oats were grown at Lloydminster.

Lands Under Irrigation

In Southern Alberta, the Canadian Pacific Railway has developed the largest individual irrigation undertaking on the American Continent. This district contains some of the best lands in Canada. An unending supply of water is administered under the Canadian Government. Prices range from $50 an acre up, do the same easy payment terms. This is an opportunity to invest twenty years to pay back.

No Taxes on Improvements

There's a small tax on the land— seldom more than $10 an acre for all purposes but there are no taxes on your improvements or personal effects. Good markets, modern schools, roads, churches, amusements, make farm life desirable and attractive. Here you can achieve independence.

No Sale Without Investigation

The Canadian Pacific will not sell you a land until you have inspected it. You must be satisfied—and every question answered— before taking up your home. Investigation is invited and made easy. This announcement calls attention to the last great block of Canadian Pacific Reserved Farm Lands.

Character is Greatest of Riches
The only asset which we carry away at the close of life is the asset which inheres in character, in individuality. What we have copied, what we have accumulated from without, will not count for much. We can only take with us what we are—solid, stable character. We can only take with us the wealth which inheres in our personality, the wealth of our individuality. Naked we came into the world, and naked we go out of it.

There is no other wealth as great as the riches of a fine personality. These are the greatest riches compared with which money wealth is poverty itself.

"He has money, but little else." Don't let people say this of you. But let them instead say as Lincoln said of Walt Whitman, "There goes a man." Whatever else they say, let them say that you are a real man, that you have enriched the world by your service, that the world is better because you have lived in it.

What is fear? Whence comes its power to strangle and render weak, poor, and inadequate the lives of so many? It has absolutely no reality. It is purely a mental picture, a by-product of the imagination, and the moment we realize this it ceases to have power over us.

If fear, in all its phases, could be removed from the human mind, civilization would go forward by leaps and bounds. It is this ghastly spectre that is holding many people down. It causes more suffering, more loss, more misfortune, more failure, than any other actual human factor.

The Web Begun

The words of the wise old adage run:

God sends thread for the web begun
Never a need for warp or woof
Under the elder's shabby roof—
N'er to his help will the glad fates run:

God sends thread for the web begun
Towards plead to be shown the end
Where touch triumphal and plaud-its blend.

Plan of your lifetime, plan most dear?
Why did you file the new year start
Leaving you idle of head and heart?
Why at the stint is there nothing done?

God sends thread for the web begun
Cowards plead to be shown the end
Where touch triumphal and plaud-its blend.

Waiting this vision, the coward dies
Bitter tears in his dimming eyes
Had he but started, he might have won—

God sends thread for the web begun.

There is just one unpardonable business sin: making explanations why you fail to get better results. And they are not worth listening to. If you don't get the results, there are just two reasons: Either the job is too big for you, or you are too small for the job, and you can take your choice. All the explanations and excuses you can think of mean nothing else but that you are not big enough for the job.

Cheep Up!

There is no field so barren,
But some unseen flower
Sneeds abroad its sweetness
Hour by hour.

There is no night so cheerless,
But the morning's sun
Drives away the shadows
One by one.

So it is in life, when the
Clouds obscure the sky,
The sun shines all the brighter—
By and by.

It is easy in the world to live after the world's opinion. It is easy in solitude to live after our own, but the great man is he who in the midst of the crowd keeps with perfect sweetness the independence of solitude.—Emerson.

Many a heart is hungry, starving,
for a little word of love
Speak it then, and as the sunshine
gilds the lofty peaks above,
So the joy of those who hear it sends its radiance down life's way,
And the world is brighter, better,
for the loving words we say.

What we can do is a small thing; but we can and will aspire to great things, thus, if a man cannot be great he can yet be good in will; and what he, with his whole heart and mind, love and desire, wills to be that without doubt he most truly is.

Success in life is not so much a matter of talent or opportunity as of concentration and perseverance.

This column is intended as an antidote for the blues.

Tain't Th' Same.

Guess my tackle is the best
Rod o' steel an' fancy flies,
Lines that stand the toughest test,
Reels enough for every size,
Yet when I fishin' go
An' recall the early fame
Of a boy I used to know,
Tain't the same.

Uster own a hickory rod,
Hook, cork, sinker, nothin' more,
Uster turn the garden soil
After work'longside the door;
Later angle in the brook,
Speckled trout aroun' me came,
Seemed to hanker for my hook—
Tain't the same.

There I'd sit and fish and fish,
Starin' at th' quiet pool;
Sit an' watch an' wait an' wish—
Quite fergettin' home an' school,
Often caught a lickin, My!
Dad was quick to place the blame!
Fishin' cost this youngster high—
Tain't the same.

Fishin' and inventin' tales,
Kind of skatin' round the truth,
Is a sport that never stales
In the golden days o' youth
Got the tackle that's the best,
Yet th' sport seems gettin' tame;
Wha's th' tackle thout the zest?
Tain't the same.
—N. Y. Central Lines Magazine.

A REAL ARTIST

Some of the workmen on the new Christian church buildings were complimenting Rev. Brink on his ability to help out in about any place necessary. He gracefully admitted that he was a pretty handy man but said his skill was nothing to compare with that of a stonemason he once knew. The curious part of it was that the mason was a nigger who had only one arm.

"How did he manage it if he has only one arm?" questioned one of the men.

"Why" said Brink, "he holds his chisel between his teeth and hits himself behind the head with a hammer."—Winamac Democrat.

A prosperous farmer has gained the reputation of being the stingiest man in his town and consequently is not the general favorite with his neighbors.

He owns an old horse which, to put it mildly, is very thin. As if to make up for lack of flesh on his body, however, the animal has a head many sizes too large. The other week he went to the expense of a new collar for the animal. A few minutes later he was back at the saddler's with the collar.

"Don't you know nothin'?" he blurted out. "You've made it too small. I can't get it over his head!"

"Over his head?" replied the saddler. "Man alive, it wasn't made to go over his head. Back him into it!"—Chicago Daily News.

Kid—How old is that lamp, Ma?
Ma—Oh, about three years.

Kid—Turn it down, it's too young to smoke.

An eleven-year-old girl was winding up her rebuttal in a rural school debate. The subject was: Resolved, that the horse is more useful than the automobile.

"And" quoth the young speaker, "if you have horses, you can raise horses. But if you raise an automobile, you have to have a jack."

In Minnesota last year, a little Swede presented himself to a certain schoolmar'm for instruction.

What's your name? the teacher asked.

Yonny Oleson.
How old are you?
Ay not know how old ay bane.

Well, where were you born? continued the teacher.
Ay bane not born at all; Ay got stepmutter.

The village paper intended to eulogize the local veteran as one of the most distinguished of our battle-scarred heroes.

A lapsing proof reader let it be printed battle-scarred, of course the irate colonel demanded an apology and correction. The following issue announced that by mistake reference had been made to Colonel Brown which failed to express the high esteem in which he was held by his fellow citizens, and that the sentence should have read; Colonel Brown was one of our most distinguished battle-scarred heroes."

Smith—Who are you working for now?
Jones—Some people—wife and five children.

Might Charge the Valet.

A South Wales miner charged with trapping birds was found to be wearing three coats. As this might have been due to an oversight on the part of his valet it was not included in the charge.—Punch, London.

Incas' Marvelous Dye.

Garments of the Incas, dyed with indigo before Columbus discovered America, have been found in ancient tombs in Peru, according to Doctors M. A. Velasquez and A. Maldonado of Lima. The blue dye has not even begun to fade.

Maybe That's So.

Jud Tunkins says many a man would be more prosperous if he could get as enthusiastic over his own business as he does over the efforts of a perfect stranger to land a hit that'll bring in a run.—Washington Star.

Control That Is Important.

It is easy to forget a kindness and to remember a kick. Yet controlling our recollections is almost as important as controlling our temper.—Elliot.

Penalty of Conceit.

Lots of failures can be traced to the belief that other people are not quite so smart as we are.—Boston Transcript.

Name Greyhound.

The name greyhound appears to have no reference to the color, but is derived from the Icelandic "grey," meaning a dog.
